NAVAL PARLEY TODAY ENTERS CRITICAL TIME

Delegates Expected to Begin Talking Actual Figures Soon.

CHIEF DIFFICULTIES UNDISCUSSED AS YET

Deliberation of France's Scheme Only Definite Progress to Date.

U. S., BRITAIN SILENT ON TECHNICAL WORK

America May Offer Plans That Will Temporarily Curb Good Will.

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON.

London, Feb. 2 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—With much of the "heavy underbrush" of formalities and methods of procedure out of its way the London naval conference enters a critical phase tomorrow, the beginning of its third week of work.

Some of the chief movers of the American and other delegations are nervous lest the inevitable sharp arguments and initial wide divergencies of opinion that will emerge in the pending negotiations may change the tone of the press of the five strongest naval powers, groping together here for a road to international peace. Thus far, the world press admittedly has been on the whole friendly and optimistic.

The conference enters its third week with only one achievement to its credit—adoption as a basis for discussion of the proposed French compromise between rival methods of determining how limitation is to be effected, by total tonnage or by categories.

May Talk Figures Soon.

It is anticipated that this week the delegates will begin to talk figures, gingerly at first, in an effort to fill in the blanks in the draft of the French proposal presented to the conference last week. Upon the success of the various delegations in this effort rests acceptance, rejection or amendment of the French scheme.

Probably the most acute political analyst among all the delegates here told me today that he is neither optimistic nor pessimistic. Since none of the chief difficulties has yet been tackled with bare hands he thinks predictions as to ultimate success or failure are as yet meaningless, and he expressed fear that the too optimistic writings of correspondents to date may be changed when the rows start.

On the other hand, he said that forebodings are equally premature.

Warning Is Sounded.

It is advisable at this moment to sound a word of warning as to what may come from the American delegation itself. While there has been no difficulty throughout in finding out in general terms what the French, Italians and Japanese have been considering and discussing, the British and Americans have kept remarkably silent about their technical work. But for three days last week the American naval advisers worked hard and long with our delegates over technical questions involved in the American program, and it can be inferred that expert pressure, loyally supported by Secretary of the Navy Adams, will result in proposals that may seem temporarily to nullify the splendid work of the nontechnical delegates in spreading good feeling and the impression that all existing differences can be reconciled.

It is even possible that some of our delegates would prefer not to make the initial demands that we shall make, but when it come to figures, our delegation, like every other, must take a nationalist point of view, and thereby will incur sharp criticism. A demand for 21 cruisers instead of 18 is a case in point.

French Plan Only Achievement.

A tendency unduly to magnify the importance of the French tonnage compromise proposal is inevitable because it stands alone to date as a positive achievement. But those who have taken part in the negotiations believe the most hopeful sign is what Premier Andre Tardieu calls the "will to agree," which undeniably exists. The French delegation came here half convinced that some Anglo-American understanding had been reached which France could not accept and prepared to withdraw from the conference, with the assured support of French public opinion. That this is true has been frankly admitted by Tardieu himself. Some of the British and Americans, on the other hand, came in a mood of fear and suspicion about the probable attitude of the Latin powers.

All the misunderstandings have been swept away and Tardieu, as well as Foreign Minister Aristide Briand, is now convinced that a five-power treaty is in French interests. The skilful, patient negotiations whereby France, from feeling her-

Schafer Accompanies Liquor Raiding Police

Wet Reveals He Has Been Gathering Dry Facts First Hand.

REP. JOHN C. SCHAFER.

Representative John C. Schafer, of Wisconsin, revealed himself last night as an unofficial ringside observer at police raids in at least three precincts during the last several months to view prohibition at first hand for a vigorous broadside he intends to fire against the drys within a short time in the House.

Upon questioning, he frankly admitted that he was the "invited guest" who had accompanied police of the Second, the Fifth and the Seventh Precincts on forays during recent months, beginning as early as October.

"Why, certainly I've been going on these raids," declared the stalwart wet. "I've gone on quite a good many of them, particularly in the Second Precinct, where Capt. Ogden T. Davis and Lieut. J. W. Pierson are close friends of mine."

"I've also stopped in for visits and for raids at the Fifth Precinct, the precinct in which I reside, and also out at the Seventh Precinct station at Georgetown."

Apparently ill content to accept the cold facts and figures tendered him regarding prohibition enforcement for his frequent outbursts against prohibition, the representative from wet Milwaukee has gathered a mass of data which he declared had equipped him with considerable new ammunition for further attacks in the House.

"Surely, I've been doing considerable gumshoeing. I want to see how prohibition works at first hand, and one of the best ways to do it is to accompany these police when they go out for liquor violators. I've been in houses with them; I've seen them arrest men and women with liquor; and I've frequented these precinct stations to talk with these people after they've been put behind the bars.

"I wish some people could see the ravings, the crazed antics of those liquor drinkers. Yet in spite of these facts, the dry crusaders continue to rant that the Federal prohibition laws result in temperance. Those people behind the bars are

ROBINSON PREDICTS SUCCESS OF PARLEY

OUTLINES U. S. POSITION

New York, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, member of the United States delegation to the naval conference at London, today told an American radio audience that "previous conferences and diplomatic negotiations have unquestionably prepared the way for probable success" of the conference.

Speaking from London over a hookup of the Columbia Broadcasting system, the Democratic leader in the Senate requested his colleagues in that body "not to grow impatient because of the delay here."

He asked them to think of the delays in the Senate "since the tariff bill was brought forth," and continued:

"Surely we shall not fail here without full consciousness of the significance of our failure. It means a renewal and quickening of naval construction and consequent anxiety among the people of the naval powers certain to bring forth insecurity and suspicion."

Outlining some points of the American delegation's position, Senator Robinson said:

"We would abolish the submarine. Failing in that, our desire is to restrict its number and its use against merchant vessels.

"Succeeding in arrangement after cruisers, submarines and destroyers, we desire also to reduce the battleship replacement program contemplated by the Washington conference treaty. All limitations and reductions supported by our delegation are conditioned that equality between Great Britain and the United States shall result."

The senator mentioned several of the difficulties attendant upon the conference, but said "We hope in concert with other delegations to find a basis of agreement fair to all."

LEAKING FUMES KILL THREE IN BALTIMORE

FOUR FIREMEN SUFFER

Baltimore, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Three persons were killed and ten overcome here today by gas fumes escaping from a 4-inch gas main in the northwestern part of the city, broken by frost leaving the ground. The dead were all members of one family. Six of those overcome lived in adjoining houses and four were firemen who responded with resuscitating apparatus.

The dead are Henry Witzler, 69; his wife, Mary Witzler, 69, and their son, Patrick Witzler. Their bodies were discovered by firemen.

Presence of the gas was detected by Miss Lauretta King, who was awakened by the coughing of her 4-year-old step-brother, Earl Bayne. She found her mother and stepfather overcome, and notified the police.

Fire department ambulances were rushed to the scene, and in an adjoining house Mrs. Eva Siske and her daughter, Eva, were found overcome. The ten who suffered from the effects of the gas were taken to hospitals and all but four were able to return to their homes later in the day.

Gas officials said the fracture in the main was caused by the street settling as frost was leaving the ground.

Shielding His Assailant, Veteran Racketeer Dies

New York, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—His lips sealed to the last, Gabriel Mucci, described by police as a veteran Greenwich Village racketeer, died today of two gunshot wounds he received last night while standing in a lower West Side street.

The two shots were heard by a detective and patrolman, who rushed to the scene, but the assailant had fled. Mucci steadfastly refused to say a word when questioned at St. Vincent's Hospital.

Undersea Speaker Devised To Aid Submarine Rescues

Tests Conducted at Navy Yard Prove Efficacy of Instrument.

A device which will enable persons aboard a rescuing vessel to communicate with men trapped in a submarine on the ocean floor has been developed by the Navy Department, most of the experiments having been conducted at the Washington Navy Yard, it was learned yesterday. Although the tests have not been completed, they have progressed far enough to convince Navy experts that the device is practicable and will be intensely valuable in submarine rescues.

Capt. Willis McDowell, chief engineer of the Washington Navy Yard, admitted yesterday that the experiments are under way but he said that the Navy Department is not yet ready to put the device into regular operation. It now bears the name of "undersea speaker."

The instrument, which may be used either with radio or with wires, will Quarrels With McBrien to Figure in Story of Sister.

RELATIVES TO COME FROM OTHER CITIES

Burkinshaw Expects to Issue About 100 Subpenaes During Quiz.

Investigation of the death of Mrs. Aurelia Fischer Dreyfus, beautiful young divorcee who was killed in a mysterious plunge from a balcony at the Potomac Boat Club at the conclusion of a dance on October 20, will be started by the grand jury today, with 31 witnesses subpenaed to appear.

Among the first to be heard will be relatives of the dead girl who will reveal the circumstances immediately surrounding her death, and tell of her relations with Edmund J. McBrien, New York broker, who was her companion on the night of the fatal dance.

Miss Freda Fischer, of 1504 Olive street northeast, sister of Mrs. Dreyfuss, will tell the jury of various occasions when McBrien is alleged to have quarreled with Aurelia. Her story will be corroborated also by William Fischer, a brother, and others who were present at the dance.

To Tell of First Meeting.

Mrs. Peter Knorr, wife of a Washington newspaper correspondent, will tell the jury of Aurelia's first meeting with McBrien in an automobile when the two girls were driving up Fifth avenue in New York in 1922, and of her subsequent friendship with McBrien and Albert E. Guimares, Porto Rican for whom Aurelia helped establish an alibi when Guimares was arrested in connection with the murder of Dot King, "Broadway butterfly," in 1923.

Helmuth Fischer, of Washington, another brother; Mrs. Louise Reinberger, of Youngstown, Ohio, a sister; Mrs. Johanna McNamee, of Thrifton, Va., another sister, and Mrs. Dreyfus' mother, Mrs. Carl Fischer, also are scheduled to appear before the grand jury today. Mrs. Fischer will tell the jury, among other things, that on the day following her daughter's death, McBrien had called at their home here and taken away all of Aurelia's letters and personal papers, including various documents reported to have had a bearing upon the murder of Dot King. AUTO MAKERS SEEK HOOVER AID, IS CLAIM

Reprisals on Tariff by France and Germany Thought Feared.

CHARGES ADVANCED BY SENATOR WALSH

Any Move by President Held Embarrassing to Ambassadors.

PRESENT MEASURE APPROVED BY BOTH

Montanan's Statement Is Issued by Democratic Committee.

(Associated Press.)

A statement that eighteen automobile manufacturers of Detroit had appealed to President Hoover to protest to the French and German governments against any reprisals on American-made automobiles and parts for "prohibitive" tariffs carried in the Hawley-Smoot bill was made yesterday by Senator Walsh, of Montana, acting Democratic leader in the Senate.

Issued through the Democratic national committee, the statement said the auto makers were "apprehensively awaiting" an answer from Mr. Hoover. Exports to France alone amounted to 15,000 automobiles and 700 trucks worth $32,000,000 last year, Senator Walsh said, adding that under "the proposed French retaliatory tariff" this number would "shrink to an inconsequential number."

Recalling that Ambassador Edge at Paris and Ambassador Sackett at Berlin, were members of the Senate finance committee and helped rewrite the House tariff bill before they assumed their foreign posts, Senator Walsh said the Detroit manufacturers probably were "unmindful of the embarrassment" in which they would involve the President and the two ambassadors in seeking intercession in their behalf.

Both Were Committee Members.

"Both Ambassadors Edge and Sackett," he said, "were members of the finance committee which levied prohibitive duties on French and German importations, and as loyal protectionists they gave sanction to the duties against which French and German manufacturers generally have protested and would have their countries retaliate on America by erecting special tariff barriers to increase the difficulties of the importation of her autos."

It would seem, therefore, the Montanan asserted, that in asking the two ambassadors to protest to the French and German governments, the President has "forced his ambassadors into the position of sup-

Treasury Discloses 206 New Millionaires

Nation's Prosperity in 1928, Attributed to Rising Stock Market, Leads to Increase of $2,052,000,000 in Net Income.

(Associated Press.)

Prosperity of the Nation in 1928, attributed by Treasury officials to a rising stock market, created 206 new millionaires during the twelve months, when the country's total net income of individuals aggregated $24,625,488,175, an increase of $2,052,170,268 over the previous year.

Statistics compiled from the 4,050,959 income tax returns filed for 1828 showed that of the 2,434,640 persons who paid tax 496 had net incomes of $1,000,000 or more, while 24 had incomes of $5,000,000 or more. The millionaire class had a total net income of $1,073,706,325 and paid $178,525,926 in taxes.

Their incomes were divided as follows: Two hundred and forty-one persons in the $1,000,000 to $1,500,000 class had a net income of $290,196,100; 105 in the $1,500,000 to $2,000,000 class had $181,575,771; 89 in the $2,000,000 to $3,000,000 class, $214,718,178; 20 in the $3,000,000 to $4,000,000 class, $69,502,210; 17 in the $4,000,000 to $5,000,000 class, $75,477,270; 24 in the $5,000,000 or over class, $242,236,796.

The number of returns filed for the year decreased in comparison to 1927 by 50,588 but the tax collected showed an increase over the previous year of $316,014,283, while the average amount of income reached $6,078.93 and the average tax liability was $281.97.

The number of persons having net income of more than $3,000 but under $5,000 more than doubled during the year, a total of 3,114,489 making returns in that bracket, while in the previous year 1,209,345 returns were received from that class. The $5,000 to $10,000 bracket showed a decrease of 6,500, only 561,114 of such returns being received. The $10,000 to $25,000 bracket increased 13,000, to a total of 265,438 persons.

The huge increase in the aggregate income of all reporting income tax payers since 1913 was shown in tables compiled by the bureau. This showed that in 1913 a total of 357,589 persons reported net income of $3,900,000, while in 1917 3,472,890 reported net income of $13,700,000,000.

In 1914 only 60 persons reported income of $1,000,000 or more. This class reached a peak of 206 in 1916, just before the war, and declined to 21 in 1921, after which there was a gradual increase to 207 in 1925 and 231 in 1926.

The total income tax collected from individuals for 1928 was $1,142,252,780. Corporations paid taxes of $1,059,302,096, an increase of $51,320,322 over the previous year. For the year, 473,353 corporations made returns, and of these 257,521 had net income amounting to $9,537,533,143 and gross incomes of $113,123,180,222.

The bureau's statistics showed that of the total individual income, $10,263,317,251 was from wages and salaries, $3,288,963,184 from business, $1,940,274,581 from partnerships; $2,943,173,181 from profit from sale of real estate, stocks, bonds, &c.; $1,843,339,590 from capital net gain from assets held more than two years; $2,061,471,008 from interest and investment, and $4,403,153,965 from dividends on stock of domestic corporations.

SENATOR'S BLESSING GIVEN YOUNG COUPLE

Honeymooners at Norfolk Tell of Love After Their Meeting Last Fall.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

(Copyright, 1930, by The Washington Post Co.)

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 2.—A dread of the Washington social machine was behind the spectacular elopement Saturday of Margo Couzens and William Jeffries Chewning, jr.

To have announced their engagement would have meant a big, formal wedding. Also it would have meant a round of well-meant but grueling parties, and rather than go through that they decided to elope.

The 19-year-old bride, outspoken daughter of an outspoken father, the enormously rich senator from Michigan, James Couzens, and the 26-year-old bridegroom, a Washington bank clerk descended from a royal governor of Virginia, so told me here today in a remarkable interview.

"Personally," said the spirited little bride, her blue eyes flashing, "I think big weddings are messy, don't you, darling?"

"Terribly messy," agreed the tall, good-looking bridegroom.

Radiant Honeymoon Couple.

Mr. and Mr Ch wning were located here in the Monticello Hotel. They had arrived in the morning after an overnigh ttrip from Baltimore, where they were married on Saturday.

The two were as radiant as the sun that had blessed the first day of their honeymoon.

On the boat with them had come the bride's Ford coupe, and in this—a symbol of the industrial gold mine that gave her father his millions—they had been touring the countryside all morning and afternoon.

They had decided to grant an interview and "get it over with." "Oh, we have some news for you," said Mrs. Chewning excitedly. "Father has forgiven us and has said he will welcome us home. Isn't that nice."

She had talked with the senator earlier on the long-distance telephone. In fact, she had talked to him twice.

In her rambling, delightful way, Mrs. Chewning told the whole story of her romance, and also revealed the plans she and her husband have for the future.

Elopement Decided Upon.

She said that she did not think so much of her husband when she first met him, but that he grew on her "terribly," that they became engaged about two weeks ago, but had not planned to get married until March; that they decided to elope when they went to the Bal Boheme at the Willard and heard people speculating about their engagement.

In the future, Mrs. Chewning said, she is going to give up everything for her husband except her horse. They are going to have a little apartment, she said, and are going to live entirely on her husband's salary. He is manager of the new accounts department of the West End Branch of the Washington Loan & Trust Co., Washington.

"And there won't be any maid, either," said Mrs. Chewning. "I am going to do all the work myself. Oh, I'll be able to do it all right. Didn't I have four years of domestic science?"

She got this training at the Sacred Heart Academy in Detroit and at the

Low Grade Personnel Of Prisons Is Assailed

FRANK O. LOWDEN.

New York, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—An urgent need of improvement in the personnel of prisons and jails of the country is stressed in the report to the National Crime Commission by the subcommittee on pardons, parole, probation, penal laws and institutional correction, made public today by the chairman, Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois.

The report on penal administration as related to job analysis, personnel and civil service, carries a foreword by Mr. Lowden in which he says: "the solution of the crime problem depends upon many factors, not least of which, we believe, is the problem of personnel."

Penal administration advancement, the committee contends can be brought about only through acceptance of the present-day business principle of hiring and training only the fittest of men and developing an experienced personnel with a system of promotion.

The report asserts that development of an efficient force of guards and wardens has not kept pace with other modern prison reforms and that the public has not been aroused to the necessity of building up staffs adequate to cope with existing situations found in the various penal institutions.

With few exceptions, the salaries paid wardens and prison guards are

WEEK-END REPORTS TO AID CHEST FUND

Big Increase Is Expected on Account of Pay Days Intervening.

RABBI WILL BE SPEAKER

Following a busy week-end in which residential sections were covered by the workers in the Metropolitan Unit and the Group Solicitation Unit caught the end of the month and end of the week pay days in organizations employing 25 or more, an unusually large amount of contributions is expected to be reported at today's meeting of the Community Chest campaign workers at the Mayflower at 12:30 o'clock. Rabbi Abram Simon, of the Washington Hebrew Congregation and a nationally known figure in Jewish circles, will be the speaker at today's meeting.

While the terrifically bad weather of the first campaign days played a large part in reducing the amount of contributions reported, the Chest is still more than 20 per cent ahead of the contributions reported on the third day of the campaign last year, showing a total, according to audited figures submitted yesterday, of $960,618.75 as compared to $762,151.42 reported on the third day of the campaign in 1929.

This increase is chiefly due to the fact that the special gifts committee, under the leadership of Chairman Newbold Noyes, got away to an earlier start this year and is much closer to a final "clean-up" than it was at the same time last year. Last year, Chest officials explained, the special gifts committee raised $162,000 after the third day of the campaign. This year, owing to progress already made, the special gifts committee will be doing extremely well if it raises $75,000 more in addition to what it had already raised. This means that other units will be expected to raise $200,000 more

"SAY IT WITH VOTES" TO BE DRYS' POLICY

Leaders Are Moving to Direct Prohibition Argument to Legislation.

TRANSFER BILL IS FIRST

(Associated Press.)

Ready to say it with votes, congressional drys are moving to direct the prohibition discussion to legislation.

The first of the bills proposed by the Law Enforcement Commission—transfer of prohibition enforcement from the Treasury to the Justice Department—will be brought up this week in the House, probably Thursday.

While both wets and drys are supporting this proposal, debate on the bill promises another round of prohibition oratory. Aroused by the constant talking, the confident drys now are calling for votes, and roll calls are in prospect before the end of the month in both branches on proposals for repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Meanwhile, the prohibition storm at the Capitol Saturday brought into action the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. Mrs. Ella A. Boole, national president, sent out a message to State presidents acclaiming "greater strength in the prohibition movement than ever before" and calling for support against the "anarchistic suggestions" in the wet campaign.

While ready to rush through the administration bill transferring prohibition enforcement from Secretary Mellon to Attorney General Mitchell, Congressional leaders see little prospect of action on any of the other recommendations for bolstering the dry law. Menacing opposition is arising in dry ranks to the recommendation to give United States

Visitation Convent in Washington.

As Mrs. Chewning talked, she occasionally waved her hand, and it was seen that this bore, in addition to a wedding ring, a band set with a huge purple amethyst.

King Once Owned Ring.

This is perhaps one of the most famous rings in the United States. It once was worn by King Charles II of England, who gave it to Sir Herbert Jeffries when the latter came over to the colonies as the royal governor of Virginia.

From one generation to another it was handed down until it became the property of William Jeffries Chewning, a direct descendant of Sir Herbert Jeffries. And now that young man has given it to his bride, the daughter of one of America's foremost business barons.

Getting back to the first meeting of young Mr. Chewning and the girl who was to become his bride, it took place aboard a Coast Guard cutter at the President's Gold Cup races on the Potomac last September.

Miss Couzens, as has been stated, was not much impressed. One reason she said yesterday was that the young man has a mustache, and she does not care any more for such adornment than her smooth-shaven father. Evidently, young Mr. Chewning must have divined this, for pretty soon the mustache came off.

Courtship Moves Rapidly.

The next time they met was at the Junior League ball in December. This time it was different; Miss Couzens became interested. From that time on the romance moved like one of Miss Couzens' galloping horses.

The engagement was sealed one night about two weeks ago. They had been to a movie and then had gone up to the Club Chanticler to dance.

There Chewning popped the question, and got the answer he hoped for. There was no thought of an immediate marriage, however, when they went to the Bal Boheme last Monday night. There was, when they left, though. The sotto voce remarks and the knowing looks settled them.

Miss Couzens explained why they decided to elope.

"We knew that if we announced our engagement, a formal wedding would be expected," she said, "and both of us dreaded that. And that is not all. There would be luncheons, and dinners and dances, and by the time the wedding date came around both of us would be worn out. It would be just too messy.

"Of course, it would be well meant. Please don't think that I am criticizing my friends. It is just the custom. Any way, we made up our minds that we were going to escape from it."

Dispensation Is Obtained.

Mr. Chewning made the arrangements for the marriage with a relative in Baltimore, John Marshall Jones, a kinsman of John Marshall, the famous Chief Justice. The most important task that confronted Mr. Jones was to have Archbishop Michael J. Curley grant a dispensation for the marriage. This was necessary because Mr. Chewning is an Episcopalian while Miss Couzens is a Catholic.

The dispensation granted, the couple journeyed to the Shrine of the Sacred Heart, in Mount Washington, just outside of Baltimore, and there were married by Mgr. Louis R. Stickney, the rector.

The bride was not surprised when she learned of her father's surprise at the marriage.

"Well, you see," she told the reporter, "father just never thought of me as a bride. I had never been in love and had never thought much about boys. All I was supposed to be interested in was horses. So it is no wonder father was surprised."

Will Tour Historic Spots.

For the next week or so, Mr. and Mrs. Chewning will tour the historic spots that abound around this part of Virginia. They will go to Yorktown and Jamestown and then they will go on to Urbana, where a relative of the bridegroom, Carroll Chewning, is mayor.

Then they will go on to Fredericksburg, Va., and visit the bridegroom's parents, Dr. and Mrs. William Jeffries Chewning.

From there they will go on to Washington. While the bridegroom knows Mrs. Couzens, he has never met the senator, and a meeting is one of the formalities that will face him then.

Senator's Household Maintaining Silence

While Mr. and Mrs. William Jeffries Chewning, jr., the latter the $50,000,000 heiress daughter of Senator and Mrs. James Couzens, of Michigan, were enjoying a quiet honeymoon yesterday at a hotel in Norfolk, Va., members of the bride's family maintained an unbroken silence regarding the reception the couple may expect upon their return to Washington.

Reporters who called the Couzens home here to inquire where the bride and groom might be located or when they were expected in the Capital met with this curt reply:

"There's no use calling here. We have no information for the press."

Equally secretive was John J. Carson, secretary to Senator Couzens, who told inquirers that "all I know is what is in the papers."

It appeared last night that Mrs. Chewning is destined to undergo quite a lecture from the tongue of her younger sister, Betty, 13 years old. Betty and her older sister were almost inseparable companions, and the younger girl is reported as finding it practically impossible to accept the idea of sharing her sister's affections with a mere husband.

An interesting sidelight on the manner in which the news of the elopement first leaked out was revealed yesterday when it was learned that on Friday the couple visited a Washington photographer and posed for pictures, giving orders that the pictures were to be held for release at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, subject to telegraphic instructions from Miss Couzens. Curiosity of attendants of the photographic studio over the peculiar circumstances of the order was responsible for rumors of the elopement reaching newspaper offices.

Oil Industry Men Leave for Capital

Delegation on Tariff Plans Mass Meeting Tonight in Washington.

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Captains of the oil industry from throughout the Middle West and Southwest gathered here today and left by special train this afternoon for Washington, where they plan to plead for a high tariff on crude oil and refined products.

Several hundred representatives of the oil industry were in the party which was made up at Union Station after arrival during the early morning of delegations from Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and other States. No formal meeting was held here, but the oil men planned a mass meeting Monday night in Washington to decide upon their course or procedure. It is understood that a campaign fund of approximately $1,000 has been subscribed.

The special train left here at 12:17 p. m. over the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad and is due in Washington tomorrow afternoon.

Assassin Who Plunged World in War Honored

Belgrade, Jugoslavia, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—A dispatch from Sarajevo, where the Austrian Archduke Franz Ferdinand was assassinated in 1914, just before the outbreak of the World War, said today that a marble memorial slab was unveiled there today in honor of Gavrio Prinzip, the archduke's assassin.

The slab was placed over the entrance to Prinzip's home. Prinzip was found guilty of murder at Sarajevo in October, 1914, and was sentenced by the Austrians to 20 years imprisonment. He died in a fortress near Prague in May, 1918.

During the war the Austrians erected a memorial to the assassinated archduke and archduchess at the spot where Prinzip fired the shots, but the Serbians destroyed it when Sarajevo became a part of Jugoslavia and set up a memorial tablet to Prinzip.

U.S. EXPORTS MAKE NINE-YEAR RECORD

FINISHED GOODS AHEAD

(Associated Press.)

An increase in exports from the United States to the highest peak since 1920 was shown in complete returns for 1929, issued yesterday by the Department of Commerce.

Only in the years of 1916 and 1920, when prices were inflated by war and postwar conditions, have exports been higher than the $5,248,000,000 total reached last year. This was 2.3 per cent more than sales abroad during 1928 and was nearly two and one-half times larger than the average value for the period 1910-1914. It also was 19 per cent greater than exports for the period 1921-1925.

Sales of finished manufactures, which gained 12 per cent in the year, were responsible for the aggregate gain, exports of cotton, grain and tobacco having shown a decrease.

Practically the entire increase in total exports was confined to the first four months, with May, October, November and December exports declining. Shipments of finished manufactures were larger, however, in all except three months—May, November and December.

Complete statistics for imports showed a total of $4,400,000,000 during 1929, an increase of $309,000,000 over the preceding year and only slightly below the 1926 figure, which was the highest since 1920.

Because of the increased value of imports, this country's balance of trade last year fell below 1928, but amounted to $848,000,000.

High interest rates and stock speculation in the United States during the first ten months of the year served as a magnet, the department said, to cause an excess of gold imports over exports in 1929 by $175,000,000, in contrast with a net export of $392,000,000 in 1928. During the last two months of the year, however, exports of gold outstripped imports.

Woman Is Held as One Who Dumped Alcohol

West Chester, Pa., Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Mrs. Victoria Lavella, said to be a resident of Schoeneck, Pa., was held in $1,000 bail here today on charges of being one of two young women who dumped about 75 gallons of alleged alcohol near Devon, Pa., January 14 after their automobile had collided with another car. Police, who had been watching her home for several days, said the woman was also known as Marie Bowman.

Collision of two automobiles near Devon caused police to search for two young women as suspected rumrunners for Philadelphia bootleggers. When the women's car struck one driven by W. W. Anderson, of Wayne, the women got out, police said, and dumped 15 5-gallon cans of alleged alcohol in a field.

Movie Pickpocket Gets Third Purse

$39 Loot in Last of Trio of Thefts in Motion-Picture Theater.

For the third consecutive Sunday night a pickpocket has relieved some unsuspecting movie patron for all that he had in his jeans and has gone his way rejoicing. Last night he went his way with some $39 that he "borrowed" from Frank L. Frear, of the Elks Club.

Frear made the mistake of changing his seat in an F street theater for one that looked better. In the changing a young man bumped his arm heavily, and when the new seat was reached Frear made a discovery. He immediately started a search for the man who had jostled him, but without result.

The same young man is credited with a theft on each of the last two Sunday nights. Both cases occurred in theaters on F street, and in each instance the pickpocket was safely away before his victim became aware of any loss.

LARGEST SEAPLANE PASSES NAVAL TEST

Huge Ship, Convertible From Peace Uses, Can Be Made Formidable Weapon.

COMES HERE THIS WEEK

Philadelphia, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Announcement was made today on behalf of the Ford Motor Co. that the largest seaplane in the United States had successfully passed a series of tests at the Philadelphia Navy Yard. The plane, a Ford all-metal trimotor, will be flown to Washington early this week to be demonstrated to officials of the Navy Department.

Primarily the ship is a passenger transport plane, it was announced, which can carry fourteen passengers, baggage, and mail, and can be converted into a bomber or torpedo ship, a 20-passenger troop transport or air ambulance.

As a torpedo carrier, it has capacity for two torpedoes weighing 1,800 pounds each. As a bomber, with landing wheels substituted for floats, it has a useful load of 6,000 pounds, equivalent to a cargo including a pilot, radio operator, bomber, gunner, three machine guns, two 1,100-pound bombs, 800 pounds of smaller demolition bombs and fuel sufficient for five or six hours of flight.

The new plane is known as the 5AT trimotored seaplane. It is adapted for water landing and a take-off by the substitution of two metal floats about 22 feet long for the wheels commonly used on the 5AT land plane. It is different from flying boats, which have been built to larger dimensions, in that it can be readily converted from water to land use.

Tests at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, it was announced, showed that with full load the plane has a high speed of 127 miles an hour, a cruising speed of 103 miles, a stalling speed of 65 miles, and that with full load it can take off in 17 seconds.

Mrs. Brousseau Indorsed for Post

Should Be Head of National Pen Women, Asserts Chevy Chase Branch.

Mrs. Grace A. Brosseau, of Greenwich, Conn., former president general Daughters of the American Revolution, yesterday was unanimously indorsed for the national presidency of the National League of American Pen Women by the Chevy Chase branch of the organization in a special meeting at the home of Mrs. Richard Yates, wife of Representative Yates, of Illinois.

The Chevy Chase branch went on record against a suggested change in the national organization's by-laws which would allow its national president to reside outside of Washington. The branch pointed out that all national presidents during the 35 years' existence of the league have been required to reside here.

"We believe Mrs. Brosseau, who did so much to make Constitution Hall a monument to her administration, should be our choice," the resolution asserted. "While Mrs. Brosseau has not expressed herself, we know that if elected national president there would be no necessity for changing the by-laws, as she would devote her time and talent to the worn of the league as she is courageously patriotic and her power, her prestige, her tenacity of purpose, and her will to do, would be potent factors in transforming the National Clubhouse of the league from blueprints into stone and mortar."

Theater Is Bombed In Chicago Suburb

Wife of Manager Quiets 300 Panic-Stricken Movie Patrons.

Chicago, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Three hundred persons, most of them women and children, were panic-stricken today when a bomb exploded in the rear or a motion picture theater at Hinsdale, a suburb. Mrs. George W. Krueger, wife of the theater manager, helped calm the stampeding patrons by a talk from the stage, and the Rev. Richard J. Lee, Episcopal pastor, rushed to the scene when he heard the blast and reassured the crowds who were trying to fight their way from the front door.

Damage was slight. Mrs. Kreuger said she blamed the bombing on the Motion Picture Operators Union which, she said, had threatened her husband for not employing operators at $208 a week. He runs the projector himself, she said, and recalled that he was shot in the leg by one of three men as he was leaving a film exchange.

Fate of Crew in Doubt As Danish Ship Sinks

Helsingfors, Finland, Feb. 2 (A.P.). The Danish freighter Nelly was wrecked and went to the bottom during a heavy storm in the Finnish Gulf near Helsingfors. The storm, which continued violent, hindered attempts to rescue the crew, whose fate is not known.

The Nelly, a steel vessel of 1,549 tons, was registered from Esbjerg.

Reports That Eielson Is Found Are Refuted

New York, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Reports originating at Devils Lake, N. Dak., and purporting to convey information that the Arctic fliers, Eielson and Borland, had been found were without substantiation in fact late tonight.

One report vaguely hinted that the bodies of the fliers were located. Another, also emanating from Devils Lake and purporting to be a Canadian Press report to the effect that the fliers themselves had been located at a reindeer herder's camp 35 miles from where the wreckage of the Eielson-Borland plane was found, likewise lacked confirmation. The Canadian Press denied any such dispatch.

All available points asked to investigate the rumors believed them false.

WOLVES ATE FLIERS, EIELSON, SR., FEARS

MEETS ELDER BORLAND

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Although six aviators are bound by order and pledge to remain on the bleak Arctic shore of Siberia until the bodies of Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland are found, apprehension increased among pioneers here and in Alaska today that wolves have left no trace of the two fliers.

Ole Eielson, father of Alaska's famous air pioneer, himself expressed that fear while waiting here to sail on the Northwestern next Wednesday for Seward, Alaska.

Rescuers have been digging for a week over the wide areas where wreckage of Eielson's plane was strewn when it crashed nearly three months ago 90 miles southeast of North Cape. Clothing worn by the missing men, and parts of the plane were found deeply buried by snows which have fallen since the two men hopped off from Alaska to take passengers and furs off the ice-bound ship Nanuk at North Cape.

Soviet Aviators Remain.

Two Russian aviators, Gladisshev and Slepnev, who flew to North Cape from Providence Bay to take members of the scientific expedition aboard the Russian ship Stavropol, locked in ice near the Nanuk, back to civilization, have been ordered by the Soviet government to remain in that region until the missing fliers bodies are found.

Pilot Joe Crosson, who discovered the wreck a week ago and who was connected with Sir Hubert Wilkins' Polar expeditions in which Eielson became famous, was to pilot the Russians to the spot. The American aviators, Harold Gillam and Ed Young, have declared they will stay in Siberia until they find the bodies.

"Our boys are gone, that's certain," Ole Eielson said on meeting W. E. Borland, of Seattle, father of the young mechanic who took off with Eielson.

Military Funeral Declined.

"It seems the good boys have to go first, sometimes," said Borland.

To the offer of friends to provide a military funeral for his famous son at Arlington Cemetery in Washington, D. C., the elder Eielson said:

"There are so many famous persons buried at Arlington. Ben knew everybody at home and I'd like to have the boy rest with his mother at the little cemetery in Hatton, N. Dak. I think he'd rather be there, and after all, what is fame?"

Eielson will go by boat to Seward, train to Fairbanks, Alaska, and either wait there for his son's body or fly to Siberia, providing he has the opportunity.

Military Attache's Son Arrested Here

Charles Wesson, Involved in Apartment Row, Is Lodged in Cell.

Charles Wesson, 22, said to be a son of Lieut. Col. Charles M. Wesson, military attache at the American Embassy in London, and Henry Walker, 24, Nineteenth street near Wyoming avenue, were lodged in the Third Precinct yesterday following their arrest for being drunk and disorderly. They were later released on $15 collateral.

The youths were arrested in an apartment on O street near Twenty-first street. Officers received a suicide call from that apartment early yesterday, but when they arrived they found Ellis Martin, jr., 26, an architect, beaten up and apparently drunk. He was arrested for drunkenness and later sent to Gallinger Hospital for treatment.

Officers expressed belief that Wesson and Walker were connected with the attack on Martin, and returned yesterday afternoon to the apartment, where they got drunk and started fighting each other.

'Hound Dog Ring' Alleged To Have Netted $100,000

Three Men of Missouri and Arkansas Bought Curs at $2 Each and Sold Them as Hunters for $50, Inspectors Charge.

Cape Girardeau, Mo., Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Paul Davis, Charleston, Mo., filling station proprietor; Robert Finley, of Charleston, and J. R. Pierce, Heber Springs, Ark., were bound over to Federal court at Little Rock, Ark., here yesterday on charges of conspiracy to use the mails to defraud. Postal inspectors described the scheme, which they estimated to have netted the operators $100,000 in two years, as the practice of purchasing cheap hound dogs and reselling them as trained hunters.

Davis, Finley and Pierce were held under $2,500 bonds each and it was understood warrants have been issued for three others.

W. J. White, of Batesville, Ark., and F. M. McConnell, of Fayetteville, Ark., postal inspectors, said the scheme was to have buyers purchase hounds of any type for $2 to $3 each from Missouri, Arkansas and Tennessee farmers. Through advertisements in sportsmen's magazines, the ring did a Nation-wide business, officers declared, selling the dogs at $50.

Similar rings, on a smaller scale, have been operated in Missouri, Illinois, Arkansas, Kentucky, Tennessee and Georgia, postal inspectors said.

The ring was said to have operated with headquarters at Charleston, Mo., Mayfield, Ky., and Heber Springs, Ark. Mrs. Lillian Scott, whom the inspectors said is the wife of Clarice Scott, recently convicted in a similar charge at Paducah, Ky., and fined $4,000, was employed at Finley's office in Charleston, Mo.

The postal investigations of the ring was started after J. F. Russell, Los Angeles sportsman, complained.

STALLED CAR YIELDS BODY OF GANGSTER

Two Men Saunter Slowly Away From Auto Stopped on Busy Street.

"JOE THE DUDE," VICTIM

Chicago, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Joseph Cada rode to moderate fame in an automobile a few years back, as "Motor Joe," professional dirt track racer; he rode to death early today in another automobile, as "Joe the Dude," gangland fashion plate.

At the wheel of his own expensive sedan, accompanied by two men whom he evidently deemed his friends, Cada was shot four times through the head and left to die beneath an elevated railway structure in the heart of the uptown night life district, where he was a tireless playboy.

His slaying was the fourth laid to gangdom in four days, in addition to the shooting of Johnny Genaro, another hoodlum, whose life is still in danger. Like the others, it left police with a dozen motives but no definite clew.

Associate in Beer Syndicate.

Cada had been known as an associate in the Terry Druggan-Frankie Lake beer syndicate, and authorities were considering the possibility that a feud among the beer and liquor gangs might have been responsible.

"The Dude" was dressed characteristically when he was slain. He wore black patent leather shoes, pearl gray spats and a pearl gray fedora hat. His expensive overcoat covered an obviously high-priced tailored suit and he wore a costly wrist watch and a ring with three diamonds. He was known as a reckless spender, even for a hoodlum, frequenting the races, night clubs and gambling places.

His killing is considered important because, coming on the heels of three others, police fear it may be indicative of a new outburst of gang warfare.

Death Auto Stalled in Traffic.

The large automobile, moving slowly along Broadway in the heart of the uptown district, came to an abrupt stop at the street's intersection with Leland avenue, jamming early morning traffic.

Amid the grinding of brakes and imprecations of autoists following, two men stepped out of the machine and sauntered slowly away.

An irate truck driver, who had narrowly averted collision with the stalled machine, accompanied by some curious passersby, approached the car. Pulling back the curtains, they discovered the bullet-punctured body of Cada slumping over the steering wheel.

Dramatist Assails Jewish Portrayals

Jacob Ben-Ami Asserts Most of Them Are Sentimental Trash.

Protests against the portrayal of Jewish life by stock comedians and by such plays as "Abie's Irish Rose," and against the one-play as opposed to the repertory system of producing plays in this country, were voiced last night by Jacob Ben-Ami, actor-dramatist of the Civic Repertory Theater of New York, at the Jewish Community Center.

Virtually all plays dealing with Jewish life or character, presented in New York, are "sentimental trash," Mr. Ben-Ami said in making a plea for a world theater of Jewish art. Eugene O'Neill was termed the only worthwhile playwright in the United Stats and that because he has not witten to please theatrical producers.

Following his lecture, Mr. Ben-Ami gave dramatic recitals from three plays, one in Yiddish. The plays in English were "The Seagull" and "The Living Corpse."

Bolling Pilots to Fly Army Planes to Newark

Seven Bolling Field pilots will leave here about Wednesday to ferry seven new service type planes to the New Jersey National Guard at Newark, N. J., ot was learned yesterday. The pilots will be flown in a Bolling Field transport plane to the Middletown Air Depot, where they will get the new planes.

Upon arriving at Newark the planes, all Douglas observation types, will be turned over to Maj. Kellog Sloan, National Guard instructor, who was formerly stationed at Bolling. The local pilots will then be brought back here in the transport.

Bishops' Meeting Called To Name Head of Church

San Juan, Porto Rico, Feb. 2 (A.P.) Bishop William Andrew Leonard, of Cleveland, Ohio, who, by the death of Bishop C. P. Anderson, of Chicago, on January 30, became presiding officer of the Episcopal House of Bishops, today said that he had called a meeting of bishops in Chicago to select a successor for Bishop Anderson.

The news of Bishop Anderson's death reached Bishop Leonard while he was at sea. By radio he appointed Bishop Hugh L. Burleson, of South Dakota, assistant presiding bishop, to serve until his return to the United States a month hence.

Woman's Party Hit BeforeOpen Forum

Samuel Saloman Asks Why There Is No "Man's Bureau."

Censure and praise of the National Woman's Party marked talks yesterday afternoon at the weekly meeting of the Washington Open Forum at the Annapolis Hotel.

The discussion was precipitated by Samuel Saloman, as the gathering's principal speaker, in denouncing the activities of the National Woman's Party and Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, of that organization in particular. He criticized alimony laws as unjust to men in many instances and deplored what he termed "the existence of a woman's bureau but no man's bureau in our Federal Government."

Among the other speakers, several of whom took issue with Mr. Saloman, were P. W. Austin, Linn A. E. Gale, Isidor Hershfield, L. H. Keenan, E. C. Riegel, Mrs. Ivy B. Norton, Noah D. Connor, T. U. Cargill, Mrs. Alice Sechrist, Ross Black and Ambrose E. Collier.

Footpad Snatches Woman's Purse.

A brown leather handbag, containing $33 and other valuables was snatched from Mrs. Olen Westbrook, of Illinois avenue northwest, near Farragut street, shortly after midnight yesterday at Seventh and L streets northwest. Mrs. Westbrook was unable to tell police whether the thief was colored or white.

Russ Wives Change Mates Faster Than Husbands Do

Moscow Academy Reveals Disclosures Made in Social Survey; One Girl Married Sixteen Times in Three and Half Years.

Moscow, Feb. 2 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Wives in Soviet Russia shelve their old husbands for new ones more often than husbands seek new wives, answers to a questionnaire distributed by the Moscow Communistic Academy among factory workers in the red capital disclose.

Many working girls here, where divorce is to be obtained almost for the asking, change their husbands three or four times a year, tabulation of answers to the questionnaire shows. One young Moscow girl reported that she had been married sixteen times in a period of three and a half years—an average of one new husband about every twelve weeks.

The survey of family life in Russia has been undertaken in an effort to establish the prevalent attitude in this country toward marriage, divorce, religion, birth control and the status of the housewife. The thousands of replies received to the questionnaire on these questions are now being analyzed by the Communistic Academy. A recapitulation of the answers, and the conclusions to be drawn from them, will be published in book form in the autumn. It is being prepared by Prof. Sergei Suvorov, who has allowed the correspondent here advance access to the material.

This shows that the number of divorces in Russia is tremendous. The average working girl here aims to maintain her independence even after marriage. As a result, birth control methods are widely practiced.

The survey discloses that where family life goes on normally the housewife is still enslaved to her husband. Even when the wife works and earns an income, her economic independence does not free her from the feeling that the husband is the superior creature.

With regard to religion in the family, almost every reply to the questionnaire asserts that none of the family in the workers' homes believes in attending church or performs any religious ceremony and that children are totally ignorant of religious teachings.

The majority of workers answering the questionnaire admit jealousy of technicians who receive higher salaries than themselves. Many of these state that they are paying alimony to divorced wives for the support of children.

UNANIMOUS VERDICT ABOLITION IS URGED

New York Crime Board Has Plan to Enable Ten Jurors to Decide.

DEATH TRIALS EXCEPTED

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 2 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The State Crime Commission today recommended in a statement that all exemptions from jury service be abolished and that the verdict of ten jurors be made the verdict of the entire jury in all civil cases and in all criminal cases except when the crime charged may be punishable by death.

Bills and a resolution for this purpose will be introduced into the Legislature tomorrow night by Senator Caleb R. Baumes and Assemblyman Bert Esmond.

The case for substituting the decision of ten jurors for a unanimous verdict was outlined by the crime commission as follows:

"This proposed change would prevent a mistrial because of the death or serious illness of a juror and also would prevent one or two jurors from holding out because of prejudice or other personal reasons and thereby causing a disagreement.

"The historical background of the unanimous verdict has faded under our present system of majority rule, as shown by procedure in boards of directors, election rules and decisions of appellate courts where only a majority vote is necessary for a decision. Originally, when the rule of unanimous verdict was essential the jurymen were selected because of their knowledge of the facts and circumstances of the case.

Under the present system they are selected only when they have no knowledge and have formed no opinion. They are then expected to agree on a set of facts presented to them, and no flexibility is allowed to prevent a stubborn juror from holding out and thereby causing a disagreement. In many instances cases have been delayed and a miscarriage of justice resulted from this provision requiring a unanimous verdict."

A complete revision and consolidation of the statutes on juries and jury commissioners is provided by the bills to be introduced. The revision will leave some leeway for individual counties to draw up special rules.

Under the present system of selecting and drawing jurors, the commission finds, "the burden is falling on a comparatively small number and such demand is becoming not only a hardship but is creating a condition in our trial courts that is not wholesome."

Lindbergh Makes Plane Into Convertible Coupe

Los Angeles, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's new Lockheed low-winged monoplane now is a convertible coupe. The colonel yesterday tested a device he designed, which was constructed by the Detroit aircraft engineer, Jerry Vultee, which covers the two open cockpits, either one or both, and may be put in use in a few seconds while the plane is in flight or on the ground.

Col. Lindbergh said the transparent sliding hatches increased the maximum speed of the plane from 171 miles per hour to 180. After he made the first test of the new plane with Mrs. Lindbergh, the famous flier said he planned to cover the cockpits of the plane. The idea was not elaborated upon until today, when the hatches were tried out.

Brickbats & Bouquets

—By JAMES HAY, JR.—

WHEN Ponce de Leon made his celebrated dash through the South in search of the fountain of youth, he missed it because another individual, full of vim, vigor and vision, had gone over the hills and swamps seven jumps ahead of him and run off with the wonder-working spring.

Thus equipped with the secret of everlasting agility and efficiency, Dr. William Tindall cruised northward, finally locating in the District of Columbia, whose present form of government he antedates. He has been here ever since, distinguished for a knowledge of local affairs that is as accurate as it is extensive.

He is now chief of the Bureau of Information of the District government. Theoretically, his business is to answer any and all questions which citizens possessed of vaulting imaginations or abysmal ignorance may want to ask about men, women, incidents, scandals and rumors which now figure, or have figured, in the community's welfare, wealth and wisdom.

BUT as a matter of fact, the doctor is a bottomless well of information to which countless officials of the District have eagerly resorted whenever they had to find out something they should have known anyway or something else that was buried in the dry, dreary and dusty tomes of the Pliocene Era.

Take Dr. Tindall away from his desk, and down upon our municipal building—or what is left of it after being more or less bombarded daily by Congress—would descend a pall of ignorance while wretched officials would go galumphing helplessly from corridor to corridor, vainly and vociferously seeking the why of this and the when of that.

• • • •

CONSEQUENTLY it has been suggested that Congress should attach an amendment to pending District legislation stipulating that this animated fountain of youth and facts shall continue on active duty regardless of the provisions of the retirement act.

And what else can Congress do? Picture, ye writers of resolutions and makers of laws, the confusion worse confounded that would darken and bedevil us if all the lore, legend and learning now reposing in the person of Dr. Tindall were cast into the obscurity of private life!

Ponder, we molders of the destiny of a voteless vicinage, our desperate plight if none of the city fathers could leap into an elevator or jump to a telephone and, having established contact with the boy who outran Ponce de Leon, breathlessly inquire:

"When was the Tidal Basin a duck pond? And what society belle first made Pennsylvania avenue the center of swelldom?"

• • • •

IF Dr. Tindall gets off his job, leaving us to our ignorance, we shall be, figuratively speaking, what a British statesman once said a reform faction in Parliament was: A sort of mule, without pride of ancestry or hope of progeny.

Besides, what's the good of outrunning a sprinter like Ponce de Leon if somebody's going to treat you as if you were an ordinary human being?

INFERIOR PRISON PERSONNEL ASSAILED BY CRIME BOARD

too low to attract capable men, the report states, calling attention to the $600 a year salary paid prison guards in New Mexico, with an additional $10 monthly allowance for food; the New Hampshire guards' pay of $780 a year, with no board or room provided; Rhode Island, $900 to $1,140, with no quarters or maintenance, and Wyoming, $840 to $1,080, with quarters and maintenance provided.

"South Dakota pays the warden of her State Prison $2,000, with quarters and maintenance provided," the report says, "and Idaho State Prison pays its warden $1,800 a year. On the other hand, the Eastern Penitentiary of Pennsylvania pays the warden $12,000, though quarters and maintenance are not provided."

Low salaries attract only men of low caliber, the committee says, adding that the guards are ill-chosen and inadequately trained in that "the majority of prison guards and wardens have been given their positions in return for some political service they have rendered."

The committee finds it "far from encouraging" that only ten States have civil service boards with varying degrees of jurisdiction over prison officials.

A civil service commission, the committee says, should be constituted as a Cabinet department, rather than "as a check upon the appointing power of the Chief Executive."

The committee recommends that an efficient and businesslike method of collecting fines as inaugurated on the basis of small loan bureau to allow the payment of fines in installments, thus "relieving the unjust burden on the poor and also relieving the local authorities from supporting hordes of idle people in the jails who can not pay their fines in a lump sum."

The report embodies the results of a year's study of the qualifications and character of prison guards throughout the country by Prof. Louis N. Robinson, of Swarthmore College, an authority on penal administration.

Ready for 3-Story Drop, Man Saved by Firemen

Chicago, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—A man hanging from a third-story window ledge was rescued by firemen when flames partially destroyed a North Side apartment hotel and forced more than 100 thinly clad residents into the snow-covered streets early today.

Peter Johnson, 40, trapped in his room by the fire, had clambered out a window and hung suspended from the sill until the flames began licking his fingers. He was ready to make the three-story drop when firemen arrived and effected his rescue with a suspension ladder. Fireman George Carlson suffered a dislocated shoulder when he fell through the roof of the burning structure.

Alleged Bootleggers Beat Treasury Agent

Savannah, Ga., Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Albert M. Nadors, special agent of the United States Treasury Department, was attacked and beaten yesterday by several men police believe were connected with a liquor shipment Nadors was investigating.

Nadors was attacked in front of a hotel. He told officers he fired at the men, who fled. Officers arrested Sam Dunham, believed to be from Miami, Fla., in connection with the attack. Two other men were arrested but later released. The liquor, intended for shipment to Northern cities by automobile, was brought to Savannah by boat, officers said they had learned.

James Walter Lowrie, Missionary, Is Dead

Shanghai, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Word was received here today of the death at Paotingfu of James Walter Lowrie, a missionary, who at one time represented the American Presbyterian mission board before the King of Siam. Death was caused by influenza.

Mr. Lowrie was highly respected by the Chinese because it was through his mediation that Paotingfu was let off lightly for the city's share in the Boxer outbreak. He was buried beside his mother in Martyrs' Cemetery, Paotnigfu. His church in the United States was the First Presbyterian Mission Church, Newark, N. J.

Anti-U. S. Demonstration By Mexican Reds Fails

Mexico City, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Reported plans of Mexican Communists to hold a demonstration in front of the American Embassy today failed to materialize. A small guard of policemen and detectives, which had been stationed Saturday in the nearby streets, was withdrawn.

The Mexican foreign office had been advised yesterday that the Communists, accusing the United States of having caused the break in diplomatic relations between Mexico and Soviet Russia, would demonstrate in front of the American embassies and legations throughout Latin America.

SCHAFER GOES ON RAIDS WITH POLICE

wilder than ever and prohibition is not curbnig them

"I try to spend as many Saturday nights as possible at the station houses. My last visit was at the Second Precinct about two Saturday nights ago. I wish I had more time than I have to drive with these police and see the wheels fo prohibition go round."

The representative declared that his widespread activities with the police have strengthened his belief in his assertion on the House floor on December 10 that "Washington is much freerer from crime than many cities in the country," although the prohibition situation generally is far from what it should be.

On January 9, Representative Schafer on the floor of the House delivered another speech to assail the drys applauding what the wets termed as "dry killings."

At that time he asserted that "each day's tragic news indicates more human lives sacrificed on the altar of prohibition Baal."

He said he had not set any date for his next onslaught on prohibition, but that the information he was collecting here and the data being sent him from various other centers was now being studied for incorporation in the slated address.

Thieves Steal Valuable Papers.

Valuable papers, including bonds and bank books, were stolen early yesterday morning from an office on the first floor of 2001 Eleventh street northwest, according to police. Entrance was gained by breaking a window. The report was made to police by Miss Susan Blackwell, of 1340 U street northwest.

CHICAGO MAY TAKE CITIZENS' AID OFFER

Failure of Other Plans Turns City to Conference With Committee.

WARRANT BUBBLE BURST

Chicago, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—With the city's financial condition growing worse daily and with other relief plans crumbling one by one, the city council today began to look more favorably on the citizens' committee offer to tide the local governments over until taxes start coming in.

Alderman John S. Clark, chairman of the city council finance committee, announced his intention of asking that body to name a committee Tuesday to meet with Silas Strawn, head of the relief organization.

Alderman Clark, who has become leader of the working majority in the council's wrangles over financial matters, predicted that the committee he proposed would make every effort to effect an agreement.

Will Supervise Spending.

"As for their (the citizens' committee's) request that the expenditure of money be carefully supervised, I think that is only fair and right, since, after all, it is their money that will be spent," Clark said.

It was this point of supervision that caused the city council, as well as the board of education, to shy at the proposal when it was first made more than a week ago. At that time many public officials expressed the fear that acceptance of the plan would bring about a dictatorship.

Since then, however, many disappointing factors have entered the tangle. A conference of taxing officials called by Gov. Louis Emmerson found that tax bills could not be mailed before June 1 and it has since developed that even this prediction may have been too optimistic. Delay of nearly two years in the collection of taxes, due to complete revaluation of property, is blamed for the plight of the city and county.

Bankers Puncture Bubble.

Hopes that the 40,000 city and county employes, most of them unpaid since January 1, and some even longer, could receive their salaries in tax-anticipation warrants were buoyed up yesterday with ruling by the city's corporation counsel that such a procedure would be legal.

This bubble was immediately punctured by the Chicago and Cook County Bankers Association's notice to its 180 member banks advising against cashing such warrants or accepting them as collateral. Directors of the bankers association said paying county and city employes in fiat money would only make local conditions more complex.

Officer of Closed Bank Suicide at Police Door

Fort Worth, Tex., Feb. 2 (A.P.)—L. B. Ward, assistant cashier of the Texas National Bank of Fort Worth, which closed its doors Friday upon recommendations of the Fort Worth Clearing House Association, shot and killed himself this afternoon.

Ward, who had been walking, stepped inside the open doors of the police department garage, across the street from the central police station in the City Hall, placed a pistol to his temple, and fired one shot. The bullet went through his head. He left a note in which he ascribed loss of health and loss of his position as reasons for the act.

Portugal Is Ravaged By Additional Storms

Lisbon, Portugal, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Torrential rains, snowfalls and floods today ravaged Portugal, intensifying the calamities which the country has suffered from storms during the last month.

Arctic weather prevailed throughout the north. Three peasants were frozen to death. The ministry of communications announced that telephone and telegraph connections with several parts of the nation had broken down as a result of terrific storms.

YOUR INCOME TAX

NO. 1.

By joint resolution, adopted upon recommendation of the President and Secretary of the Treasury, Congress has reduced by 1 per cent the normal tax on individual incomes for the calendar year 1929. The reduced rates are one-half of 1 per cent on the first $4,000 of net income above the personal exemption and other credits, 2 per cent on the next $4,000 and 4 per cent on the remainder, instead of 1½ per cent, 3 per cent and 5 per cent. The surtax rates on income in excess of $10,000 are unchanged. The tax rate on the income of corporations and life insurance companies is reduced from 12 per cent to 11 per cent.

No change is made in the provision relating to the filing of returns. Returns are required of every single person whose net income for the taxable year was $1,500 or more, every married person living with husband or wife whose net income was $3,500 or more, and every person single or married whose gross income was $5,000 or more, regardless of net income. Husband and wife living together may each make a seperate return, of the income of each, or their income may be included in a single joint return, in which case the tax is computed on the aggregate net income.

Under the heading of single individuals are included divorcees and persons separated by mutual consent. A single person who is the head of a family and whose net income for 1929 was $1,500 or more must file a return, even though, by reason of the personal exemption and credit for dependents, his income is not taxable.

More than 4,000,000 individual income-tax returns were filed last year. Many contained errors which knowledge of the fundamental provisions of the revenue act would have avoided. As an aid in the preparation of correct returns for the year 1929, the Bureau of Internal Revenue has prepared a series of newspaper statements, of which this is the first. Taxpayers also are advised to read carefully the instructions on the forms, copies of which have been sent to persons who filed returns for 1928.

AUTO THIEF ADMITS SLAYING DRY AGENT

Jailed Man Describes Murder of Bert Donaldson at Atlanta in 1926.

POLICE CHECK STORY

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 2 (A.P.).—George H. Goggins, 30, held in the city jail here on auto theft charges, confessed to police that he murdered Bert Donaldson, dry investigator, in Atlanta in 1926.

Goggins, who has confessed to the theft of 80 automobiles in different parts of the country, told his story freely and declared he had worried so over the thought of the murder that he couldn't keep it to himself for fear it would drive him insane.

Goggins claims he was hired to commit the murder by Jack Lance, proprietor of a roadhouse in Atlanta, and was paid $500 in advance after Lance had pointed Donaldson out to him in the lobby of the Georgian Terrace Hotel and had given him his room number.

Goggins was recently arrested in Marrietta, Ga., for the theft of a car from Lexington and returned here. Police are checking his story with officials in the Georgia city.

Secret Plans Of Club Told Prematurely

Radio Headliner to Sing at Breakfast in Honor of Mrs. Hoover.

By JEAN ELIOT.

THEY say a woman can't keep a secret, but it was a man who let the cat out of the bag about the headliner who is to appear at the Congressional Club's annual breakfast at which Mrs. Hoover is to be the guest of honor. He is none other than Rudy Vallee, beloved of radio fans for his sentimental lyrics, who he will present a carefully planned program at the breakfast, which is to be held at noon on Friday, February 14, in the Pan-American Union Building.

Mrs. Porter H. Dale, president of the Congressional Club, and the few members who knew what was being planned, were sworn to secrecy and not a word was breathed of what was intended to be a great surprise. But the news leaked, presumably from some one in the radio organization, and the conductor of "Gleanings and Screenings," a pleasant column of theatrical news and gossip, told the world about it.

It was Mrs. Dale who captured the engaging young lion of radio and movie fame for a personal appearance before the Congressional Club members and their guests. It chances that the Dales, of Vermont, and the Vallees, of Maine, are old friends, and the invitation was one which Mr. Hubert Prior Vallee, some time Yale student, could not—and would not—refuse.

All manner of preparations are being made to put over the program in the most thrilling fashion, even to having diagrams made of the Hall of the Americas and the stage for the radio people.

Moreover, from present indications there will be a larger turnout of club members for the breakfast than ever before in the history of the organization. The event has special interest since it is the first time the Congressional Club has had opportunity to entertain Mrs. Hoover, long a member of the organization, since she became the First Lady of the Land. She was to have shared honors with President Hoover at a reception given at the club a few weeks ago, but illness prevented her being present.

Roumanian Minister Is Host at Luncheon.

The Roumanian Minister, Mr. Charles A. Davila, entertained at luncheon yesterday in honor of Prof. Nicholas Jorga and Mme. Jorga. The guests included Dr. and Mrs. Cloyd Heck Marvin, Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Healey, Prof. and Mme. Labat, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Oulahan, Mr. and Mrs. William Bride, the Secretary of the Legation, Andre Povici; Mr. George Boncesco and Mr. George Duca, of the legation staff.

Last evening Minister Davila entertained for Prof. Jorga at a reception for 400 guests at which Prof. Jorga gave an interesting talk on Roumanian art. The lecture was accompanied by slides.

Minister Davila will entertain at luncheon today for Prof. Jorga and again at dinner on Wednesday evening at the legation.

Miss Ida Kaufman Wed to Mr. Nordinger.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar C. Kaufman, of 3601 Connecticut avenue, yesterday announced the marriage of their only daughter, Ida, to Mr. Howard M. Nordlinger, son of Mrs. Meyer Nordlinger, of 1736 Columbia road.

The bride and groom will leave today on a brief wedding trip, and upon their return will reside temporarily with the bride's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson And Son at Monte Carlo.

The former United States Envoy to Mexico, Mr. David E. Thompson, and Mrs. Thompson and their son, David E. Thompson, jr., who left Seattle November 2 for a trip around the world, have reached Monte Carlo after touring Japan, China and the Far East. Mr. Thompson, appointed Minister to Brazil in 1902, was raised to Ambassador in 1905. In January, 1906, he was appointed Ambassador to Mexico, which post he retained until 1909.

Furthering the interest of Franco-American understanding, members of the D. A. R. in Paris and several French women descended from holders of the Order of the Cincinnati held a meeting and tea at the home of the Comte and Comtesse de Chilly in the Avenue Kelber in Paris on January 17. The Baron Ludovic de Contenson exhibited an original charter of membership in the Society of the Cincinnati signed by George Washington in 1789. In addition to the Paris D. A. R. and a group of French women there were present Ganna Walska McCormick, Mrs. Wilford Fawcett and others.

Mrs. Henry T. Old Monroe Home Will Be Made Shrine

Estate's Purchase Recalls Stories of Former Presidents.

Ash Lawn, the old home of James Monroe, fifth President of the United States, will be converted into a national shrine through the generosity of Mr. Jay W. Johns, coal operator of Pittsburgh. The house is near Charlottesville, Va., and faces that of Thomas Jefferson, friend of President Monroe. It was from Ash Lawn that James Monroe rode on horseback to Washington in 1817 to take the oath of office as President of the United States.

To friends of Mrs. Rose Gouverneur Hoes in Washington the news will be greeted with joy. A descendant of President Monroe, Mrs. Hoes has identified herself with numerous patriotic projects, notably the collection of gowns worn by the First Ladies of the Land which graces the National Museum. Through her efforts and those of her son, Mr. Lawrence Gouverneur Hoes, was acquired the building used by their grandfather and great grandfather, President Monroe, for a law office in Fredericksburg, Va. It will be preserved as a shrine.

The acquisition of Ash Lawn recalls the tales of friendly visits between three illustrious patriots, Thomas Jefferson, James Madison and James Monroe, third, fourth and fifth Presidents of the United States, who often discussed affairs of state at the old house. The place is noted for its fine old trees and Norwegian pine groves brought from Europe by Mr. Monroe.

Mr. Johns proposes to keep the estate intact and make of it a proud national shrine such as Monticello and Mount Vernon. The title is clear and work will go forward at once, Mr Johns declares. The original deed was delivered to James Monroe on February 1, 1830. On February 1, 1930, just 100 years later, the deed was transferred to the Pittsburgh magnate by its recent owners.

Wonderful Lessons in the Bible's English for Writers and Speakers

Shakespeare was master of nearly twenty thousand words. Milton of about thirteen thousand. But the whole King James Version of the Bible contains not over six thousand words; not a half of Milton's, not a third of Shakespeare's vocabulary.

Short words are always strong words; they explode like bullets. Do you know that the average word in the English Bible, including even the proper names, is composed of less than five letters? Leave out the proper names and the average word wouldn't have even four letters.

In the beloved 23rd Psalm there are 119 words; 95 are words of one syllable. In the Sermon on the Mount more than 80 per cent are words of one syllable. In the Ten Commandments, on which are based all the laws of all the world, there are 319 words; 259 are words of one syllable; and only 60 of two and more syllables. In Lincoln's Address at Gettysburg, perhaps the greatest in the world, there are 266 words. Of these, 194 words are of one syllable; 53 of two syllables; and only 19 of three or more syllables.

There is food for thought in these figures. What an improvement in our writers and speakers, if, like Lincoln, they would only give study to the English of the Bible.

STAMP TAX FAVORED AS VIRGINIA REVENUE

State Senator Would Place Levy on Malt and Some Medicines.

TO AID STATE SCHOOLS

Special to The Washington Post.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 2.—A stamp tax on malt extracts, "used mainly for making homebrew," on "canned heat" and on medicines containing more than 4 per cent of alcohol by volume, will be introduced in the Virginia Senate tomorrow by Senator John W. Chalkley, of Bigstone Gap, who hopes through the revenue that would be so raised to be able to finance the free textbook bill, establish vocational training schools and provide aid for tubercular cases.

In Tennessee a similar tax on malt extracts alone brings in more than $1,000,000 a year, he said he had been reliably informed, and that while he was against the idea of nuisance tax on general principle, he believed the sale of bitters, tonics and other things that are "used or capable of being used for beverage purposes" was a real nuisance and should be regulated.

Proceeds from the collections of such taxes would be divided, under the bill as follows:

One-fifth to the Department of Public Welfare and one-fifth to the Department of Public Health and three-fifths to the Department of Public Instruction. The funds thus given to the departments would be used as directed specifically by the General Assembly, and in view of pending legislation which he is supporting, he suggests that it might be used to finance the free textbooks bill, which will require some $300,000 to furnish the appropriation necessary for the Department of Public Instruction to establish vocational training schools, and to enable the Department of Public Health to assist the cities on a 50-50 basis in caring for advanced cases of tuberculosis.

The State treasurer would be directed to collect the tax through the sale of stamps, and the bill would further provide that a rebate might be had on bona fide medicines procured for hospital use or on prescriptions.

The rate of taxation would be 5 cents a pound on the malt extracts, which he said are used chiefly for the purpose of making beer at home, and 1 cent an ounce on canned heat which is used in portable stoves, and in many instances in lieu of something better, in the way of intoxicants, and on proprietary and patent medicines, tonics, bitters and all bathing and rubbing spirits and lotions containing more than 4 per cent of alcohol by volume which are used or capable of being used for beverage purposes.

Although Senator Chalkley said he had not talked with the prohibition enforcement division, he said he understood that such a measure would be entirely acceptable there. "Disclosure of the quantities and the places where sold," Senator Chalkley said, "will be a real aid to the prohibition department."

His idea, Senator Chalkley said, is not one of prohibition, but of the curbing of the sale of these materials, which, he says, every one knows are used in the main as a substitute for whisky.

AUTO MAKERS SEEK HOOVER AID, CLAIM

porting prohibitive tariffs at home and low tariffs abroad." Senator Walsh pointed out that Senator Edge's selection for the Paris assignment was announced months before he formally resigned from the Senate.

"His reluctance to quit the Senate," he said, "was understood at the time to imply the will of the administration that he continue his membership on the finance committee until the Hawley-Smoot bill had been reported to the Senate. The bill now before the Senate received the blessing of Senator Edge before he formally accepted his commission as ambassador."

Cites Effect of French Move.

As for Senator Sackett, Senator Walsh said, he was not selected for ambassadorial service "until after the tariff bill, with its numerous and prohibitive duties, had been reported out by Chairman Smoot."

The effect of the proposed French tariff on auto parts, the Montanan said, would be even more harmful than any retaliation on automobiles, "because many French cars are said to contain 50 per cent American parts."

In the present American tariff law, which levies a 25 per cent ad valorem tariff on foreign automobiles, there is a countervailing clause permitting the United States to raise its duties on cars to whatever limit may be imposed on American machines by other countries. This provision was eliminated by the Senate recently and the duty reduced to 10 per cent.

The tariff bill will go into its fifty-seventh week before Congress tomorrow, with a fight in prospect in the Senate over the existing practice of basing dyestuffs rates on American valuation.

REV. FRANCIS J. HURNEY.

REV. FRANCIS HURNEY INDUCTED AS PASTOR

New Head of Immaculate Conception Church Is Lauded in Sermon.

MGR. THOMAS PREACHES

Impressive services yesterday featured the induction of the Rev. Francis J. Hurney as pastor of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Eighth and N streets northwest, where a solemn high mass was celebrated at 11 o'clock.

The new pastor was celebrant at the mass and he was assisted by his erstwhile associates at St. Patrick's Church, where he was stationed for about ten years. The Rev. Dr. John K. Cartwright was deacon of the mass, and the Rev. Lawrence J. Shehan was subdeacon.

The Right Rev. Mgr. C. F. Thomas, pastor of St. Patrick's, delivered the induction sermon, during which he cited the growth of Catholicism in Washington from 1769, when the old St. Patrick's was established, until the present day. He brought out the fact that the Immaculate Conception parish was the oldest "daughter" of St. Patrick's parish, having been the first of a number of parishes in the city, which sprang from the parent parish and become separate entities. The church was established in 1866. Mgr. Thomas lauded the new pastor and commended him to the parishioners who filled the edifice to capacity.

In the sanctuary were also the Rev. John Graham, of St. Patrick's; the Rev. Louis Vaeth, archdiocesan director of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith, and the Revs. A. C. Healy, of St. Patrick's; Dr. J. P. Christopher, of the Catholic University, and the Rev. Stanislaus, assistant pastor.

All were guests of the new pastor at dinner in the rectory following the services.

A special program was given by the choir under the direction of Prof. Harry W. Howard, with Frederick Nolan as soloist.

Officials Await Analysis of Bomb

Machine Found in British Museum Was Explosive, Statement Says.

London, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Scotland Yard detectives issued a statement today declaring that the homemade bomb found in the Indian room of the British Museum yesterday afternoon "undoubtedly contained explosive matter, but to what extent can not be stated until the home office experts give the results of their analysis."

Sir Frederick Kenyon, director of the world famous museum, while awaiting the police report, said he could not be certain whether the placing of the bomb in the Indian room was a real attempt to blow up the priceless Indian collection or merely a hoax.

The bomb, wrapped in a newspaper, was discovered after a stranger giving the name of Ali Khan telephoned the authorities that he had overheard Indian students talking about a bomb in the Indian room. Superintendent Parket of Scotland Yard is directing the investigation.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

THE SENATE WASTES TIME.

Senator Grundy's maiden speech was very properly devoted to a castigation of senators for wasting valuable time. They spent half an hour or so on Saturday discussing his famous utterance of 1928, in which he commented upon Mr. Hoover's lack of legislative experience and added: "He has never run for even the office of dog catcher." Senator Harrison was inclined to doubt that this speech had ever been delivered, but Senator Grundy's silence finally convinced him that it was authentic. Senator Borah gave credit to the Pennsylvania senator for refusing to deny the impeachment. Senator Caraway asked Senator Blaine to call the President's attention to the speech. Mr. Blaine made the distinct confession that he was not in the good graces of the President. He refused to call the matter to the attention of Mr. Richey, one of the President's secretaries, saying: "I do not like detectives. I despise spies, so I can not go to Mr. Richey."

Senator Norris suggested that the Republican Senate conference might take away Mr. Grundy's committee assignments and expel him from the party for lese majeste. Senator Caraway thought it might be well to appoint a commission to convey the information to the President.

Do these coalition senators think they can make political capital out of Mr. Grundy's Pickwickian references to Mr. Hoover? Their memories are short. Only a few years ago Woodrow Wilson expressed a desire to knock William J. Bryan into a cocked hat, and then made him Secretary of State. Although some critics thought this amounted to the same thing, others insisted that Mr. Wilson spoke in a purely Pickwickian vein. Everybody knows that Senator Borah's sabotage of the Hoover program is Pickwickian. Senator Watson was opposed to Mr. Hoover, too, but now he is Mr. Hoover's most valuable adviser whenever Mr. Hoover follows his advice. American history is full of patched-up feuds, from the time when John Adams and Tom Jefferson fell out and then fell in again. "Politics knows no yesterdays," is the wise conclusion of Jim Watson.

Senator Blaine's allusion to detectives and spies is very mystifying. Is he afraid of being card-indexed, and, if so, why? There must be an Ogpu, or Cheka, in order to keep track of the mazes and meanderings of statesmen if the country is not to become a bedlam. If there is a card-index system showing the records of senators as to party irregularities, the Norris cards should have a special cabinet to themselves. In the last campaign he was a Republican renegade rejecting Hoover and supporting Al Smith, but now that he is running for reelection he attaches himself to the Hoover party and has gone dry again. But it is all in the Pickwickian sense, and everybody knows that he is not in earnest when he says he is a Republican.

Senator Grundy paid Mr. Hoover a great compliment when he noted that the President had never run for even the office of dog catcher. Neither did George Washington.

Democrats and insurgents are certainly wasting time when they try to prove that Joe Grundy is not a Republican.

THE HATRY CASE.

Clarence C. Hatry, once a prominent figure in the industrial and financial life of Great Britain, has been sentenced to fourteen years of penal servitude for forgery. By good behavior while serving time he can reduce the sentence by one-sixth. Hence, he would remain behind the prison bars for approximately twelve years, the first two of which will be spent at hard labor.

The English, who are noted for their prompt and forceful execution of justice, did not falter in this case. There were several other persons sentenced for the same violation of law, but their sentences were not as severe as that of Clarence Hatry. The defendants made a plea for mercy on the grounds that they acted under great stress to save their companies from collapse, and had made voluntary confessions, but Justice Avory, who imposed the maximum sentence upon Hatry, said: "This is nothing more or less than the threadbare plea of a clerk or servant who robs his master and hopes to repay him before the crime is discovered by backing winners."

Though Hatry at first pleaded not guilty, the evidence submitted against him was so overwhelming that he soon changed his plea to that of guilty. The trial was rapid, and the court permitted no defense tactics based on technicalities or delays, such as often occur in the United States.

Though Hatry lost heavily through the collapse, he still retained a sufficient amount of wealth to enable him to procure eminent attorneys. His record of being an outstanding figure in the industrial and financial world of England and his wealth did not make for immunity. He forged securities on a wholesale basis, and the statutes were applied accordingly. The swift and impartial administration of justice in England is again demonstrated.

THE PLANT BOARD AND THE FLY.

Secretary of Agriculture Hyde has taken a hand in the controversy over the Mediterranean fruit fly in Florida. A political squabble has developed over the proposed appropriation for eradication of the fly. Since the Department of Agriculture is in a position to know the actual danger involved in this threatened infestation and what needs to be done for protection of the fruit industry of the South, the statement should be welcomed by both sides.

Implications that the appearance of the fly was a political expedient designed to perpetuate the existence of the Florida Plant Board are termed "ridiculous" by Secretary Hyde. This is in conflict with the most enlightened Republican opinion in Florida.

On the other hand two arguments made by opponents of Federal aid to the Florida Plant Board are well supported. The eradication campaign was organized to meet an emergency, Secretary Hyde says, and without doubt involves instances of abuse, inefficiency and waste. Furthermore, it is true that no fruit flies can be found in Florida at the present time. Naturally, the common or garden American replies: "No fly, no appropriation."

Tests conducted by the department and the plant board show that last summer nearly 1,000 properties were infested in 21 counties. Two different groups of scientists were sent to Florida and both were convinced of the seriousness of the fruit fly menace. No adult fly has been seen in Florida since last August, and no infestation of any kind since November. Mr. Hyde holds, however, that this is no guarantee that the fly has been eradicated, and warns that "abandonment of the work now would be a calamity."

The fruit fly may reappear this spring. If so, the Florida Plant Board will appear also. It is not surprising that the proposal to spend $15,000,000 for this work has been brought into question. Why should it cost $15,000,000 to prevent future outbreaks? The House committee on appropriations will no doubt demand an answer to that question. It may also ask why Federal money should not be disbursed entirely by and through a Federal agency.

THE GRIP OF COMMUNISM.

The grip of the bolshevists upon the people of Russia is tightening every week. Recent events indicate that another revolution will be necessary to free the Russian people from serfdom under Stalin and his henchmen.

It is a serious mistake to suppose that a government of the people has replaced the Russian czar. Absolute power is in the hands of the Communist party, and this small group subjects the entire nation to its relentless will. The Communist party has recently been "purged" of undesirables (those who will not sanction its atrocities) and now consists of 1,551,000 members, many of whom are government officials or official spies, whose duty it is to report all opposition to the Communist regime to Moscow. In a nation of 150,000,000 people this group in power constitutes about 1 per cent.

Soviet Russia is engaged in a gigantic enterprise for the destruction of capitalism. For the last year a process of consolidating property of the peasants into huge state farms or collective projects under the domination of Moscow has been under way. The peasants who have enjoyed a few years of freedom since the revolution of 1917 are being again pressed into peonage with the Communist dictators as their landlord. This program meets resistance everywhere, but since the dissenting peasant is faced by prison, deportation or the firing squad he usually submits in the end. The kulaks, or richer peasants, have been completely declassed, their land confiscated, and all participation in the civic life of their country denied them. If they escape prison or execution they have the alternative of starvation or exile.

Industry in Russia is undergoing the same process of socialization, with the results that might be expected. A recent survey showed that from 20 to 50 per cent of the goods produced in several dozen Communist factories were defective. Operators of the plants were in this way trying to cut down overhead expenses and gain for themselves some of the profits of private industry. But their hopes have been cut short by a new order prescribing five years of hard prison labor for any one producing inferior goods.

Religion has been entirely ruled out of the Soviet system. Attempts are being made to revise the calendar so as to entirely eliminate Saturdays and Sundays. All private business has been abolished, and a program is now under way to stop all private practice in the professions. Physicians are mere fixtures in the Communist hospitals and are not permitted to have private patients. Last week the practice of law was abolished, except through a "collective" agency under communistic management. It is a crime for a lawyer to give a private consultation to a client, and only those attorneys who submit to the bolshevist regulations may continue in their profession.

Russia is sinking deeper in communism every week. The bolshevist regime is apparently determined to push its experiment to a bitter end. It is not within the realm of possibility that it can succeed. The rigor of the system that is being forced on the people will hasten its doom.

THE FIVE-DAY WEEK.

An abundance of evidence in support of the five-day week in industry is assembled in a memorandum just published by the industrial relations section of Princeton University. The movement seems to have gained favor with both employes and employers. While adjustments to the five-day schedule are being made gradually, progress toward this end throughout the country is unmistakable.

It is estimated that more than 500,000 employes now work only five days per week. This is only 2.5 per cent of the persons employed in the major industrial groups, but the gradual replacement of men by machines is giving impetus to the transition. The campaign for the five-day week began only three years ago. During that time it has been proved sound in many of the largest industrial plants of the country. The movement may now be regarded as passing beyond the experimental stage.

When some of the country's outstanding industrialists advanced the theory that an increase in wages to their employes should be accompanied by greater leisure in which to spend the extra money, many thought they were carrying modern economic theory to an absurdity. But now it is known that the wage earner is such a large consumer of industrial products that it pays to keep him prosperous. Employers realize that when an employe has extra leisure he becomes a larger consumer, and for this reason opposition by employers to the five-day week is losing ground.

Experience shows that every time the hours of working men have been shortened efficiency has increased and production has expanded. Use of machinery is generally considered the reason why American workers produce several times as much per man as those of any other country, but the amount of leisure enjoyed by American workmen is also an important factor. If men can produce more in five days of eight hours each than they formerly could in six days of twelve hours each, there is every reason why the shorter working period should be inaugurated. No doubt it will be only a few years until the five-day week is a standard work period throughout the country.

Income of the Nation in 1929 is put at $95,000,000,000, which, considered in connection with the per capita pocketbook, proves what a populous people we are.

President Hoover says he will fish as common mortals do. This means worms.

ON BEARDS

From the London Times.

Burchard, Abbot of Belvaux in the twelfth century, wrote a little treatise, "Apologia de Barbis," now added to the British Museum; and the presence in London of several eminent bearded delegates to the naval conference invests its acquisition with all the appearance of a well-timed act of international courtesy. Though the Abbot's purpose was merely to disclaim an opinion, imputed to him, that the beards of certain lay brothers should be burned, he found the subject so absorbing that he wandered with it down the ages, beginning with Aaron's beard, the theme in these days of one of our less edifying anthems. But much has since happened to beards; perhaps the Abbot would be most astonished to learn that the goatee, for which he gives the excellent term submentanea, is now inseparable from "Uncle Sam," who would need more explaining at Belvaux than is necessary here. (Let it be said at once that on the present occasion not a single goatee has crossed the Atlantic in the American delegation.)

The Crimean War brought beards into fashion, but a greater war confirmed and extended the almost universal practice of shaving.

"Men for their sins
Have shaving, too, entailed upon their chins," wrote Byron, jealous of the advantage enjoyed by the fair sex in this particular. Long before—on the morning of January 6, 1663-4—Pepys began a practice which he found saved him money and time, "that is, to trim myself with a razer: which pleases me mightily." But that was probably not what we should call shaving. Hotspur, in his biting description of the effeminate Bolingbroke, says that

"his chin, new reap'd,
Show'd like a stubble-land at harvest-home."

It is no wonder, with razors so ineffective, that men grew beards, and that Nick Bottom could volunteer to play Pyramus in your straw color, your orange-tawny, your purple-in-grain, or your French-crown color beard, your perfect yellow. Beatrice's "Lord! I could not endure a husband with a beard on his face" was but her teasing humor. In the eighteenth century razors evidently improved. "Light, smooth, and swift the razor glides," observed Gay, and it went on gliding over the majority of chins, though often leaving the cheeks to be "partially obscured by whisker," until after the great exhibition. Then the army, freezing in the trenches before Sevastopol, were allowed to grow their beards, and some young men at home hastened to adopt a fashion which identified them, at least in appearance, with the heroes of the war.

But in those not less bitter winters of the greater war in France and Flanders our men in the trenches regarded shaving as even more of a necessity than cigarettes. The new armies in this matter, as in most others, followed the example of the old army, who, forswearing "the beards of Hercules and frowning Mars," had returned to their razors long before the South African War. For the present attempts to revive the wearing even of whiskers are not successful. And yet—let not men be too sure. Who shall say with confidence, remembering how swiftly the chief glory of womanhood was shortened, and is now lengthening, that those extraordinarily hairy men portrayed in early volumes of Punch will always remain mere curiosities?

After the Fox Is Caught, There Is Only the Weary Ride Home.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

To the ancient Hebrew poet, the way of a man with a maid seemed as strange as the way of an eagle in the air.

Strange or not, it is a way that never varies; and stranger still is the way of the maid, whose tears never teach her wisdom.

The man comes a-courting, whispering compliments that are sincere and words of love that are true while he speaks them, and the maid believes because her hunger for romance urges her to believe and her vanity tells her such love is not unreasonable.

Again and again the man comes, his ardor increasing daily, as an army daily increases the fury of its assault when a city that is besieged holds out against it; and at last the maid surrenders and confesses her love.

As the man walks home that night—it always is night—he steps on clouds and his heart is singing.

He is proud and happy, and he attributes his ecstasy to the fact that the maiden loves him; but that is not the true explanation.

He is proud because he has won—because he triumphed over difficulties and proved himself a conqueror.

And that is the beginning of the end.

A victory is a climax—the finish of a contest—the final blaze of an enthusiasm.

Anything that follows must be a form of relaxation—a return to normal.

If marriage follows, it may and usually does develop a contented, easy-going friendship that affords the nearest approach to bliss vouchsafed to imperfect mortals.

If nothing follows except continued courtship, the immemorial way of the man is a wayward way.

He loses interest—not because he is vile and disloyal and hateful, but because it is his nature to search for new adventures when he has had his triumph.

In a month or a year he is storming another city, and the maid who gave him her heart is left alone to weep.

It is a story as old as the hills, and yet the maid never learns.

Laws emancipate her and custom makes her equal to men, but her need of romance enslaves her still.

Some day—millenniums from now—she will be wise; and then she will have faith in no man unless he is free to marry, prosperous enough to marry, and eager to marry quickly.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

NEWS FROM THE FLORIDA RESORTS.

Miami.—Col. and Mrs. Wesley Mayonnaise 3d are here recalling the days when they used to come by yacht. The colonel, who had plenty of Radio at 98, spends much of the time talking to himself.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Lester Gwembly, jr., who came here for a change, are not getting it, they being as incompatible in one climate as another.

The Misses Patrician and Yvonne Beezonsby, debutante daughters of Maj. and Mrs. Westphalian P. D. Beezonsby, are here with their mother. All are visibly distressed, due to the fact reports from back home say that no rotogravure sections have published their pictures in bathing suits.

T. DeWitt Cuzzenfest, well-known book-end magnate, arrived here on his houseboat Meejwik III Thursday by mistake. He had thought he was at Nassau. The trouble was due partly to the compass and partly to the gin.

Jason Jolomon and family, who had a suite in a waterfront hotel last season, are putting up in a small lodging house this winter, due to margin calls.

Mr. Weems L. Jettison announces that he will not be able to remain here for the Sharkey-Scott fight, the lucky stiff.

Palm Beach. — McVeeney DeWitt Waterfowl had a narrow escape from drowning here Tuesday night. He stepped off his yacht in 20 fathoms of water under the impression he was at the yacht club.

Ex-Gov. Ames J. Tiddledewinks was photographed here with a tarpon he did not catch Wednesday.

One of the most despondent visitors here is Mrs. Chivers X. Gleevington 2d. Although she has appeared on the beach in the very latest pajama costume every day since her arrival, not a newspaper photographer has given her a tumble.

Gen. and Mrs. Luddington K. K. Osterhammer were injured early this morning when they ran their $50,000 speed boat into a jetty. It seems that they were a little befuddled and were trying to go home with the engine in reverse.

Mr. and Mrs. O. Lawrence Veech-Veech are driving only one automobile here this winter. A long position in public utilities is responsible.

No newsreel pictures have paid any attention to Mr. and Mrs. P. Harry Sealingham, who are here on their honeymoon. As the bride is the daughter of Hastings B. H. Beasley, the noted cookoo clock czar and multimillionaire shaving-cream magnate, trouble is looked for.

Miss Gladiola Gridgett, daughter of Peters D. Gridgett, inventor of the caution light at street intersections, who arrived here yesterday, will leave tomorrow. The newspaper photographers took her picture in a group of the right people, and she considers the purpose of her Southern trip accomplished.

The police have closed up the mysterious shooting of an unknown, unidentified millionaire here last week. It seems he praised the California climate.

AMERICANIZATION.

A Frenchman, quite famous, while visiting here,
Was bothered by wire, phone and letter
By mamas ambitious,
With interest fictitious,
Who certainly should have known better.
They asked him to dinners, to luncheons and teas,
Until the poor fellow got dizzy;
But now satisfaction's replaced his distraction,
He's learned how to say "Lion's busy!"

HORTICULTURAL ODDITIES SAMPLED.

American-grown dates, tangelade and persimmon ice cream were three unusual delicacies served to the members of the Botanical Society of Washington at the December meeting, when Dr. Walter T. Swingle, of the Bureau of Plant Industry, United States Department of Agriculture, delivered an address on the department's work in introducing the date palm into the Southwest. He exhibited motion pictures and lantern slides illustrating comparative conditions of date culture in the Old World and in California, and then offered samples of the American-grown fruit.

Tangelade is made from the juice of the tangelo, a hybrid offspring of the grapefruit and tangerine orange.

The persimmon ice cream, made by mixing with the ice cream the pulped fruit of the Oriental persimmon, much the same way that peach ice cream is made, reflects another activity of the United States Department of Agriculture in its effort to introduce and develop superior varieties of persimmons.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Private Interests Trying to Grab Off Part of Yellowstone Park.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In view of the hearing by the President's commission to be held February 3 in the Department of the Interior, may I say a few words with regard to the preservation of Yellowstone National Park.

Just now the park is threatened with the loss of two areas. The Forest Service is trying to obtain a section along Snake River. If it wins, logging will be carried on and the logs floated down Snake River, and all in what is now park territory, spoiling this part of the park. Then hunting is allowed in the national forests and other objectionable features, such as grazing. Nothing of this sort is permitted in the national parks. If the Forest Service obtains this section it will give other groups an excuse to make demands. The integrity of the park must be maintained. The recent changes in the northeast boundary, in which some land was lost and some gained for the park, gave encouragement to all groups trying to get something out of the national parks for themselves to "try, try again."

There is also a very determined effort being made to obtain an area in the southwest part of the park (known as the Bechler section) for irrigation purposes. The interests represented in this effort are manifesting a most insistent spirit. Their object is to obtain the Bechler meadows for commercial purposes. A reservoir here would eliminate the entrance to the Bechler River canyon, as it would back the river up about two miles into the canyon. It would kill all the trees, and there are many pine and spruce in this section. William C. Gregg, who has spent much time in this region, estimates that there are 40,000,000 feet of standing timber in the Bechler basin, and the proposed reservoir would rob the park of 12 square miles.

This region is full of beautiful scenery. Colonnade Falls, one of the finest in America, is in the Bechler region. Then there is beautiful Iris Falls, and unspoiled natural beauty at every turn. It has been said that "no man can measure the destruction to Yellowstone Park, as a popular national playground, which may follow the first concession to irrigation interests." The national parks should be held inviolate. No interest, no matter how powerful, should feel that it may be able to obtain any part of them. Previous boundary changes have only established an unwise precedent.

In considering such changes we are apt to forget that powerful commercial interests, power trusts, or wealthy sporting interests often lie behind the demands made. The national parks belong to the people, and are part of their inheritance; as such they should be preserved for future generations.

The only safe way seems to take a positive stand now against further encroachments. It has become a question of either wrecking our whole national park system, now so splendidly established, or of preserving it.

Eighteenth Amendment Not in Harmony With the Constitution—Domestic Tranquillity Calls for Repeal.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The prohibition hearing before the House judiciary committee would serve a good purpose if it were strictly limited to consideration of what constitutes an amendment germane, structurally relevant, to the Constitution.

The Constitution was framed "in order to form a more perfect Union," with provision "for the common defense," as the first consideration; and its framers were keenly alive to the importance of insuring "domestic tranquillity."

In so far as the eighteenth amendment is shaped to strengthen the framework of the Union, it is germane. If the vitality of the Union has been threatened by a decadence of citizenship through strong drink, then the eighteenth amendment was germane as proposed and ratified, and should stand.

If the civic soundness of our electorate was not seriously endangered, if the only need for the amendment was simply to make people "good," laudable as that is, it was not constitutionally germane and its ratification was, to say the least, unwise.

When the amendment was first proposed, I was fanatically antagonistic, but now have ceased to worry.

Some day its merits may be sanely discussed as a question not of morals but of expediency. And then, perhaps—and a big perhaps, at that—"domestic tranquillity" will be restored through its repeal.

FEDERALIST.

Budget for Children Furnished Free of Charge as Incentive of Thrift.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As the result of my recent letter published in the columns of your paper, many requests have come to the national thrift committee, of which I am chairman, for a free copy of the pamphlet on training children in the wise use of money.

Permit me to say to your readers that we now have an ample supply of this article in which the author of our national thrift week budget book, Mr. E. A. Hungerford, describes the method used in his family in training their children in the wise use of money. He gives interesting budgets for children ranging from 9 years through high school and up to college. Any reader of this paper may secure a copy of this leaflet free by addressing the National Thrift Committee, 347 Madison avenue, New York City.

A copy of the 32-page budget book of the above committee will be supplied to those desiring one, but we ask that such requests be accompanied by a remittance of 10 cents to cover cost of postage and mailing expense. We need in America today a simple, convenient plan for our people so they may manage their money and have a reserve and an income for the "sunset years" of life.

STUDENTS OF SPAIN REJOICE IN VICTORY

EXILES TO COME BACK

Madrid, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Students in Spanish universities tonight jubilantly prepared to return to their classrooms, which will open again on Monday and Tuesday throughout the country. One of the first official acts of the new Berenguer government was to settle the recent student strikes in Madrid, Barcelona and elsewhere by conceding the students the most important part of their demands.

These demands, for which they waged a long struggle with the former dictator, Primo de Rivera, include the reinstatement at Salamanca University of Prof. Miguel de Unamuno, one of Spain's most celebrated philosophers and authors, who has been expatriated in France for five years.

Other university professors dismissed during Primo's rule will also be reinstated, and the government will recognize the students' federation, releasing all the students arrested during the recent strikes.

In addition to this sweeping movement of conciliation, Premier Berenguer's government also indicated that decrees of general amnesty will soon be issued to political offenders. Pardons for former Liberal Premier Sanchez Guerra and the army officers charged with attempted rebellion at Valencia and Ciudad Real last year may be specifically included.

During his first week in office, Premier Berenguer revoked the decrees of the preceding government that prevented specific organizations, such as the Lawyers Association and the group of intellectuals of the "Lyceium," from becoming legal.

Premier Berenguer has ordered a policy of economy for all government departments and will study all committees, commissions and extralegal bodies created by his predecessor with the purpose of abolishing all considered unconstitutional.

The new government has begun making gold shipments to London to establish credits for the stabilization of the peseta exchange, and apparently intends to continue this financial policy.

Hendaye, France, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Miguel de Unamuno, Spanish author, who has made his home in exile here for nearly five years, is hopeful of returning to Spain under amnesty decrees from the new Berenguer government, but has not yet been definitely informed of permission to do so. Meanwhile he will continue to live in Hendaye, which is separated from Spanish territory only by a shallow creek.

Former Wife Gives Up Reunion With Soda King

San Francisco, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Mrs. Agnes Amelia Church, divorced wife of Francois Louis Church, admitted here today that she had given up hope of a reunion with her former husband, member of a wealthy baking soda family. She said she would take a $150,000 settlement made her and tour the world.

She added that she still loved Mr. Church and had written several letters to him, but had received no answer. She said she believed the letters had never been allowed to reach him. Mrs. Church, who was divorced in Reno last month, has made reservations to sail for the Orient Friday. She left last night for Reno for a brief stay.

Girl Dies in Futile Try To Save Mother's Life

Hastings, Minn., Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Miss Helen Swanson, 21, a senior at Hamline University at St. Paul, home for a week-end visit, today gave her life in a fruitless effort to aid her mother, Mrs. F. A. Swanson. Both the daughter and her mother died in a hospital from burns received yesterday.

Mrs. Swanson was cleaning clothes with gasoline on a porch at her home here late yesterday. The fumes caused her to faint and she fell over the pan containing the gasoline, saturating her clothes. Helen found her mother and carried her into the house. As they passed the kitchen stove, the heat set fire to Mrs. Swanson's clothes. Both were severely burned.

Governor Asks Inquiry Into Georgia Lynching

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Gov. Hardman announced today that he had telegraphed Sheriff W. C. Tyler and Solicitor General Robert S. Foy, of Irwin County, to investigate the lynching yesterday of Jimmy Levine, Negro, in Ocilla. Until he receives their reports, Gov. Hardman said, the State will take no action in the lynching.

Levine was burned by a mob estimated at 500 early Saturday morning after being taken from Sheriff Tyler's automobile in the center of Ocilla. The sheriff had arrested the Negro on a charge of attacking and killing a 14-year-old white girl and was taking him to the Irwin County Jail.

SIX WEEKS WINTER IS ANIMAL FORECAST

from 8:40 to about 1 o'clock and at other times pierced the thin clouds sufficiently to produce shadows. So that's that, anent the shadow proposition. Since the ground hog makes his meteorlogical survey between 10 o'clock and noon he must have seen his shadow, if he came out at all to look around.

The woodchucks were frisking around in high glee, apparently oblivious of what the sunshine portended in Ground Hogdom. But those zoo ground hogs may be citified now and as a consequence unable to qualify as weather forecasters, for they have been out of their beds at various times previously.

Apparently unmindful of the ill omen, Mambasso, the mother Hippo who has been ill, seemed to be heartened by the sunshine the attendants reported, and looked brighter, though she is still far from being fully recovered from her illness. The two lion cubs also were gamboling around in their cage, and are expected to be darting out for views of the big world soon.

The forecast for today is cloudy and warmer with possibly light rains. The temperatures are expected to rise to about 40 degrees, which undoubtedly will complete the thaw of Washington's record snowfall and clear the streets of watery slush.

Continuing their work yesterday, the Street Cleaning Department brought sprinklers into use and virtually ridded the downtown section of the thawing snow, which was washed into the gutters, quickly melted and disappeared, and today's high temperatures and possible warm rainfall will help them to complete the job.

They Call It Politics

By CARTER FIELD

NO better illustration of the declaration that the tariff is a local issue could be found than cement, the cause of which is being championed by Senator Royal Copeland, of New York. To begin with, the whole question of a tariff on cement is of only academic interest except in a very narrow strip of territory along the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf coasts, save where there is deepwater navigation extending inland. Freight rates mount so speedily on a product which costs only about $2 a barrel that a few hundred miles constitutes a prohibitive duty.

Down in Savannah, Ga., to illustrate this local issue idea, there is no interest whatever in whether there is a tariff on cement or not. But in Norfolk, Va., which one might suppose would have comparatively the same interests, there is the keenest desire for such a duty.

• • • •

SAVANNAH did not bother to wait for the Senate talkfest to conclude. She did not even wait for it to begin. Her city council simply passed an ordinance forbidding the use of imported cement on public work.

"Have you a local cement plant which you are anxious to keep running?" I asked a Savannah editor.

"Oh, no; the nearest cement plant is some 300 miles up-State," he replied.

"Are the cement people so strong here, so far from their plants, that they can put a thing like that over?" I pursued.

"No, but the railroad company is pretty strong, and it wanted that freight haul on the cement," was the illuminating reply.

"Is there no resentment about it?"

"Not a bit. Most of our folks like the idea of encouraging Georgia business. Then our local railroad men get more work, local railroad stockholders are pleased, and there is a sort of general idea of passing prosperity around. So why contribute to the Belgians?"

• • • •

THERE is no such feeling in Norfolk, on the contrary. Norfolk has a cement mill, the natural market for which would be nearby Virginia and eastern North Carolina. But scarcely had the mill been started when the City of Richmond began purchasing imported cement. Norfolk felt very hurt about this, regarding it as an unneighborly act, but when the State of North Carolina began buying Belgian cement, and kept it up until her road commission alone had bought something like 185,000 barrels, the situation became serious. Norfolk began clamoring for a tariff. Incidentally, Norfolk elected a Republican member of the House on the Hoover landslide, and he won his spurs by fighting for a tariff on peanuts.

Norfolk was particularly outraged at North Carolina because the Norfolk plant had been packing its cement in cotton sacks, from cotton grown in North Carolina, whereas the Belgian cement came in jute sacks.

• • • •

NORTH CAROLINA officials have taken cognizance of this, and promise that if they buy any more imported cement they will insist that it be put up in cotton sacks. Incidentally, they are still in litigation over refunds on these jute sacks, involving about $10,000, just half of what they saved the State by buying imported cement.

Tarheel officials say they bought imported cement because the domestic producers are all in a price-fixing combine—that all the domestic bids would be the same. So they decided to force a little competition. The cement people say that cement is simply cement, as determined by specifications, and that consequently the figuring on bids is very close, every manufacturer knowing that a fraction of a cent a barrel will determine the award.

• • • •

SENATOR COPELAND says at a time when every shoulder should be to the wheel to reduce unemployment and speed up prosperity, foreign manufacturers should not be permitted to seize the market along the coast, nor, as an alternative, should domestic manufacturers be forced to sell below cost in that area.

CHEST REPORTS OVER WEEK-END EXPECTED TO SHOW BIG GAIN

in the time remaining than they did in the same time last year.

On the other hand, John Poole, the campaign chairman, pointed out, the Chest has many more workers than it had last year and most of them are veterans with the advantage of training that they obtained in last year's campaign. They are also better organized, he says, and the Group Solicitation Unit has more than three times the list of firms upon which to work than the same unit had in 1929.

"It is a tremendous job to raise approximately $206,000 per report day for the remaining four days," Mr. Poole said yesterday, "but I still believe that if the cause can be properly presented to the people of Washington and they can be brought to a realization of the fact that not only are there eighteen more organizations in the Chest this year but that the needs of those already in the Chest have materially increased that Washington will finish the job."

W. C. Hanson, James B. Evans and Mrs. Charles A. Goldsmith, cochairmen of the Midcity Division, No. 8, who have held the championship flag for the first two days for the highest percentage of quota pledged will have to relinquish it today to Division 1, of which Arthur Adelman is chairman. Division 1 has raised 31.8 per cent of its quota while Division 8 remains a close second, with 31.6 per cent.

Slight Changes Are Shown.

Revised figures on Saturday's contributions, prepared yesterday by the auditing department of the Community Chest, showed some slight changes over the unofficial figures as made public yesterday.

The special gifts committee revised report shows nineteen contributions amounting to $20,340, making a total of 1,057 pledges received to date with a total of $796,762, or 91.3 per cent of its quota, which is $872,427.74.

The group solicitation unit in its revised report disclosed 472 pledges for a total of $5,831.55, making a total of 1,096 pledges for $11,223.35 to date, or 4.3 per cent of its quota of $260,000.

Region 5, which embraces the entire colored population of the city, showed in its revised report 481 pledges for a total of $2,247.54, making a total of 939 pledges to date for a total of $8,204.93, or 23.2 per cent of its quota of $35,337.19.

Mtropolitan Unit Percentage.

The revised report of the Metropolitan unit shows a total of 3,206 pledges for a total of $49,522.68, making its total to date 8,381 pledges for $152,633.40, or 23.1 per cent of its quota of $660,579.30.

Revised figures on the grand total of all units as reported yesterday by the auditing department shows 3,697 pledges for $75,694.23 for Saturday, making a total to date of 10,544 pledges for $930,618.75, which is 53.8 per cent of the Chest quota of $1,786,737.07.

"We face the necessity of raising more than $200,000 a day for the next four report days, including today," said Elwood Street, director of the Chest, yesterday, "but f the workers will continue to get increased gifts and will see everybody in their territory for new gifts I am satisfied that the great army of earnest and loyal workers that we have in the field can complete the job."

Referee Forgets About Leeds Suit

Can't Remember Grounds on Which the Princess Asked Divorce.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Percy Stoddart, who was referee in the action which resulted in the granting of an interlocutory decree of divorce yesterday to Princess Xenia of Russia from William B. Leeds, jr., today told interviewers he did not remember the grounds on which the divorce was sought.

The attorney said he could not remember how many hearings were held or whether Mr. Leeds did or did not appear. He said Mrs. Leeds did appear in person to testify. None of the testimony at the hearings remained in his memory, he said.

Mr. Stoddart said the testimony and other records in the case will be filed tomorrow morning with the clerk of the Supreme Court at Mineola, N. Y. He added, however, that an order from a Supreme Court justice could prevent publication of the records. He declined to say whether application had been made for such an order.

Delinquency Leads Juvenile Charges

37,606 Children Faced 42 Courts, Bureau Says in Report.

(Associated Press.)

Delinquency cases constituted the great bulk of those which came before 42 juvenile courts in fifteen States, according to an analysis of the records of those courts made public yesterday by the Children's Bureau of the Labor Department.

The total number of children before the courts was 37,606, of whom 25,456 were present as delinquents and 12,150 were present because of dependency and neglect.

Of the 25,305 delinquent children for whom race was reported, 84 per cent were white and 16 per cent Negroes. The analysis said boys and girls presented quite different delinquency problems. More than two-thirds of the boys were charged with stealing or with acts of carelessness or mischief. With the girls, "running away," "ungovernable or beyond parental control" and "sex offense" were the most frequent charges.

Operation Goes On In Hospital Blaze

Fire Discovered by Patient on Operating Table Who Saw Reflection.

New York, Feb. 2 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—As surgeons at 2 o'clock this morning were performing a delicate operation to save his leg, badly fractured in an automobile accident, Joseph Fishel, lying on an operating table on the third floor of the United Israel-Zion Hospital, Brooklyn, looked up through a window and saw flames reflected from the floor above.

"Fire!" shouted the patient, who was fully conscious because only spinal anesthesia which deadens pain in the lower part of the body had been administered.

Dr. Jacob Sarnoff, who was operating on Fishel, calmed him and went on with his work after ordering assistants to spread the alarm. The arrival of the firemen threw many of the 300 patients at the hospital into consternation. Nurses quickly allayed their fears.

The blaze, which started in a waste paper basket in the sun parlor, was speedily extinguished by the firemen, but they were unable to find its cause. Damage was estimated at $2,000.

450 Tribesmen Killed, Jerusalem Report Says

London, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Exchange Telegraph dispatches from Jerusalem report that about 450 tribesmen have been killed during recent attacks by Wahabi horsemen from the Nejd on Transjordanian tribes. Col. Peake, the British commander of the Arab legion, has left Amman, capital of Transjordania, for Maan to head off the Wahabi horsemen.

Fearing the menace of repeated Wahabi raids, the Transjordanian tribesmen were reported to be moving into the neighborhood of towns for shelter and protection by the British-commanded Arab legion. Most of the casualties in the latest raid were suffered by the Hueweitats and another tribe in Wadi Sirhan.

INAUGURATION WEEK IS BEGUN IN MEXICO

Official Ceremonies Opened With Pageant, Sports and Beauty Fete.

BIG DAY IS WEDNESDAY

Mexico City, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—The official ceremonies for inaugural week began at 11 a. m. today when a pageant depicting Mexican history and a program of sports were staged at Valbuena Workers' Field. Several hundred Americans, who arrived early for the inauguration of President-elect Pascual Ortiz Rubio on Wednesday, were present.

Included in the day's program for the American visitors was an elaborate Goyesca bullfight, which is the ancient Spanish style of bullfighting. This was preceded by a beauty pageant in the bull ring, all the beauty queens of the foreign colonies in Mexico City taking part in it.

Provisional President Portes Gil and President-elect Ortiz Rubio both came out to watch the pageants and the sports.

Mexico City's principal hotels resembled the hotels in college towns during home-coming week. The lobbies were crowded with American visitors and late arrivals had difficulties in finding rooms. So great was the crush in the hotels, taxed far beyond their capacity with the regular tourist season and the inaugural crowds, that many residents opened their homes to house the visitors. The National Railways announced today that several Pullman cars would be parked at Colonia and Buena Vista stations to care for the overflow.

Senor Puig Casauranc, chief of the federal district, will receive Gov. R. C. Dillon of New Mexico at noon tomorrow. Visitors of official rank will attend a presidential reception after the inaugural Wednesday.

Coach Shot by Student Has Even Chance to Live

Stanton, Ky., Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Ernest Byrd, athletic coach at Stanton High School, shot Friday night by a student whom he had refused to admit to a basket ball game, has an even chance for recovery, doctors declared today. The bullet struck Byrd above the left eye and ranged upward toward his brain.

Belgrade Harr, 16, held in jail here, refuses to talk about the shooting. Byrd's parents, the Rev. and Mrs. W L. Byrd, and his brother and sister arrived here today from Middletown, Ohio.

Daughter of De Mille Will Wed This Month

Hollywood, Calif., Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Cecil B. De Mille, motion picture director and producer, and Mrs. De Mille announced last night that their daughter, Cecelia Hoyt De Mille, will be married on February 22 to Francis Edgar Calvin, at St. Paul's Pro-Cathedral.

The bridegroom-to-be is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Calvin. The elder Calvin is a retired official of the Union Pacific Railroad.

DRYS MOVE TO VOTE ON PROHIBITION ACTS

commissioners authority to try petty offenders.

However, a clear road is ahead for the prohibition transfer bill. Chairman Williamson of the House expenditures committee, who drafted the measure, will go before a special meeting of the rules committee today to ask for a place on the House calendar on Thursday for consideration of the legislation. He wants four hours general debate.

There is some controversy over the committee's proposal to extend joint authority to the Secretary of the Treasury and the Attorney General over administration of industrial alcohol permits, but otherwise the bill is expected to receive quick approval.

Senate wet and dry champions are girding themselves for a showdown test on the prohibition issue in the Senate as soon as the tariff bill is out of the way. The transfer bill will probably be the vehicle for this debate.

The Senate judiciary committee, meanwhile, is giving close scrutiny to the nominations of Federal law enforcement officers. A subcommittee headed by Senator Borah, of Idaho, will give further attention today to the nomination of Sawyer Smith, district attorney for eastern Kentucky. He testified to a zealous record for law enforcement, and his confirmation is believed in prospect although new reports on him are being given study.

Senator Borah also heads a subcommittee which will examine Jacob Walter this week on his renomination to be marshal for Connecticut. Walter voted against ratification of the eighteenth amendment as a member of the Connecticut Legislature. However, Borah says he does not consider this as barring him. He has served eight years as marshal.

Believes Enforcement Better.

Mrs. Boole in her message to State presidents supported the Hoover administration, and said the "only success wet organizations have had is to make safer certain areas for bootleggers."

"Federal enforcement is better today than ever," she said. "The fleets of rum ships have gone. The well-financed syndicates of criminals who diverted industrial alcohol are being broken up. Illicit liquor making is being transformed from large to small units, and these will disappear through a campaign of education.

"But meantime, State and local enforcement must be strengthened. Too much civic apathy is attached to local enforcement. The remedy for that as has always been the case, is an awakening interest on the part of voters to, elect better State and city governments. State enforcement codes in the main are stronger than the national prohibition act.

Determined on Enforcement.

"Underneath the noise, the Hoover administration, dry and determined to carry out enforcement of the eighteenth amendment, is moving ahead effectively," she said. "The President's commission on law observance and law enforcement will remove much of the legal rubbish which has interfered with law enforcement. Court congestion will be relieved; criminals will have less chance of delay and technicality.

"The dry program is a constructive move against lawbreakers. Opponents of prohibition have no program, have offered no remedy; they express maudlin sympathy with criminals against the United States Government.

"The wet campaign, without facts, science or sense, no doubt has one effect—to spread propaganda for the complete disregard of law in spite of President Hoover's appeal; but as if in answer to these anarchistic suggestions there is greater strength in the prohibition movement than ever before."

Japan's Envoy Scribbles Poems at Sea Conference

Diplomat Listens Much, Talks Little and Thinks Considerably.

DR. REIJIRO WAKATSUKI.

London, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Out of the Far East, where dreamers chant of cherry blossoms, dropping lilies on moonlit ponds, and mountainsides strewn with flowers, has come a poet as one of the chief delegates to what is probably the greatest naval disarmament conference in the history of the world.

This strange anomaly from the land of the rising sun is Reijiro Wakatsuki, former premier, poet, financial leader—a poor man in worldly goods and one of the foremost students of Sino-Japanese classics in the Orient.

Throughout the conferences which have been proceeding daily between the representatives of the great sea powers, this slight little man from Nippon listens much, talks little, and apparently thinks considerably. Premier MacDonald, Secretary Stimson, Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy and Premier Tardieu of France frequently ask his opinion, and he bows very politely, smiles, and answers succinctly.

There is no circumlocution about Delegate Wakatsuki. Occasionally one of the titans representing the other great powers manages to joke, and Wakatsuki laughs as heartily as do the rest at the table.

Frequently the imperturbable Japanese scribbles on a pad of paper. But his scribblings are in Chinese characters, and therefore his colleagues haven't the slightest idea what the writing is about. Maybe it is poetry or some maxim from Confucius, but the former premier doesn't say.

He is a shy poet, retiring, and usually declines to discuss his poetic propensities. Coming over from Japan to America, and thence from America to England, his colleagues said, he composed innumerable poems, but most of them he destroyed. While in London he has written many more brief verses, but all went to the wastebasket.

An Associated Press correspondent wanted one of these poems, but there was none to be had. However, M. Wakatsuki said:

"As soon as I get in the proper mood I'll write one, which, if it sounds especially good, you may have."

So the mood is being awaited with patience, which only those familiar with Orientals appreciate. Of course, it will be written in Chinese characters and translated into English. Also, it will be blank verse, because the poetry of the Orient doesn't rhyme.

ARMS CONFERENCE TO ENTER ITS CRITICAL PHASE TODAY

self an outsider, regarded as inferior by the Anglo-Saxon powers, has been led to cooperate and placed in a position of temporary leadership, have been successful largely through the ability of American delegates. It would be invidious as yet to mention names. That this is so comes to me from another delegation, not from the American.

The position of Italy, described by Italians themselves as one of "isolation," is most interesting and will result in fireworks at the later stage of the conference.

Want Drastic Reduction.

The Italians and the Japanese alone can be said to have come here to press not for limitation but only for drastic reduction. That is not true of the British, who feel that with their world-wide empire they have already cut their program to the bone, and so it is not true of the United States, since we demand parity with Great Britain, in spite of President Hoover's "They can not go too low for us." Theoretically, we may be filling to reduce; in practice we can't, excepting in battleships, since we insist upon parity.

The French don't want naval reduction. They propose to expand their fleet on the lines of the naval statute of 1924 and they have their Parliament behind them.

Japan is anxious, for financial reasons, to effect larger economies than seem possible in view of her ratio claim. But since these four nations all desire peace, they desire limitation to avoid the suspicion and dangers that competitive building involve.

Italy May Not Sign.

Italy, however, may in the last analysis decline to sign a treaty which does not involve real reduction as well as limitation. Her demand for parity with France is political and apparently can not be dropped, and her future demand for real reductions in all categories perhaps follows from her anxiety to get the French fleet down to a level where she can build up to it, or near it, since she can not afford a big building program.

There are dangers here and it was no easy task to keep Dino Grandi, Italy's foreign minister, in restraint, nor could this have been done without American intervention at London. Preparation of a treaty that does not involve big cuts all around may lead Italy to refuse to sign on the ground that such an instrument would not represent disarmament.

The strongest reason for supposing that Italy would sign after all, despite this talk, which is rife in her delegation, is the fact that a four-power treaty could be signed without her, France safeguarding herself against a highly improbable big Italian building program by a "political clause" giving France to build beyond treaty limits if the Italian fleet should be suddenly expanded.

On the whole the omens are good.

Parley Is Like Block Puzzle.

This conference is like a child's block puzzle. When the delegates came here all the blocks were spread in confusion over the floor. They have been sorting them out, looking at them, and here and there, notably in the case of the adoption of the French transfer proposal as a basis for discussion, a few blocks have been fitted together.

But as yet no pattern emerges.

Chimney Blaze Draws Crowd.

A blaze in the chimney over the kitchen of Wearley's restaurant, at Twelfth and E streets northwest, last night attracted a throng of several hundred theatergoers. The fire was extinguished within less than ten minutes, however, and the damage was negligible.

FILIPINOS OBSERVE "HUMILIATION DAY"

10,000 Gather in Manila to Protest Recent Riots in California.

MANY LISTENERS WEEP

Manila, P. I., Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Today was observed as "national humiliation day" by about 10,000 Filipinos who gathered here for services protesting against the recent anti-Filipino demonstrations at Watsonville, San Francisco and San Jose, Calif. The disturbances at Watsonville resulted in the death of a Filipino.

The meeting was orderly as the crowd, wearing for the most part black mourning bands, gathered at the foot of the monument to Jose Rizal, Filipino patriot. Speeches in English, Spanish, and Tagalog caused many to weep.

Veterans of the Filipino revolution, in annual convention here, adopted a resolution calling on President Hoover to protect Filipinos in America against aggressions such as those at Watsonville. Another resolution indorsed the King Philippines Independence bill.

The veterans' society reelected Emilio Aguinaldo, Filipino leader, as president.

UNDERSEA SPEAKER IS DEVISED BY NAVY

displace the present tapping system whereby a diver must rap on the submarine according to a code of signals and then listen intently for replies from the imprisoned sailors. This means of communication is obviously cumbersome and often ineffectual.

The two-way communication equipment can be carried on the surface ship and lowered to the disabled submarine without the use of divers. By means of an electro-magnet it adheres to the metal hull of the submarine, through which words spoken into the mouthpiece on the surface are clearly audible in all parts of the sunken vessel. A turn on a switch on the ship makes the transmitter a receiver by which all conversation inside the submarine may be heard above the water.

The apparatus is somewhat similar to omplification outfits used in auditoriums except that the sound reproducer is more rugged and is designed to work against hydrostatic instead of atmospheric pressure. It is watertight and built to withstand rough handling.

First experiments were conducted at the Washington Navy Yard, where the device was submerged in a tank and subjected to great pressures. Later actual tests were carried out at New London, Conn., with the S-4.

It is said that "undersea speakers" will probably be placed on all submarine rescue vessels of the Navy Department within a short time.

AUTOMOBILE SHOW TO CLOSE TONIGHT

With New Attendance Mark Already Set, Gala Time Is Scheduled.

SUNDAY CROWDS LARGE

Following an extension of "performances" due to an unprecedented local interest in the newest motor cars, the tenth annual automobile show to be held under auspices of the Washington Automotive Trade Association will come to a close at the Auditorium tonight.

Having already established a new attendance record, with well above 80,000 persons visiting the show during the last eight days, members of the show committee of the W. A. T. A. are anticipating a capacity turnout for the gala closing tonight. In conformity with a custom of years' standing, the wind-up ceremonies tonight will add a pronounced carnival touch to the show, and, it is stated, will close the exposition in the proverbial blaze of glory.

That many thousands of Washingtonians were grateful for the opportunity of viewing the show on Sunday was proved yesterday when the opening of the doors of the Auditorium at 2 p. m. found a line waiting at the ticket booths. From that hour until the closing at 10:30 p. m. a steady stream of visitors moved down the spacious aisles for their annual inspection of the newest and most beautiful creations of America's greatest industry.

In accord with the show committee's announcement, the doors of the Washington Auditorium will be thrown open to the public at 10 a. m. today and the exposition will remain available until 10:30 p. m. tonight, when the 1930 automobile show will become history—to the accompaniment of tooting horns, flashing lights, and the familiar strains of "Home, Sweet Home."

It is the expectation of officials of the trade association that many motorists and prospective owners will pay a second, or even third, visit to the Auditorium today or tonight to make a final decision regarding the purchase of a new car. The automobile show is so comprehensive, it is explained, and offers such a unique opportunity of viewing all the latest developments under a single roof, that many have found "repeat" visits distinctly worth while.

On the Rules of Traffic

By WILLIAM ULLMAN

Just because a motorist parks within the prescribed distance of 6 inches from the curb and there is no sign prohibiting him from placing his car there is no assurance that he still may not be violating the regulations. He still must consider the width of the roadway.

The District code contains a provision which prohibits parking in any street, alley or other roadway, where parking reduces the width of the open roadway to less than 11 feet.

Example: A driver parks his car in a narrow street opposite a line of automobiles standing at the other curb. There is barely room for a car to pass through the center of the roadway, which means that he has violated this provision in the code, since the average width of a car is 5 feet.

YORKTOWN FESTIVAL PLANS ARE OUTLINED

HOOVER WOULD ATTEND

(Associated Press.)

The United States Yorktown Sesquicentennial Commission has laid before Congress its recommendations for a celebration of the 150th anniversary of the surrender of Lord Cornwallis, October 19, 1781, at Yorktown, Va., when the colonies gained freedom from Great Britain. The celebration would be October 19, 1931.

The program proposed the attendance of President Hoover, his Cabinet, former Presidents, members of the Supreme Court and members of the House and Senate, along with dignitaries from other countries.

"The President has signified his intention to attend, and it is believed," the report said, "that he will make an address on that occasion."

The commission added: "Yorktown is the birthplace of the Nation, and the 150th anniversary of the surrender should be celebrated in a manner befitting the importance of the event and the greatness of this country."

It submitted legislation calling for a contribution of $200,000 by the Federal Government for the celebration, proposing the issuance of postage stamps depicting the surrender of the British and the coinage of 500,000 50-cent pieces to be sold at par to aid in financing the sesquicentennial and memorial projects. The stamps would bear the portraits of Washington, Lafayette, Baron von Steuben and the French commanders, Count De Rochambeau and Admiral De Grasse.

A monument commemorating the aid given by France also was proposed.

The President would be authorized to invite foreign governments to participate and to call the attention of the country to the event in a proclamation.

Vienna Fascists Stage Protest Against Taxes

Vienna, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—As a protest against heavy city taxes, the Fascist Heimwehr staged a great demonstration today at Votivkirche (St. Saviour's Church), the gray limestone structure built in memory of the late Emperor Franz Josef's escape from assassination in 1853.

Many thousand uniformed Heimwehr members and thousands of civilians attended, listening to fiery speeches by the leaders of the Fascist organization. Police took extreme precautions, and the demonstration passed off without the slightest untoward incident. After the speaking the Heimwehr marched in military order along the Ringstrasse, the wide street which occupies the site of the old ramparts.

Father Will Buy Saxophone To Keep Young Son 'Quiet'

Old Man Opportunity Also Finds Family Will Use Commissions Earned in The Post's $20,000 Campaign to Help Finance His Musical Education.

"I suppose this has been a day of rest for you," said a reporter to Old Man Opportunity, who had taken his usual seat on the edge of the City Editor's desk.

"In a way," replied Joe, "but of course I had to go out with the various editions of The Post on Sunday morning and call attention to the standing of candidates in the $20,000 Opportunity Campaign as printed in a full page announcement.

"I visited at one home where a youngster was crying for a saxophone. The father decided to give him one to keep him quiet, and so, of course, I pointed out the 'Opportunity' of obtaining one at little cost through the classified advertising columns of The Post.

"We then had a very pleasing discussion of music although the man's wife seemed to know very little about the subject. When we spoke of harmony she said that they had it for breakfast nearly every morning. Then again, when we were debating the tonal quality of various instruments and I expressed an admiration for the cello she agreed that it was wonderful with fruit and whipped cream.

"We mentioned 'visiting conductors,' and she thought they would be apt to go visiting a lot, as she understood they rode on the cars free. Drummers were interesting, she thought, because they always knew a lot of funny stories."

"Was she a reader of The Post?" asked the reporter.

"She hadn't been," replied the old man, "but when I explained how thoroughly The Post covered news in musical circles she decided that it would be of great benefit to her son in his musical education. She is sending in her subscription coupon with a nomination blank and will pay for both the saxophone and music lesson with the cash commissions she will receive, even if she does not win an automobile or radio."

"I called at that house shortly after you had been there," announced C. D. Chance, who had come into the room during the conversation. "I informed her that the saxophone would prove of great aid in getting subscriptions."

"How could that be?" inquired the reporter. "The boy isn't able to play, is he?"

"No," answered Chance, "but people will be glad to give him a subscription if he will stop trying to."

"Where's your police dog?" asked Opportunity.

"That reminds me," replied Chance. "I've got to take him out of that hotel before 12 o'clock. I hired a room and they told me the rates were six dollars up to twelve. I guess we couldn't afford to stay there all night.

"So long, all. See you tomorrow."

Of the hundreds of thousands of owners not 1 has paid a cent for service

Note:—This refrigerator has been chosen for the third consecutive year as the official refrigerator for the model kitchen at The Washington Post Cooking School to be held at the Belasco Theater, February 11 to 14, inclusive—another recognition of the superiority of the General Electric.

ON TOP where it belongs

Put your hand over a radiator—and you'll know what refrigerator to buy!

Feel that current of warm air heading straight for the ceiling? Warm air has a habit of floating up—an unbreakable habit. And that includes the warm air the mechanism draws out of your refrigerator to make it cool inside.

How easy to see that the efficient refrigerator mechanism must always be on top, so that all the warm air released by it will be set free above the cabinet that must be kept cool!

You can always tell a General Electric Refrigerator. The mechanism is on top where it belongs. And that mechanism keeps the temperature of your refrigerator where it belongs. Always below 50 degrees.

And it keeps your electric current bill where it belongs. Unbelievably low. And it keeps the maintenance cost where it belongs. For three years no owner has paid one cent for service!

Why not put a nice, glistening white, all-steel General Electric Refrigerator where it belongs? Phone us, or better yet, drop around.

AND THESE ADDED ADVANTAGES TOO!

1. All machinery hermetically sealed in one steel casing—permanently oiled.
2. Incomparably quiet in operation.
3. Low running cost—a few cents a day.
4. An accessible freezing regulator.
5. An all-steel, warp-proof cabinet.
6. Sanitary, all-porcelain chilling chamber.
7. Food storage area most spacious.
8. Mounted on legs for easier cleaning.

TREND OF BUSINESS IS GETTING BETTER

1929 Report of U. S. Steel Corporation Shows $21 Share Earnings.

COMMODITY PRICES OFF

New York, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Beginning of the second month of the year discloses widespread irregularities in the business situation, but the general trend is toward improvement. A further upturn in industrial activity last week, particularly in the steel and automotive industries, was offset by a sharp decline in agricultural values, notably wheat and cotton.

Operations in the steel industry have increased from the low level to 50 per cent of capacity during the holiday season to more than 75 per cent of capacity at the end of January, but the gain has failed to check the declining price tendency, the composite price for finished steel sagging to the lowest levels since November, 1927. The United States Steel Corporation, the country's largest producer, showed unexpectedly favorable earnings of more than $21 a share last year in its quarterly report published last week.

Freight car traffic, regarded by many as barometor of general business conditions, continues disappointing. Weekly car loadings in January have been the lowest of that month for the past five years. This may be due in part to the growing competition of motor truck traffic and to unusually severe winter weather in certain sections of the country.

Building Activity Declines.

Building activity also is running below the levels of the corresponding period last year, despite the announcement of enlarged construction programs made at President Hoover's conferences with business men two months ago. Better weather and the expected easing of money rates is expected, however, to give the needed stimulus to the building industry.

The sharp break in commodity prices has again raised the question of a possible decrease in farm purchasing powe this year. Cotton broke about $6 a bale to the lowest levels recorded since the large 1926-27 crop, all futures dropping below 17 cents a pound, with the March option close to the 16-cent level. Wheat dropped about 10 cents a bushel below the low prices of January, 1929, but made partial recovery. The estimated supply of cotton in the United States on January 1, 1930, was 10,467,000 bales, an increase of 972,000 bales above the corresponding date a year ago. Wheat exported in December, 1929, totaled 7,067,000 bushels, a decline of 5,271,000 below the same month the year before.

Copper Buying Improves.

Copper buying shows some improvement, mainly for small lots. Large consumers continue to pursue a "hand-to-mouth" buying policy, with producers showing no inclination to shade the 18-cents-a-pound level at which the price of the red metal has been virtually pegged for several months. A further curtailment in production brings the rate of operations to about 50 per cent of the peak activity of 1929.

Automobile production shows further expansion, two of the largest producers announcing a sharp increase in February production schedules. Smaller manufacturers continue to pursue a cautious policy, waiting more definite indications of the spring demand for cars.

Bank clearings in the leading cities again last week dropped sharply below the corresponding period a year ago. New York showed the largest decrease, due largely to sharp reduction in speculative activities in the securities markets.

ADVICE ON INVESTMENTS

By CHARLES W. STORM.

Continental Oil and Refining.

Capt. W. E. D.—Will you please inform me as to whether or not Continental Oil and Refining Co. stock has any value at this time?

Answer—No present record of a company bearing that title and no market for the stock can be found, not even among securities dealt in over-the-counter.

Automotive Royalties Corporation.

W. J. C.—Please give me information relative to the Automotive Royalties Corporation, located at 305 East Forty-sixth street, New York. I have an opportunity to purchase some stock at 65. What dividends does it pay? Also advise me concerning Southern City Public Service Co. 6 per cent convertible debenture bonds, due 1949?

Answer—there is no available information concerning the Automotive Royalties Corporation as to earnings, dividends, &c.; moreover, the stock is not listed on any of the exchanges and can not even be found listed among the securities dealt in over-the-counter. Would advise you to look twice before you leap. Southern City Public Service 6 per cent debentures are regarded as "fair" in the speculative-investment group of bonds.

Concerning Three Stocks.

F. E. H.—Kindly give me your opinion of Armour of Illinois A and B stocks; Bulova Watch and Aviation Corporation of Delaware.

Answer—Profits of Armour of Illinois for the 1929 fiscal year are believed to have been below those for the preceding period. Nothing is paid on the A or B stocks, and the future appears somewhat clouded by the relinquishment of certain lines under the consent decree. Armour is speculative.

Preliminary estimates of earnings for Bulova Watch are $5.22 per share for 1929, and $7 a share is looked for in 1930. Sales in the first six months last year gained 50 per cent over those for the same term of 1928. Earnings of $5.22 for 1929, compare with $3.73 for 1928, and this earnings growth appears likely to continue. With the common stock paying $3 per annum, the stock may be regarded as an investment issue with good prospects.

Aviation Corporation of Delaware has been affected by the general selling of such stocks, and accounts for its present low market price. No dividends are being paid, and the outlook at present would not indicate any for some time. For the September quarter, the company operated at a loss of $336,000. The stock is highly speculative.

Continental Baking Co.

Mrs. F. L. H., D. C.—Will you kindly tell me what you think of Continental Baking preferred as an investment stock? I am looking for investment stocks and would appreciate your suggestions. I am not interested in anything speculative.

Answer—Considering that dividends of $8 annually have been paid on Continental Baking preferred over a series of years, and that there is every reason to believe that the rate will be maintained indefinitely, especially as earnings of the company are now on an ascending scale, the issue is very well regarded from an investment viewpoint. Other preferred stocks that possess considerable attraction at existing levels include American Locomotive, American Steel Foundry, Baldwin Locomotive, Bethlehem Steel and Corn Products Refining, all of which are at present on a 7 per cent dividend paying basis, and give a good return on the investment at prevailing prices.

Two Aviation Stocks.

Miss D. F.—I am interested in air stocks. Please give me your opinion on Aviation Corporation of Delaware and United Aircraft Corporation.

Answer—The aviation industry is one of America's youngest lines of business. Both Aviation Corporation and United Aircraft stocks are speculations, as neither pay a dividend yet. Of the two, United has a much better outlook because of its stronger backing, and it may be some time before this stock yields a return to shareholders. For the long-term, United may be held.

CREDIT CONDITIONS EASE

New York, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—A brisk upturn in stock prices which carried the general index of 90 stocks to the highest level since the November panic and the break in wheat and cotton futures to new low levels for the season were the highly contrasting features in this week's financial and commodities markets. Bond prices eased somewhat because of the com-

New York, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Municipal and State bond issues scheduled for offering this week aggregate $24,742,749, a decrease of about $3,000,000 from the offerings of last week. Dallas County, Tex., road district No. 1, on Monday will offer $3,000,000 road bonds.

Net earnings of the Simms Petroleum Co. for 1929, according to estimates of company officials, amounted to between $2,000,000 and $2,500,000, equal to between $2.50 and $3.50 a share. This compares with earnings of $3,326,084, or 4[illegible] cents a share in 1928.

The National City Bank of New York says in an announcement that during January industrial activity had made an impressive comeback from the low point reached in November and December. As evidence it said that operations in the iron and steel industries have been stepped up since the end of December from approximately 40 per cent of capacity to 75 per cent, with some companies at the end of January ranging as high as 100 per cent.

Commercial Investment Trust Corporation, a finance company, reports consolidated net profits of $9,132,610 for 1929, a gain of $3,854,348 over 1928. Earnings available for dividends totaled $7,844,095, or $4.47 a share on average amount of common stock outstanding during the year. In 1928 earnings equaled $3.83 per share on the same basis.

Continental Shares, Inc., an investment and holding company, reports net profits for 1929 of $4,106,937, compared with $1,308,267 in 1928. The company's assets aggregate $132,317,995.

Net profits of the Budd Wheel Co. for 1929 amounted to $1,191,009 equal to $1.84 a share on the common stock, compared with $227,499, or 15 cents a share in 1928.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

AN attempt will be made by Crosley at Cincinnati to send a program around the world in relays on short waves. A station using only 250-watt power is expected to carry it the first 8,000 miles.

DUE at Station WRC at 7:15 o'clock Friday evening to deliver a lecture on Norway, sponsored by the Norwegian Minister, Gladys M. Petch, a British traveler, hailed a passing taxicab downtown.

Instead of at the studios in the National Press Building it landed her at 7:10 at the transmitting station at Fourteenth street and Park road, 25 blocks north. Here Miss Petch was hurriedly directed downtown. After paying the driver at Fourteenth and F streets, she approached a policeman for further guidance.

"You're in the wrong place, lady!" he said.

Almost frantic, she jumped into another taxicab, the policeman giving the driver instruction which resulted in her arriving back at Fourteenth street and Park road. Again she was sent to the Press Building, where she did not arrive until 8 o'clock.

It comes on pretty good authority that Rudy Vallee will make a special trip to Washington, Friday, February 14, with his orchestra to play for the luncheon of the Congressional Club, at which Mrs. Hoover is to be the principal guest. If so the proceedings may be broadcast.

The story is that one of the officers of the club knew Rudy as a little boy and when she invited him to Washington, he readily accepted.

IF Senator Joe Robinson had had to pay for his 15-minute radio talk from London to Washington yesterday afternoon it would have cost him $225. His sally at Will Rogers, who he described as "a self-appointed advisor to the simple-minded" and who he said in England "couldn't distinguish the difference between golf knickers and presentation trousers," would have put him back about $30.

That is if the senator had been talking to Washington only. However he was heard in every big city from New York to San Francisco. In that case if the senator had had to foot the bill it would have been up in the thousands.

The latest rumor is that if Representative Wallace White, jr., doesn't make the grade in the senatorial race in Maine President Hoover will appoint him to the Radio Commission.

First presented over the radio in 1924 and since given every year, "He Knew Lincoln" will again be an outstanding feature of the great emancipator's birthday.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

GOOD FOOD HINTS FOR CHILDREN.

(U. S. Department of Agriculture.)

Set a time for meals, and allow no distractions during the meal hour.

Have the food attractive in color, odor and flavor, so that it will tempt the appetite.

Serve small portions so that the child can clear his plate without the feeling of being stuffed.

Take it for granted that he will eat happily everything served to him, and be sure that he becomes acquainted with a variety of foods.

Let him feed himself and experience the joy of self-help.

Be consistent in responding to a child's pranks and ruses. Laughing at one time and punishing the next is never effective.

Remember that the table is a place for good comradeship and not for discipline or nagging.

Have no differences of authority between the parents and other adults in deciding questions about the child's eating.

Refrain absolutely from discussing the child's eating habits with others in his presence.

BRIDGERS, ATTENTION!

Because of space limitations the answers given in our great Milton C. Work Home Bridge Contest are necessarily abridged, but in order to satisfy the intense interest in the Questions and Answers, Mr. Work has prepared a splendid 48-page booklet entitled, "Playing Problems," which reproduces the eighteen hands, the complete auction and contract bidding, with the reasons for each bid, the answers to every question and the reasons for such answers in complete detail, all written in Mr. Work's clear and interesting style.

This booklet, "Playing Problems," which will be of much greater value to the auction and contract player than many high-priced text books, is not for sale. It has been prepared exclusively for readers of this newspaper by special arrangement with Mr. Work. One copy will be mailed to you upon request if you send self-addressed, stamped return envelope, together with 6 cents in stamps, to defray part of the cost of printing and handling this 48-page booklet. Requests not complying with these conditions will be ignored.

Wives of Tomorrow

"Pin Money—Or Love?"

DEAR MISS M'DONALD: I am so intrigued with your peppy column and the discussion on how to live on $35 a week, I want to tell you of a girl I know.

She says to her nothing matters less than money and yet that is the only thing she complains about, that her husband won't give her money. She has a good home, good meals, beautiful clothes and leisure. In sixteen months she has spent $150 of her own money. That is about 30 cents a day. Besides she has succeeded in extracting some money from him occasionally, through threats of going home.

At the start I want to say that I am not in sympathy with her. I think she and all such women are dishonest. I am an old maid. I make about $3,500 a year. I have a mother and a sister with me. We have a good home which we own, a good car, a good radio, a good piano and a good phonograph. But we did not acquire these without sacrifice. I know something about the upkeep of a house, the expense of a car, telephone, light and gas, water and daily newspaper bills. Then there is insurance and money for church and charity. I do not go to more than two "movies" a year. The three of us do not spend as much a week for the table as my friend spends for the two of them.

It will be a good experience for her if she had to earn the $60 a week her husband earns and pay all the bills and then hand over to friend husband what he would like for pin money. She would find that if she succeeded in laying anything aside for a rainy day, she would have to watch the pennies rather carefully. I predict that when she uses her last $25 she will go home to her mother and say marriage is a failure. She is the kind of a woman who expects after her marriage to spend the $35 a week that she used to make or more for her own enjoyment and amusement. If she were willing to scrimp a little now and let her husband get ahead she would find the money would come in very conveniently later. Sickness and unexpected expenses are sure to come sooner or later.

I know another woman who has been married fourteen years. They were married ten years before they could afford a child. This woman has spent $1,400 that her husband inherited, plus what he has earned in fourteen years. She is expecting a second child and she says it is a tragedy, for they haven't the money for a second child to grow up with Junior. She has a husband who gave her what she asked to spend on the "things a woman needs." I rather admire any man who has decision enough not to give a woman unnecessary money, and I would suggest to all disgruntled wives to go back to their $35 a week jobs and remain married, if they can not be happy with what their husbands provide. Is a marriage such a simple thing as to break it merely because a woman can not succeed in getting from her husband what she considers necessary to spend on the "things a woman needs?" If it is, then I'm glad I'm not married.

I think women put a very low valuation on marriage when they howl that it is a failure when the only grievance is that they haven't enough pocket money. Any woman can earn money, but no woman can obtain outside of marriage the beautifying gift of loving devotion and a good man's trust. I am ashamed of my sex when I hear these wives rave.

Jane Interprets the Mode

Paris, Feb. 2.

CAPES are one of the items that constantly reappear as the wheel of fashion turns. Fans, red shoes, high waists . . . frivolous details these, which can not long be banished from the heart of woman.

And the cape is another of them.

And the capes for this spring are certainly graceful and somewhat coy. Sometimes they are fitted on yokes, which snugly fit the shoulders so that they are most becoming to slender figures. Sometimes, as I have told you before, they are just small enough to look like a large bertha collar. Altogether, they are as smart as anything, and we like 'em—so there!

But, as we seem to manage to tell you every spring or so, you have to practice wearing a cape gracefully. Just one afternoon off . . . practice in the security of your boudoir . . . and for all the rest of your life you will have a cape sense, as it were . . . If some one doesn't catch you at it and put you in the bughouse. It might be well to explain beforehand what you are doing.

Have you noticed the velvet trimming on fur coats? It's the first time I've ever noticed a fur coat trimmed with anything but fur! Here and there a fine sable offers a high-standing collar and decorative elbow cuffs of English velvet, exactly the color of the coat.

The hundred and fifty dollar touch to the seventy-five dollar hat, scarf and bag ensemble . . . that's what we'll tell you how to do in this week's illustrated leaflet for which you may send a stamped self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post.

And, it's so simple! Just takes the ideas and then a half-hour of putting this, that and the other thing in this, that and the other place—well, the leaflet tells you much better.

The Couturier.

Here's a good one, maybe ten times or more you'll have to say it. Doeuillet-Doucet. You pronounce this "du-ya-du-say" and there is no accent anywhere. Just say it all in one breath, but sort of calmly, as it were.

Jeweled decolletage, a ruby braid on a black dress, a jet one on white, emeralds on violet . . . around the shoulders and throat and the wide sleeve openings we find these strips of jewels.

And somehow it seems appropriate, in these days of concentrated attention to intricate skirt draping and very little bodice trimming.

Dark red velvet and brown fox, and a Doeuillet-Doucet way of placing the velvet, which makes it look rather like a suit . . . this the ever-so-smart, slightly form-fitting coat I have illustrated for you today.

By the way, the Dare weekly fashion letter, with some interesting ideas, is in The Washington Post every Sunday.

Au Revoir!

Bouffant Taffeta "Backs" The New Decolletage

In the newest manner—a demure printed taffeta evening gown with its sophistication in an exotic bow . . . in its clever decolletage . . . its full skirt falling in long, graceful, petal flares. Stunning pastel florals in soft greens and yellow make it a thing of refreshing beauty. It's altogether an enchanting affair ready to fascinate any smart young person with its simple charm . . . Size 14.

JELLEFF'S (F STREET)

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

Jacob Ben-Ami journeyed down from New York yesterday to thrill an audience at the Jewish Community Center last evening with an inspirational talk on "The Jew in the Theater" and, later, with his impressions of the repertoire as contrasted with the commercial theater.

It has been many a day since a group of people has had the rare privilege of standing before an artist really inspired with the love of his work, fully cognizant of the obstacles that stand in the way of real artistic achievement; and so those who were privileged to hear this young Jew, born in Russia, took away with them memories that will last a lifetime. He read several interesting episodes from worthy plays—in English and Yiddish.

It is the belief of Mr. Ben-Ami that the theater—the theater as an institution—will never die. So long as there are great creative artists to work for it, in all capacities, there will be people to appreciate the efforts. This, of course, is merely the surface of his searching analysis. The talking-movies he sees taking the place of the modern theater, as such, claiming the talkies can do these things as well as the theater that has brought about the type system of acting; for what matters it if some of the cheaply sentimental trash finds no other outlet in the halls of entertainment but on the screen? It matters not.

Only one great dramatist exists in the American theater of today, in the estimation of Jacob Ben-Ami—and this is Eugene O'Neill; O'Neill, who never wrote for the theater, whose plays were first put on by amateurs in Provincetown, who held true to his art and who eventually had the pleasure of seeing Broadway managers clamor for his wares. Incidentally, one of his most talked of plays, "Strange Interlude," comes to grace the stage of the National Theater today. At 5:30 this afternoon the curtain goes up on that drama, the one play that has broken all the conventions of the commercial theater and has lived to tell the tale.

Music reigns supreme on the stage at Poli's, where the farewell tour of "Blossom Time," the perennial, gets under way tonight. It was some nine years ago that the musical play made from the fabric that is the life of Franz Schubert first saw the light of the theater. Since that time, Washington has seen and heard "Blossom Time" year after year with no abatement in patronage. It is said that this will be the last performance of the play in Poli's, and there is truth in the assertion; for, should "Blossom Time" come back again next year, or the year after that, there will be no Poli's. The old theater is about to go the way of the world; to be torn down in July to make way, along with other buildings on the Avenue, for a grand park.

TRAVELTALKS

One of the most interesting travel talks, covering a far-flung trail, from the Panama Canal, through the countries on the west coast of South America, around the east coast and up to the Amazon River, Brazil, was delivered at the National Theater yesterday by E. M. Newman.

Beginning with wonderful camera shots of the scenic beauties of the Canal Zone, Mr. Newman took his imaginary travelers into the countries of Equador and Peru, showing not only the exteriors of governmental buildings but the interiors of the homes of the natives.

Cities and hamlets eighteen and twenty thousand feet above sea level, nestled in mountains whose scenic beauty compares favorably with that of Switzerland, Norway or Alaska, were depicted in the accompanying moving picture Mr Newman, interspersed his talk with historical accounts of the conquests of the Spanlards, and the downfall of the Incas, whose civilization he compared with that of ancient Europe.

Perhaps the most unforgetable scene among the many shown on the screen was the world's largest waterfall on the boundary of Argentine and Brazil. This, a mighty cataract two and one-half miles long, over which flows 128,000,000 cubic feet of water per minute, is as yet unharnessed by man.

From the waterfall Mr. Newman conducted his imaginary travelers 1,000 miles up the Amazon, the world's largest river. Boom cities, abandoned since the crash in the rubber marts, animals, fish and insects strange to the eyes of the home-staying Northerner—all were shown by Mr. Newman. Interesting anecdotes enlivened the historical and factual matter of the lecture.

Interracial Body Seeks $1,360,000

Fund Is Needed to Carry On Work of Commission for Ten Years.

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 2 (A.P.).—The commission on interracial cooperation announced a $1,360,000 campaign to carry on its work for the next ten years. Dr. R. R. Moton, principal of the Tuskegee Institute, Alabama, has accepted leadership of the campaign with a committee of several financiers, philanthropists and educators.

Organized in 1919 by the late John J. Eagan and several other Southerners, the commission on interracial cooperation now extends into thirteen Southern States, and its methods have been adopted in South America, where similar racial problems prevail. The commission has sought, chiefly through conference and cooperation of white and Negro leaders, to improve interracial attitudes.

What Today Means to You

"AQUARIUS."

IF February 3 is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 8:15 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 2 p. m., and from 8 p. m. to 9:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to noon and from 5 p. m. to 6 p. m.

The influences for this date will be of an inspiring nature and you will be led to do or to say something which will prove to be of far-reaching benefit. Possible changes are augured. Happy times in a social way are promised.

A child born on this February 3 will be very quiet, well mannered and thoughtful in nature. It will be a plodding student, rather ambitious and will have considerable energy. It will be very fond of reading and will spend much time in an imaginative world.

You are of a very studious nature and are doubtless a great reader, with a love for books of all kinds; it is quite possible that you will, in course of time, become a book worm. Your memory is exceptionally retentive, and this enables you to remember, with facility, what you read. On the other hand, you lack the gift of expression, and are nervous and "distrait" when the opportunity presents itself for imparting to others something culled from your storehouse of knowledge.

Your emotions are well under control. Too much so, in fact, to attract or radiate. You are, however, keenly interested in the happiness of your fellow creatures, and in your own quiet, unostentious way do a great deal for others. You are, as a friend, loyal and sincere, and are an exponent of practicing, rather than professing, friendship.

Your ambition is not of the pushful variety. You seek only moderate comfort and are not envious of those better circumstanced than yourself. In all business enterprises you will prove to be a "washout," and your real line of endeavor should be one involving conscientious study and careful research; only will success await you if you are allowed to follow the bent of your inclinations.

Successful people born February 3: Nicholas Cooke, first State governor of Rhode Island.

Spencer F. Baird, naturalist.

Porter James McCumber, senator.

SHUTE RALLIES TO WIN TEXAS OPEN TOURNAMENT

Concord Club Beaten in Baltimore

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 2.—For three-quarters of the national amateur cup competition soccer game between the Locust Point Rangers and the Concord Soccer Club, of Washington, played at the Maryland Baseball Park today, the visitors were riding high to an apparently certain victory, but within the last 20 minutes of the final period the Rangers turned the tables with a dramatic rally and gained a 3-to-2 victory. Thus they eliminated the final Washington opponent and will battle the representative of the Philadelphia district in the next game.

Defeating the Concord Team on the water-soaked, slush-covered field was a task that called for all the resources at the Rangers' command. As an initial handicap Lou Cox, regular inside left forward, reported ill, and his absence necessitated a shift in the entire Ranger line-up. His place was taken by Cliff Wasmus, shifted over from the left wing.

Baltimore Team Shifted.

Andy Borkowski moved up from the half back line to outside left and Bob Knight replaced Borkowski. Knight's place at full back in turn was taken by Alfred Oelzner, who played despite the fact that his knee injury of two weeks ago has not entirely recovered.

The visitors had two players who would be outstanding on any team of this district. Henry Heise in goal played a brilliant game, particularly in the first half. The other star was Wilhelm Miller, center half back. He wore a blue jersey, while his mates were attired in white, but this mark of distinction was not needed to follow him in the play. He and the goalie stopped more Ranger attacks than any team played this season. They form the backbone of a strong aggregation.

Horton Smith Teams With Gene Sarazen

Special to The Washington Post.

St. Augustine, Fla., Feb. 2.—Horton Smith, the new sensation of the professional golf world, will team with Gene Sarazen, former United States open champion, in a 36-hole match against Johnny Farrell, 1928 national open title holder, and his brother, Jimmy, to be played here on Washington's Birthday, it was announced today.

The appearance of Sarazen, Smith and Farrell in a match brings together for the first time the winners of the three greatest money prizes in the history of golf—Sarazen having recently won the $25,000 Agua Caliente tournament, and Farrell and Smith each having won the $15,000 Lagorce open.

U. S. Trotter Beaten Once More in France

Vincennes, France, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—San Williams, American trotter, was an also ran in the Copenhagen Stakes, feature of the card here today. The race, over a course of 1 mile and 5 furlongs, was won by Benjamin, with Champagne second and Begonia third. The time was 3:55. It was San Williams' third start in France and his third failure to win. Twenty horses started.

Georgetown and Maryland Fives Face Big Tests Tonight

G. U. and W. Virginia at Tech; Generals at College Park.

FEATURED by a pair of big league games tonight, this week's program of competition for local college quintets is the banner one of the season. Ten games in all are scheduled and eight will be staged for the entertainment of Capital fans.

Tonight's contests, which should draw capacity crowds, will bring together Georgetown and West Virginia at Tech High School and Maryland and Washington and Lee at Ritchie Gymnasium, College Park. Both will commence at 8 o'clock. A preliminary to the Georgetown-West Virginia clash will be played by G. U. Freshmen and Gonzaga High, starting at 7 o'clock.

Four other exceptionally attractive games will be staged on local floors during the week. On Thursday night Georgetown will entertain New York University, its warmest sports rival, at Tech High, and Catholic University will play host to the crack St. John's Five, of Annapolis, at Brookland.

G. W. and American Meet Saturday.

On Saturday night George Washington and American will collide on the latter's court in a strictly local games—the second of a series—while Maryland does battle with North Carolina University at College Park.

Gallaudet's games with Benjamin Franklin Thursday night and Maryland State Normal Saturday night, American's joust with Loyola Wednesday night, and Maryland's meeting with Western Maryland Thursday night complete the week's card.

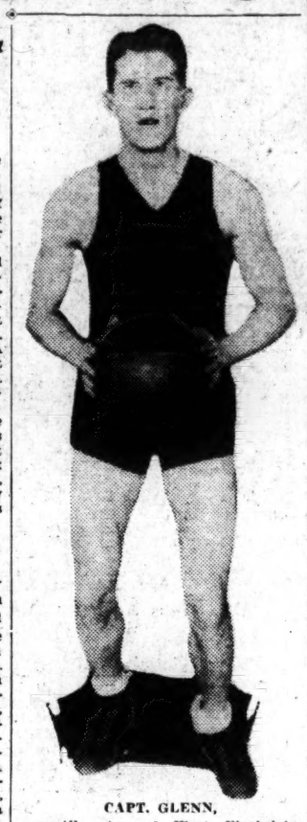
The visiting teams in tonight's contests clashed at Huntington, W. Va., last Saturday night, West Virginia scoring a surprising 50 to 34 victory. It was Washington and Lee's first loss this season. Previoiusly the Generals had romped through seven games.

Glenn Hurt in Battle.

The victory was costly, however, to West Virginia, as its captain and star forward, "Little Sleepy" Glenn, sustained a broken finger. While he played through 30 minutes of the game in spite of the injury, it is doubtful if he will be allowed to start against Georgetown. If Glenn is on the bench, Johnny Doyle, sophomore forward, probably will bear the burden of the Mountaineers' attack. He scored 19 points against Washington and Lee.

Washington and Lee will present the fastest college basket ball player in the South in Leigh Williams, center. This youth, who towers 6 feet 3 inches, runs the quarter mile in 49 seconds. Maryland doubtless will concentrate its defensive efforts on Williams, and if successful in covering him, should make the game very close.

Last year Washington and Lee defeated Maryland in two games. The scores were 47-22 and 42-18. West Virginia downed Georgetown in a single clash last year, 49 to 44, and took a 34-to-27 decision from the Hilltoppers on January 10 of this year.



CAPT. GLENN,
versatile star of West Virginia's Five, who will appear against Georgetown at Tech High School tonight. He was the second leading scorer in the East in 1929 and was captain and quarter back of the football team.

Harris Last Of Playing Managers

Ex-Nat Leader Likely Through as Active Player.

Bucky Proved 'Game' Player and Pays the Penalty.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

CONDITIONS in baseball change almost as fast as do the prices on the stock market. Just a comparatively few short years ago there was a pronounced trend toward player managers, with Cobb, Collins, Speaker, Harris and Sisler in the American League and Bancroft and Hornsby in the National. Last year Harris alone was considered as a possible player and 1930 is not likely to see him in the Detroit line-up.

There have been eight changes in leadership since last season ended, four in each league, but all of the new pilots—McKechnie, of the Braves; Ens, of the Pirates; Howley, of the Reds; Street, of the Cards; Wagner, of the Red Sox; Shawkey, of the Yankees; Killefer, of the Browns, and Bush, of the Chisox—have long since become inactive as players.

When Harris was let out here as Washington skipper soon after the 1928 season ended and immediately hooked up with the Tigers, he had ambitions of getting in the Detroit line-up and worked as hard as any of his men trying to get into condition at the spring training camp. Realizing that there was not a chance of him beating out Charley Gehringer at second, he did a little work at short and third, but evidently decided that he was not good enough at either of these positions.

Failed to Start Game in 1929.

As a result he failed to start in a single game last season. He did some utility base running and went to bat as pinch hitter eleven times, getting one hit. In the inning or so he played afield he had no chances. This year of comparative idleness undoubtedly has knocked Harris out of any consideration as a player for the coming season, for the "boy manager" of the Nats of 1924 is now regarded as a veteran—and a lay-off of a whole year plays havoc with an old-timer's baseball form, both afield and at bat.

To Washington fans it may be hard to believe that Harris is through as a player, his case being like that of many others and simply showing how quietly "Father Time" can sneak up on one. True, Bucky may not yet be regarded as a tottering old man, but he celebrated his thirty-third birthday last November 8, and 30 usually marks the beginnng of the end of a professional diamonder's career.

Harris Quits Earlier Than Average.

Harris' end has been reached a little earlier than the average, however, for although he has played minor league ball since 1915 and had a so-called chance with the Tigers in 1916, his major league career actually started late in the 1919 season, when the Nationals bought him from the Buffalo Internationals. As he was practically inactive last year, his term in the majors as a player has been just a little more than nine seasons.

To one familiar with Harris' habits, the reason for his earlier-than-the-average retirement from active play is easily figured out. It is simply a case of Bucky loving the game to such an extent that he simply would not lay off long enough to let the injuries he received from time to time heal.

Joined Nats With Broken Finger.

Harris joined the Nats with a broken finger but failed to tell President Clark Griffith, who was manager at that time, and then had to be ordered to have the diget fixed when it finally was discovered. The gameness he showed when, despite a badly spiked finger just before the Nats won their world's series in 1924, he refused to quit, will not be forgotten by fans. On many other occasions, he has played with a finger in splints, a bad foot or an injured knee or leg.

It was because Harris did not "baby" himself and give up while trying to lead his Nats to more pennants that his career has ended earlier than that of the average. The result is that he is now paying the price for not giving his injuries proper attention when received.

In these days of a player laying off for a week in case a pimple is discovered on his forehead, Harris stands out as one of the "he-men" of baseball. He was a martyr to his profession—the only one of his kind which the writer can recall offhand.

Dudley Gains Futile Lead Near End

Columbus Pro Shoots 277 for Test; 7 Under Par.

Espinosa, McIntyre and Dudley in Tie for Second.

By GAYLE TALBOT, Jr.

BRACKENRIDGE PARK, San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 2 (A.P.).—While a gallery of 8,000 spectators stampeded in his course, Densmore Shute, slim young Columbus, Ohio, professional, continued his calm, unruffled golf today to win the ninth annual Texas open tournament with a total score of 277 strokes. On his final round he took a par 71.

Late in the day it appeared that Shute might have the $1,500 first prize taken from his grasp after he had led the field through three gruelling rounds, but he tightened up and came through with a safe margin. His total for the 72 holes was seven strokes under perfect golf for this heavily wooded and trapped course.

Three stars who threatened to pass Shute throughout today's 36 holes finished in a tie for second place, each with 280 strokes. They were Al Espinosa, Chicago; Neal McIntyre, Indianapolis, and Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del. They divided $1,700 in prize money between them.

Second Important Triumph Of Winter Tour.

Shute's victory was his second important triumph of the winter golf tour. He picked up $3,500 in the Los Angeles open, which, with $1,500 here, placed him well up in the list of money winners for the year.

It took four remarkable rounds, 68, 69, 69, 71, to put him ahead of the crack field here. For the first 54 holes, he went over par on only 3 holes. His drives invariably were long and straight, his pitching dead to the pin and his putting accurate. One of his 69's was scored over a soggy course yesterday, with a drizzling rain in his face.

Tony Manero, Elmsford, N. Y., came in for a $300 cut of the prize list with 284 strokes. Jack Forrester, Hackensack, N. J., and Mike Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y., Divided $350. Each had 287 strokes. Frank Walsh, Chicago, Al Watrous, Detroit, and Harry Cooper, unattached, split $325 for their 288's. There were a raft of lesser prizes, including fifteen of $50 each.

Ed Dudley put the pressure on Shute in the final round. Playing in the same threesome with the Columbus professional, Dudley was only a stroke behind when they started the final go-round. Shute faltered on the first nine, going one over par, the first time he had turned a nine over perfect figures since the tournament started, and Dudley squared it with a 36.

Shute Finishes Last 5 Holes In Two Under Par.

Shute got the stroke back on No. 10, but took a disastrous 6 on the thirteenth and Dudley went into the lead with five holes to go. Shute buckled down to business. He clipped off those last five 3-4-3-4-3, two under par, while Dudley went two over. That was sufficient.

Although Dudley faltered at the last, he made a heroic spurt in the morning round to climb into second place at the three-quarter pole. He had a 66, tying the course record, and his 31 on the par 36 front nine was said to have established a record.

Espinosa and McIntyre fought it out with each other to finish in a tie with Dudley for second place. Each had a 210 total when they started the last round, and each turned in a 70, one under par. McIntyre just missed exclusive claim on second money when his putt on the last green rimmed the cup.

Risko Refuses Match With Hoffman in N. Y.

New York, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Efforts to match Johnny Risko, Cleveland heavyweight, with George Hoffman, of New York, have failed, and Madison Square Garden has abandoned plans for its weekly Friday night show this week.

The Garden originally had matched Risko against Victorio Campolo, big Argentine heavyweight, but the New York State Athletic Commission stepped in and barred the bout on the grounds that Risko was too small to fight the South American. Efforts then were made to get Risko to box Hoffman, but the Cleveland baker boy, angry at the commission's ruling, declined to meet Hoffman or any one else in New York. All attempts to get him to change his mind failed and the show was called off entirely.

Argentine Poloists In Far-Coast Finals

Los Angeles, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Piling up a five-goal lead in the first two chukkers, the Argentine Polo Team today won its way to the finals of the Pacific Coast open championships by defeating the Rancho San Carlos quartet, 10 to 5.

The sparkling horsemanship and accuracy of Alfredo Harrington, No. 1 man, and Manual Andrada, back, was largely responsible for the victory. Each made four goals to tie for high scoring honors.

The Hurricanes from New York and the Midwick Team, Los Angeles, will cross mallets Wednesday to decide which will meet the South Americans in the final tilt next Sunday.

Tilden Shows Form In Cannes Semifinal

Cannes, France, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Big Bill Tilden displayed his best form of the season in eliminating Charles Kingsley, of Great Britain, 6—0, 6—1, 6—1, in the semifinals of the Cannes tennis tournament today.

Henri Cochet, famous French star who watched the match from the sidelines, commented that "Tilden is not so old and decrepit as he is pictured."

"It may be a good thing for France that he is out of the Davis Cup tennis," Cochet added.

ON THE SIDELINES by BRIAN BELL

STORIES from Boston have relegated George Sisler to the bench for 1930. As the dread tidings come from the Hub, New York dispatches tell of Ruth's demands for $85,000 for a year's work. Yet Sisler is only a year older than Ruth and while the Michigan University graduate has never rivalled the Great Babe in home-run hitting, over a stretch of fourteen years there is little to chose between the batting figures compiled.

Sisler has a lifetime major league batting average of over .340 and he was the only Boston Brave to get 200 hits last season. He pounded out 205 hits in 1929 and finished with an average of .327, much better than any of his fellows could do.

Time has taken its toll in the spring of his legs and he has slowed down in recent years, but he can hit and the chances are that if he is shoved into the background as a pinch hitter in 1930, the regular first baseman will not be the hitter his predecessor was and is.

The once great college pitcher has to be a better hitter now to hit .327 than he was in his younger days when he clouted the ball for a much higher figure. When he was much faster, any slow ball to short or third was a hit and momentary hesitation by an opposing infielder meant that there was no use to throw. George would be there. Now this same ball is an out and Sisler must make all his hits solid smashes beyond the reach of the opposition.

BASEBALL fans of the future may never realize how great a player was this same George Sisler. He has never had that asset the club president loves, "color." Almost shy, and with no "gift of gab," on or off the field, Sisler simply played baseball, and let it go at that. A study in contrasts may be provided by a comparison of Sisler and another first baseman, Charles Arthur Shires. Shires will have more to say in one baseball game than will Sisler in a whole season.

When Sisler was manager of the St. Louis Browns a group of players were sitting in front of a Tarpon Springs hotel. The other players were talking and Sisler was listening. There had been a fire the day before and the athletes were discussing the hurry with which some of the occupants of the burned building had removed their baggage. "It was quite a fire, wasn't it, George?" asked a Brown, turning to Sisler. "Yes," said Sisler.

Finally the talk drifted to the hard work done by pitchers. One pitcher thought the assignments of moundsmen much more difficult than that of the other players. There was great excitement in the group when Sisler contributed an unsought opinion in four words, "I liked to pitch," he said.

'Peace Without Victory,' Says Iowa Editorial

Iowa City, Iowa, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—The Daily Iowan, student newspaper of the University of Iowa, declared editorially today that failure of the Western conference to reinstate eleven disqualified athletes while restoring the university to good standing Saturday is considered on the campus here to be at best "only a peace without victory."

"Iowa City received the tidings without enthusiasm and with a touch of skepticism," the student daily said.

Phelan Seeks Welch As Freshmen Coach

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Ralph "Pest" Welch, Purdue's 1929 full back, was recommended today as head freshman football coach at the University of Washington by Jimmy Phelan, the University's newly chosen head mentor, also from Purdue.

Phelan is now at La Fayette, Ind.

Welch will be officially named tomorrow when the student board of controls meet to approve Phelan's recommendation, which was made in a message to Earl F. Campbell, graduate manager. Welch's contract will be for one year.

Babe Ruth Romps in South Unworried About Contract

MIAMI, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—For a man who expects to have $255,000 to spend in the next three years, Babe Ruth is remarkably free of worry as he frolics in the Southland this winter.

But the distinguished slugger has things so well organized that he probably doesn't even have to bother about such details as spending his vast income.

Babe's carefree attitude certainly does not reflect much concern over the result of his demands on the Yankees for the greatest salary ever asked by any sports celebrity.

The Bambino set his figure at an annual salary of $85,000 and demanded a three-year contract, which would bring $255,000 for three seasons' work.

The counter offer of $75,000 a year and a two-year contract advanced by the Yankees seemed to make the big slugger just that much more determined to make his own terms stick.

It would be difficult to imagine the slugging king feeling any other way, though.

He is down here to play and work enough on the side to ease himself into the rigors of spring training, due to begin in a few weeks.

The Bambino takes in the fights and the various other doings and is going strong in the business of posing for the photographers.

They have had the Big Bam shooting golf with a billiard stick, taking his home run cut with an Indian war club and doing countless things some of which strain slightly at the Babe's dignity.

Yet he is as accommodating as a political candidates, only that he doesn't kiss the babies.

This may be Babe's way of impressing the Yankees.

D. C. NETMEN BALTIMORE VICTORS

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 2.—The Washington entry in the winter tennis league lodged what may be considered a definite claim to the championship by trouncing Mount Washington, 7 to 1, at the Fifth Regiment Armory today. The victory widened the margin of leadership over Clifton, which is in second place. Only one match, that between Clifton and Mount Washington, remains on the schedule. It will be played next Saturday.

The Capital team was very near a clean sweep. The visitors drove and volleyed their way to victory in all six singles. In the doubles, Mount Washington held them to even terms by winning one match and tying another at set-all when play had to be stopped since the time for tennis had elapsed.

Four of the eight tests decided were fought in determined style by the local players, for in three of the singles and one doubles, they forced the visitors to three sets before granting supremacy to the opposition.

The number 1 singles was a tense struggle between Dooley Mitchell, Washington youth, and John A. Magee, Mount Washington veteran. After losing the first set, 6—4, Magee evened matters with Mitchell by the same score in the second set. Play was even closer in the deciding frame, games going to deuce several times before Mitchell won out, 9—7.

Similarly in the number 2 singles, Page Andrews, of the Baltimoreans, matching his crafty play against the brilliant game of young Shore, won the first set, 11—9, but then lost as Shore wore him down with the force of his game, the latter winning the next two sets, 7—5, 6—4.

SINGLES.

Dooley Mitchell, Washington, defeated John Magee, 6—4, 4—6, 9—7; Frank Shore, Washington, defeated Page Andrews, 9—11, 6—4, 7—5; William Buchanan, Washington, defeated Frank Roberts, 6—3, 6—2; Richmond Skinner, Washington, defeated Joseph Sarentny, 4—6, 6—2, 9—7; Clyde Yeomans, Washington, defeated Joseph Hogan, 6—4, 6—0; Larry Phillips, Washington, defeated Walter Beuchelt, 6—2, 8—6.

DOUBLES.

Mitchell and Buchanan, Washington, defeated Magee and Andrews, 6—4, 2—6, 6—4; Sarentny and Hogan, Mount Washington, tied with Shore and Skinner at one-all in sets when match was discontinued; Roberts and Beuchelt, Mount Washington, defeated Yeomans and Phillips, 6—4, 6—2.

IN THE COLLEGE CORNER

By JACK ESPEY

COACH BURTON SHIPLEY, of Maryland University, like many basket ball coaches in the South and West, teaches his team the zone defense. He is sold on this system of defensive play and can outline numerous reasons.

The chief, yet simplest, of his reasons is that the zone defense makes it possible to quickly form for the offense; quicker, he claims, than the five-man defense.

In the zone system, a team is divided into two lines of defense with three men standing on an imaginary line in front of the 15-foot mark and the other two on an imaginary line near the end stripe. This line-up makes it exceedingly difficult for the opponents to cut or pass effectively inside the zone. At the same time, it causes the opponents to resort to long-distance shooting, which, of course, is not as sure a means of scoring as working the ball under the basket.

The zone system affords many chances for interception of the ball. Whether or not the interception occurs at the front line of the zone or the back, the defending team, through having three men placed in front of the 15-foot mark, can start on attack for the enemy goal usually before the team losing the ball can return to the defense.

And since they pay off on points, Shipley points out, a system in which a quick breaking offense may be formed certainly is worth while.

12-Game Grid Schedule Load for Old Liners.

When it is considered that ten experienced players are due to graduate from Maryland in June, the Old Liners' twelve-game football schedule for next fall seems to be a terrific load. Even if the Old Liners—those of them who remain—win half of their 1930 contests, they will deserve plenty of credit. The schedule calls for games with Washington College, Yale, North Carolina, St. John's of Annapolis, Virginia Military, University of Virginia, Washington and Lee, Virginia Poly, Navy, Johns Hopkins, Vanderbilt and Western Maryland.

Those of the 1929 team who will be on the sidelines if they are present at these battles are Julie Radice, Bill Evans and Augie Roberts, backs; and Al Heagy, George Madigan, Herman Lombard, Bill Heintz, John McDonald, Charley Dodson and Rip Ribnitzki, linemen.

Of this group, only half have played regularly for Coach Curley Byrd. They are Radice, Evans, Heagy, Madigan and Lombard. But the other five have rendered enough efficient service to leave Byrd and the remaining players wishing they hadn't graduated.

East's College League Resumes Play This Week

New York, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—After a lapse in the schedule because of mid-year examinations, the basket ball teams of the Eastern Intercollegiate League swing into action again this week. Three games are on the program, Columbia going to Dartmouth for the first Wednesday night. On Saturday Pennsylvania plays at Cornell and Dartmouth is host to Yale.

The Wednesday game is Columbia's second of the season and is due to tell the tale of whether the Lions really are contenders for the league crown. A victory over Dartmouth will give Columbia a tie with Pennsylvania, which already has scored two victories. If the home team wins, it will go to second place with two victories and one defeat, dropping Columbia to third. The one game each team has won was at the expense of Princeton.

The unbeaten Pennsylvania aggregation must defeat Cornell, at present fifth in the standing, to hold its away Saturday night.

PHIL SCOTT BEST BRITISH HEAVY SINCE MITCHELL

England Sees Chance for Title

Believes Idol Capable of Beating Sharkey at Miami.

Phil Rugged, Clever Fighter, Countrymen Decide.

Special to The Washington Post.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 2.—Phil Scott, who will face Jack Sharkey in the Miami Stadium on February 27 for the right to meet Max Schmeling in a battle for the world's heavyweight championship, is the first Englishman since the days of the great Charley Mitchell to reach such heights in the fistic profession. Shuffling Phil, who inherited his boxing science from his dad, who was one of England's greatest amateur middleweights and heavyweights, is the idol of the British fight fans because he is the first fellow in almost 40 years who has a chance to bring back to England the heavyweight crown.

Since the days of Charley Mitchell, England has produced many heavyweights, principally Bombardier Billy Wells, but none of the crop could stand up against his American rival. The hardy American boxer proved too much for his clever British opponent. American grit, courage and rushing tactics always has been the master of English cleverness.

Scott Called Most Scientific Of Boxers.

Scott has a chance to prove otherwise. He is reputed to be the best heavyweight that England has produced in years and the most scientific of all boxers of the present day except Tommy Loughran. In addition, Phil is far more rugged than his frame shows and this combination of ruggedness plus cleverness should enable him to give a good account of himself against Sharkey at Miami.

Phil Scott was born and raised in the suburbs of London until he was 10 years of age. His father before him was an amateur middleweight and heavyweight boxer and good judges of boxing considered him a great boxing prospect if he had turned professional. His father was a stickler for the amateur business.

Phil Scott began life in London working in a vegetable store carrying out orders when he was about 10 years of age. Later on he became a painter's assistant.

When he was 16 years of age, he joined the royal naval marines and served during the war. After his release from the royal navy, he became a member of Scotland Yard and was on the staff for a couple of years and then retired and joined the English fire brigade.

Just about that time Tex O'Rourke, of America, went to England seeking a British heavyweight champion and held tournaments along those lines. Scott, who was quite a boxer at that time, applied in person to the Hotel Cecil to O'Rourke and asked if he could ever become a boxer and if so would like Tex to take him in and have him enter his tournament. O'Rourke donned the gloves with Scott and received a lacing, after which he decided against Scott and brought a man named Isslington to this country. It took just one fight to send him back to England.

Frank Moran, who was then the rage of London, saw Scott box an exhibition one night and told Phil he ought to turn pro. Moran predicted a bright future for Scott, and the prediction has come true.

HESSLER ACE IN STEWART VICTORY

Winners to Battle Dixie Pig Five Wednesday.

LED by Hessler, the Stewart Bros. Photographers, outstanding candidates for 145-pound District A. A. U. honors, turned back the fast Delta Phi Five of Baltimore in the Silver Spring Armory yesterday, 32 to 22.

Hessler sank four goals from the floor and made four of his five goal shots good. Both clubs alternated with two teams. Harris, of the victors, and Latisky, of the visitors, shared in the scoring honors.

The Stewart Bros.' passers spurted in the second half after being held to a 2-point advantage for the first half. The score at intermission was 15 to 13.

The Dixie Pig A. C. Five will meet the Stewart Bros. Team on Wednesday night in the Silver Spring High School gym at 8 o'clock.

Business Gym Has Produced Many High School Stars

By MIKE KELLEY
(Eastern High School Coach).

THE Business High School Gymnasium, in use throughout the winter by the night school conducted there, seems to be quite a training ground for future high school basket ball players, judging from the number of its graduates who have made the grade in high school and who received their start at the game on Friday nights in that gym.

Most of these boys began playing when they were hardly able to throw the ball high enough to get it in the basket, but by the time they reached high school age they were quite proficient on the court, and some of them are now engaging in the hectic struggle we know as the 1930 interhigh basket ball series. Take the Chatlen brothers on the Western Team and Newman on the Business Club. The writer saw these boys playing basket ball on Friday nights in the Business Gym some years ago, and if they are half as serious about their game today as they were then, it is small wonder that they have succeeded in making regular positions on high school teams.

The so-called "big boys" used to play about one-half the evening and the young kid brothers used the remainder of the time. The big boys were Goldblatt, Charley Newman, Laefsky, Chatlen, Debosky and Tash, all either in the grade schools or junior high schools at that time; the youngsters were "Jakie" Lewis, Paul and Milton Chatlen, Nate Newman, a younger brother of Lewis, and a score of other paperweight basket ball performers.

Later on these boys separated and played against each other in high school. Goldblatt was captain of Tech's championship team of 1928 and a very important cog in that machine. Tash was the center on Central championship 1928 club, while Chatlen and Debosky also were members of Central squads. Debosky is now coaching the Benjamin Franklin University Team that has gotten off to a good start this season. Charley Newman and Laefsky performed with Business in interhigh competition.

"Jakie" Lewis was an outstanding athlete at Business in all sports and played football and basket ball for Emerson this season.

Now the kid brothers are having their day in basket ball. Paul and Milton Chatlen are younger brothers of the Chatlen who played for Central; Nate Newman, the present captain of Business, is a brother of Charley Newman, while "Jackie" Lewis has a kid brother who is about to enter Business and attempt to carry on in his brother's footsteps.

All these boys used to work out together several years ago and they all made good in high school ball. No doubt now many youngsters are enjoying the privileges of the Business gym on Friday nights and preparing to enjoy the glory that goes with interhigh school competition.

Another instance of a group coming to the fore at one time was the old Epiphany group of Dean, Deamdorf, Hale, Scruggs, Harper, Kessler, Schloss, the majority of whom went to Central, the exceptions being Gordon Kessler, of Tech, and Bruce Kessler, of Eastern. These boys did splendid work in high school athletics after growing up together on the playgrounds of the Thomson School.

All of the Eagles had a hand in the scoring with Sweeney and Allen tying for top honors with 13 points each. Fennie came through with 5 baskets.

They each will meet a strong team next Sunday, facing the West Virginia Paper and Pulp Co. Five of Piedmont, W. Va. at Silver Spring. Wednesday, the Eagles make their debut in the new pro circuit opposing the National Circles.

Golden Prince Wins At Agua Caliente Track

Agua Caliente Race Track, Mexico, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Golden Prince returned to Western racing in sensational fashion today. He won first honors in the Speed Handicap and the $6,990 that went with it by defeating the finest field of sprinters.

The big gelding, skillfully managed by Jockey D. Lyons, finished with his neck in front of Hamilton Cotton's Listo, which in turn was a nose in front of Shasta Bullet and My Dandy.

Spit is a horrid word, but it is worse on the end of your cigar

...the war against Spitting is a crusade of decency... join it. Smoke CERTIFIED CREMO!

Hating "spit" as you do, wouldn't you be horrified if you suddenly discovered that the cigar you smoked was rolled by filthy fingers—and tipped with spit?

Why take chances? Smoke Certified Cremo and protect yourself against this abomination! Every tobacco leaf entering the clean, sunny Certified Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods developed by the United States Government during the war. And its purity is safeguarded along every step of the way by amazing inventions that foil, wrap and tip the cigars without the possibility of spit!

Try a Certified Cremo—see how wonderfully good it is! Made of the choicest, tenderest leaves that the crop affords, we claim Certified Cremo's quality is tastier than that of any other cigar. Don't let its 5c price stand in your way. Certified Cremo is the kind of cigar your physician has in mind when he recommends a mild smoke in place of heavy brands.

Crush-proof... immaculate... foil-wrapped... Certified Cremo is the kind of cigar the late Vice-President Marshall undoubtedly had in mind when he said, "What this country needs is a good 5c cigar!"

TECH CHANGES DEFENSE FOR CENTRAL TOMORROW

Man-for-Man Style Now Favored

Coggins Has Proven Ability to Beat Zone Defense.

Boyd Likely to Shift Line-Up in Important Contest.

WHEN Coach Bert Coggins, of the Central High Basket Ball Team, is informed that Central's opponents will use the zone defense he chuckles. It is a sort of muffled chuckle, deep down for fear that the opposing coach may hear him and switch to the man-for-man style. In addition to having the best won and lost record among local high school court coaches, Coggins has proved that he can instruct his boys how to beat the zone defense. Central teams have been doing it for years. Moser, MacDonald and Banta in their day at Central were at home against the zone, and Burgess and Pete Nee, who followed, found little to balk them in that style.

Last year Central's inexperienced team, which won only two games, routed Tech's zone defense for the most surprising upset of the series. This year, in the first clash, Tech used the watchful-waiting style and Central swamped the 1929 champions who shifted to the man-for-man defense too late to get back in the running. The final score was 45-25.

Boyd Ready to Change.

Artie Boyd, Tech's coach, is about ready to abandon the zone defense, and it is probable that he will start with the man-for-man style against Central in the important game tomorrow. Boyd watched Western run up a 27-14 lead with his men waiting at their posts and he also saw Tech, switched to the man-for-man style, come romping from behind to take the game, 34-30, and gain the lead in the series.

If Coach Boyd decides on the change, he will make two shifts in his starting line-up, sending Oliverson to center and Reichardt or Everett Johnson, who has just become eligible, to guard. Johns and Talburtt, considered regulars, have been noticeable by their absence whenever Tech has shifted to the man-for-man style.

Coach Coggins may also make a change in his starting line-up, using George Brandt, of football fame, at center in place of Rice.

Brandt Has Earned Chance.

Brandt's play in recent outside games, together with his showing in the closing minutes of the Business game, has earned him a chance.

This game will offer several battles between individuals that are keenly awaited. Monk McCartee, Tech's star guard, will probably be assigned to Wilbur Cross, Central's scoring ace; while Lampson, whose guarding has been one of the series features, is likely to draw Everett Russell, Tech's high scorer.

While the majority of interest in tomorrow's double-header is in Central's attempt to tie Tech for the lead, the Business-Western game is promising of as much action. Western will be facing virtual elimination against Business. The Stenographers are out of the running but are as dangerous as any team in the series.

Purdue Aims to Hold Lead in Big Ten Race

Chicago, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—After leading the Western Conference basket ball championship race for three weeks, without playing a league game, Purdue will go back into action this week with excellent prospects of substantially adding to its margin.

The Boilermakers topped the league during its examination period on the strength of its two early season triumphs over Michigan and Northwestern, and this week will play two more contests against a pair of tail-enders. Tomorrow night, Purdue will entertain Ohio State's hard luck five at La Fayette, and should have little difficulty with the Buckeyes. On Saturday, Coach Ward Lambert's team will meet Chicago, loser of four straight, at Chicago.

Naval Hospital Five Trims Rivals, 42 to 9

Strengthened by the addition of Davis, who made his debut by scoring 19 points, the Naval Hospital Five yesterday defeated the Fort Humphreys cagers, 42 to 9, on the latter team's floor. The visitors scored with uncanny regularity while their rivals were unable to penetrate their vise-like defense. Hollingsworth, who also recently joined the Hosaps, proved a big help to the victors. White stood out in the Fort Humphreys line-up, which was somewhat depleted due to the absence of several regulars.

St. Mary Celtic Five Beats Richmond Blues

Buddy Zimmerman's basket of the game gave the St. Mary's Celtics a 23-to-21 victory over the Richmond Blues in Schuler's Hall at Alexandria yesterday in one of the closest, hardest fought games of the local campaign.

The rivals battled on even terms from start to finish, neither holding more than a 2-point margin at any one time. With the score deadlocked in the final minute of play, Zimmerman scored his first basket of the game to carry the Green to victory. Cahon and McMenamin, of the victors, and Powers, of the Blues, starred.

In the preliminary attraction, the Robert LeBruce DeMolays defeated the Clover A. C. cagers, 15 to 13. L. Schaffert led the winners.

VA. BOXERS READY FOR FLORIDA

Rivals Meet Tonight in Charlottesville Ring.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Feb. 2.—Florida's boxing team, which won second place in the Southern Conference tournament here last March, just two points behind the North Carolina squad, will meet the Virginia mittmen in Memorial Gymnasium tomorrow night.

Preceding the 'Gator-Cavalier bouts, Virginia's first-year boxers will face the leatherpushers representing Augusta Military Academy.

Headed by Coach John Piombo, the Florida boxing squad reached here tonight. After the clash with the Cavaliers tomorrow night, the 'Gator ringmen will proceed to Lexington to take on Washington and Lee the following night, and on Friday will box the Citadel at Charleston. The week's tour will be brought to a close on Saturday at Clemson.

Only two veterans are in the group which reached here tonight from Gainesville—Phil O'Connell, lightweight, and John Marsales, lightheavy. O'Connell won the Southern Conference featherweight title last year, but is scrapping in the lightweight division this year.

Varsity, Frosh Swimmers Busy Saturday.

John Minardi, bantam; George Dykes, feather; C. R. McLanahan, welter; Sam Slavin and Dick Ramsey, middles, and Carlos Proctor, heavyweight, are the newcomers to the 1930 fistic team.

Following the double victory over the natators from William and Mary College, which included such starts as Capt. Phillips, holder of the Virginia pool record for the 100 yards, and Casey, New England A. A. U. diving champion, Virginia's varsity and first-year swimming teams have taken on new life. Members of both teams are hard at work in preparation for the remaining meets of the season.

The Cavalier varsity team will journey to Durham next Saturday for a dual meet with Duke University, while on the same day the freshman squad will go to Port Deposit, Md., for a clash with the Tome swimmers.

Two Games This Week In Alexandria League

Alexandria, Va., Feb. 2.—Alexandria fans will be given two games this week in the Alexandria Gazette League, when the Knight Store Five and the St. Mary's Celtics clash on Tuesday night and the Whitestones and Del Ray A. C. oppose each other Thursday. Much enthusiasm has been created in the league since last week when the smaller Whitestone Team gave the St. Mary's a big scare. The Knights and the Celtics are now leading with one win and no losses, and the game Tuesday will break the deadlock.

PIONEERS WIN, 35 TO 21.

The Pioneer 115-pound courtmen yesterday defeated the Boy Scouts in the Jewish Community Center League, 35 to 21. Cohn was the big gun for the winners, who are booking games at Adams 8476.

New Takoma Firemen Five Looms as Threat In A.A.U. Tournament

BASKET BALL is the chief topic around the Takoma Park Volunteer Fire Department's new home these days. The gym floor that is included in the new building has proven a boon to the game in that vicinity with the result that fans and players are taking the game more seriously than in previous years, when a modern playing floor was not available.

The Takoma Firemen, who have added to their list of ambitious quests the unlimited championship of the District A. A. U., are out in front in the Montgomery County League title race as the first series ends and the second half race gets under way Wednesday.

Firemen Have Scored Notable Victories.

In addition to their list of victims in the Montgomery County League, the Firemen have trounced the Company C., Walter Reed, McLean A. C. and other strong teams. They have bowed by close margins to the Fadco, Stewart Bros. and Naval Air Station teams.

Starting the season as a new team, the Firemen have gradually developed a smooth-running machine, with Toler and Henley in the forward berths; Buckingham, former Tech High pivot, at center, and Hirst and Drake, in defensive roles. Long, Harries, Smith and Lund round out the squad. Garrett Waters has recently taken over the managerial role from Hirst, who will devote his time to playing only.

Two Games in League.

Two games are scheduled for the Firemen in the Montgomery County League this week. Wednesday night the Gaithersburg Five will be met, and the Woodside A. C. will be engaged Saturday night. Both of these games are scheduled for the Takoma Fire Department Gym. The Firemen plan to keep as busy as possible until the tournment gets under way on March 10. They have the Takoma Gym available tomorrow night and would like to book a game with any A. A. U. team. Manager Waters will accept challenges at Georgia 3466. The Firemen are scheduled to play in the league on Wednesday and Saturday nights until March 5.

DUKE U. FIVE DRILLS FOR LOYOLA

Special to The Washington Post.

DURHAM, N. C., Feb. 2.—Duke's next home game is scheduled to attract the largest crowd that has ever witnessed a game in the Duke Gym here. On February 13, the Devils meet the Loyola Team, of Chicago, in an important intersectional tilt.

The Loyola Five is one of the outstanding teams in America. They have been through two seasons undefeated and were well on their way to another clear record until upset by Purdue recently. This year the Chicagoans arranged a schedule so that if they had a successful season, they can claim the national basket ball title.

Four games separate Duke and this tilt. The Devils meet Wake Forest at Raleigh Tuesday night, State at Raleigh a week from today, and on February 10 they tackle Davidson at Charlotte. The following night South Carolina will be met at Columbia. They will have a day of rest at that time before meeting the Loyola Five.

Devils to Pit Speed, Deception Against High Passes.

Speed will clash with speed when Duke meets Loyola. The Devils rely on speed and deception while the Chicago team plays a passing game, high above the floor, as all the members of the team are tall. Their entire approach to the basket takes place in passing the ball, members of the team rarely ever resorting to dribbling.

The team that Loyola brings to Durham will be one that has played together two years. They pass into spaces, because the other members of the team so time their speed that they arrive simultaneously with the ball.

Co. F Tossers Upset Brentwood Hawks

The Brentwood Hawk tossers, leaders in the Prince Georges County League were handed their first defeat of the season yesterday in the Hyattsville Armory when Company F won 20 to 17. The Hawks led until the last few minutes of play when the Guardsmen suddenly rallied.

In another league game, the Dor-A tossers kept pace with Company F in a tie for second, by easily defeating Mount Rainier, 42 to 13. Lewis, of the winners, had a field day, scoring 17 points.

Maj. Horace L. Piper, veteran life saver, began a series of lectures in the District schools.

Brookland Citizens Association passed a resolution supporting the plea of teachers for pay raises.

Visitor to the city was drugged and robbed by two men. He took a drink which they offered him and lapsed into unconsciousness, he said.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

WEIGHT AND ITS EFFECT.

BEING overweight has many disadvantages, although these vary according to age, sex, and station in life. When children are fat or considerably overweight for height, age, body build, and nationality they are generally suffering from some abnormality of a ductless gland. The obesity may be the only sign of such abnormality, but oftentimes it is enough. Fat children and obesity in young men and women lessens the danger of tuberculosis, but, on the other hand, the disturbance of the ductless gland function and the discomfort due to being fat are at least offsets.

Obesity in people beyond 30 years of age has many disadvantages and there are almost no offsets. The fat man starts his account of disabilities with the item of discomfort. With many this item looms so large that it alone makes out a satisfactory case against obesity.

The discomfort takes the form of painful feet, leg cramps due to fatigue, lack of wind and endurance, various skin disorders, and the discomforts peculiar to hot weather. Obesity very greatly increases the likelihood of diabetes and the obese diabetic is in greater danger of coma and gangrene.

If anything were needed to complete the case against obesity, the diabetes record would serve. The obese man or woman has an increased liability to high blood pressure. He has more than his share of tendency to heart disease, myocardial degeneration, and Bright's disease. A large proportion of people beyond 40 years of age have either gall stones or infected gall bladder, or both. The obese have more than their share of gall bladder disease, with the sequent symptoms commonly called dyspepsia, acidity, and flatulence.

Obese persons do not stand anesthetics and operations well. They are prone to go under during the operation itself, and to develop acidosis afterward. Obese women are not prone to bear children. And, finally, the insurance companies either refuse to insure the obese or else they charge them extra.

BOILS, CAUSE AND TREATMENT.

C. P. P. writes: What can I do to get rid of boils? When one goes another comes. Just now I have three on the back of my neck. What causes this?

REPLY.

The immediate cause of boils is infection of an area of the deep skin with staphylococcus. In some places the health department supplies a phage for the treatment of boils.

Otherwise, keep the skin very clean and free from irritation. The underlying cause may be too much sugar in the blood. This calls for a diet that is poor in sugar and starch.

SHARP PRICE UPTURN MARKS CURB'S SALES

Business Improvement and Easier Credit Help Market's Rise.

AVIATION SHARES RALLY

New York, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—A sharp upturn in prices, accompanied by a broadening of activity, featured trading on the New York Curb Exchange last week. Indications of easing credit conditions and a further improvement in general business, coupled with a revival of investment buying, provided the background for the advance, which embraced all leading groups of stocks.

Public utility issues, which had encountered strong selling resistance since the first of the year, suddenly bounded upward under the leadership of Electric Bond & Share, which was marked up nearly 10 points to 95¼, and closed near the top. Allied Power & Light, American Superpower, American & Foreign Power warrants, American Light & Traction and other popular issues in that group advanced in sympathy. Steadily expanding earnings of the leading operating companies and reports of a settlement of differences among the leading group corporations stimulatd the demand.

Oils also showed several points of strength despite the unsettled price situation and the increasing volume of reserve stocks of crude and refined products. Aviation shares, which have been under rather steady pressure for the past few months because of disappointing earnings and reduced estimates of 1930 sales, rallied on short covering.

Strength of investment trust, trading and holding corporation shares reflected the share increase in the market value of their security holdings since the November break. Most of the leaders continued to sell below the net asset value as shown in the year-end balance sheets.

Deere & Co. recorded a spectacular gain to within a small fraction of the 1929 record price on the announcement of a 5-for-1 stock split-up, and the publication of an unusually favorable earnings report. Butler Bros. sank to a new low on the announcement that dividends would be omitted for the balance of 1930. The new Republic Steel Corporation stock was admitted to trading, following the announcement of the merger terms, but ran into selling which carried it several points below the initial quotation.

Class A common stock of the Automatic Musical Instrument Company was admitted to trading on Saturday. General Theaters Equipment was transferred to the "Big Board," and Wall street heard reports that application had been made to transfer Electric Bond & Share to the New York Stock Exchange.

Fifth Ave. Fashions
NEW YORK

A SLENDERIZING model in black silk crepe that shows smart lingerie note in deep ecru lace revers and flaring cuffs.

It adopts princess silhouette with lovely swathed movement through the waist that makes it so entirely suitable for larger woman.

The long-waisted bodice overlaps at front in surplice effect which breaks the breadth. The back of dress is very straight and slim. A kilted plaited flounce with pointed treatment at front takes a downward tendency toward back, providing interesting low placed fulness, to keep its sleek slender line.

Style No. 8216 is designed in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust. In the medium size, it takes but 3⅝ yards of 39-inch material with ¾ yard of 32-inch contrasting.

It makes up splendidly in dark brown crepe satin using the reverse of the crepe for revers and flaring cuffs.

Midnight blue canton crepe self-rimmed, printed rayon crepe in dark brown and yellow-beige geometric pattern with eggshell, dark dahlia purple silk crepe, and feather weight tweed in dark green tones with the revers and flaring cuffs of faille silk crepe in blending tone are ever so smart.

All patterns of Lucille Lorraine styles are 15 cents each. Mail your order to our Fashion Department, Washington Post, 259 Fifth avenue, New York City. Be sure to write your name and address clearly and give the number and size of the pattern.

With an elaborate program, the Parent Teacher Association of the Matthew Fontaine Maury School will celebrate the thirty-third anniversary of the founding of the organization in America Thursday night at the schoolhouse in Clarendon at 8 o'clock.

Dr. P. M. Chichester, county health officer, will address the meeting on the features of the tuberculosis campaign which the health department has launched in the county.

Other features of the program will be a tribute paid to the founder of the organization, Mrs. Birney, by Mrs. G. N. Dagger; an address by the president, Mrs. Shawhan; an outline of the history of the Parent-Teacher Association by the past president, John W. Palmer, and a number of songs to be sung by pupils of the school.

The program will conclude with a silver offering, the money to go to the State association.

All patrons interested in the work of the association and especially all past officers, are asked to attend.

Plans for launching a united drive for a high school to be located in the vicinity of Virginia Highlands and Aurora Hills to replace the George Mason School, will be the principal business before the monthly meeting of the Virginia Highlands Citizens Association to be held tonight in the Jefferson District Firemen's Hall at 8 o'clock.

Supported by the action of the county board of supervisors, who at the last meeting, voted to recommend to the county school board that a high school be built in that section, the citizens feel confident of success.

The association believes that it is unreasonable to force the children from that section of the county to the Washington-Lee High School, which now is more than overcrowded. It is also stated by supporters of the movement that with a high school located in that section, a large majority of those now attending the Washington schools will remain in the county.

The matter is being carefully studied by the county school board.

Dr. P. M. Chichester, county health officer, will be the principal speaker of the radio program which is announced for Thursday night over station WJSV, of Mount Vernon Hills, Va. Dr. Chichester will speak in the interest of the campaign being waged in Arlington County by the health department against tuberculosis. Miss Marion Gray, of Richmond, Va., field worker and organizer from the State Tuberculosis Association of Richmond, will also speak.

A feature of the program will be a musical selection to be presented by the Glee Club of Arlington Hall College for Girls, located in Arlington County.

Miss Gray announces the following mass meetings to be held during the week: Tomorrow night, Robert E. Lee Parent-Teacher Association, at Leeway, on the Lee highway; Wednesday night, Bon Air and Veitch Parent-Teacher Association; Thursday night, Seagmuller Parent-Teacher Association; and on Friday night there will be a special meeting of the campaign committee held in the rooms of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce in the Rees Building at Clarendon at 8 o'clock. The speakers will be Miss Gray and Dr. P. M. Chichester.

The executive committee of the Clarendon Woman's Association Temperance Union will hold a special meeting tomorrow night at the home of Mrs. Ethel M. Gregory, 115 Woodstock street, Clarendon. The meeting will be held at 8 o'clock.

The Edward Douglas White Council, Knights of Columbus, at its meeting to be held Wednesday night in the auditorium of St. Charles School, will consider further plans for the minstrel show to be given early in March. Rehearsals are now being held each Tuesday and Friday night. Eugene Shreve is general chairman in charge of the arrangements.

The Arlington County Civic Federation will hold its monthly meeting tomorrow night in the Lyon Park Community House at 8 o'clock, with President William C. Hull presiding.

It was learned yesterday that plans are under way for the introduction of a resolution calling upon Arlington County's representatives in the Virginia General Assembly to introduce a special bill affecting Arlington County whereby taxpayers will be permitted to pay their taxes in biannual payments.

The County Health Department announces the preschool dental clinics for the month of February as follows: Clarendon Health Center, Tuesday, February 4, and Cherrydale Health Center, Thursday, February 6. The hours are from 9 to 12 in the morning and from 1 to 4 in the afternoon.

The department urges parents to place children at 3 years of age and over under dental supervision and to repeat this inspection regularly every three months.

Arlington Lodge, No. 193, I. O. O. F. will hold its meeting in the Odd Fellows Hall at Clarendon tomorrow night, at which time a large class of candidates will receive their first degrees.

The Business and Professional Woman's Club of Arlington County have completed plans for the 500 and bridge party to be given the night of February 12 in the Boulevard Bakery at Clarendon.

Election of officers of the Missionary Society of the Mount Olivet Methodist Church of Ballston will be the principal business to come before the meeting to be held Wednesday night at the church. The business meeting will follow the weekly prayer service.

The capital stock of the company is to be $20,000 divided into 10,000 common and 2,000 shares at $5 per share 6 per cent preferred stock.

CENTURY IS PASSED BY RANDOLPH-MACON

SCHOOL FOUNDED IN 1830

Ashland, Va., Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Randolph-Macon College will round out its first century tomorrow. 100 years since the General Assembly granted its charter on February 3, 1830.

Granting of the charter is to be formally celebrated next fall for the school, which was to be "a seminary of learning for the instruction of youth in the various branches of science and literature, the useful arts, agriculture and the learned and foreign languages."

Although it is not generally known, the original bill before the General Assembly would have chartered "Henry and Macon College," according to T. M. Simpson, jr., alumni secretary. The bill was amended to substitute the name of Randolph for that of Henry, and thus the college was given the names of two of the most prominent and popular men in the political life of the time.

Randolph-Macon was located originally at Boydton in Mecklenburg County. The auspices under which the college was established were those of the Virginia Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, which at that time included a large part of North Carolina. Randolph-Macon was the first of the colleges established by the Methodists in the South and is by its charter date the oldest Methodist college in the world.

Chartered in 1830, the college began its work in 1832 and until the Civil War disrupted its student body it carried on its work uninterruptedly, and at the outbreak of the war its endowment was one of the largest in the country, one-fourth that of Yale University at the same date. The war swept away much of the endowment as well as the student body, for the funds had been largely invested in Confederate bonds.

When the college reopened in 1866 it was apparent that it could not remain much longer in its location in southern Virginia, as the North Carolina patronage was turning toward newly established colleges in that State. Accordingly, the trustees determined to move the college to a site near Richmond, and the Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac Railroad offered the use of property at Ashland on which were buildings that had been used as a summer resort.

Randolph-Macon moved to Ashland in 1868 and the Baltimore Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South became associated with the Virginia Conference in its patronage. The present president, Dr. Robert Emory Blackwell, was a student of the college in its first year in the new location.

Four other educational institutions besides the college at Ashland are operated under the same charter and are conducted by a joint board of trustees. They are Randolph-Macon Woman's College, Lynchburg, established in 1893; Randolph-Macon Academy, Front Royal, established in 1892; Randolph-Macon Academy, Bedford, established in 1890, and the Randolph-Macon School for Girls, Danville, added to the Randolph-Macon system in 1897.

Va., Friday night from injuries received about the head while coasting near his home. The boy is the son of Earnest Brown, a former resident of this county. Burial will be in the Rockland Cemetery. He is survived by his parents and four sisters and brothers.

The officers are: Mrs. Osceola G. Stafford, president; J. L. Stafford, treasurer, and H. Serkowick, secretary.

The Arlington Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, will hold its monthly meeting tomorrow night at the home of Mrs. S. R. Ryland, 224 Pershing drive, Lyon Park, at 8 o'clock.

The ladies' auxiliary to the Jefferson District Fire Department will meet tomorrow night in the community hall at 8 o'clock at Virginia Highlands.

The monthly meeting of the Columbia Street Citizens Association of Falls Church will be held tonight at the home of the president, E. L. Pinkard.

The Holy Name Society of St. James' Catholic Church of West Falls Church will meet in the parish hall tomorrow night.

Sheriff Gets Bath In Cache of Liquor

Searching Officer Falls Into Leaf-Covered Barrels of Mash.

Winchester, Va., Feb. 2 (A.P.).—A Frederick County deputy sheriff was up to his neck in his work last night. Or at least, according to Sheriff Pannett, who told the story today, the junior officer was in nearly that far.

The deputy was looking for a liquor mash cache. He found one, and at the same time put his foot in it. The mash, in barrels, was hidden by a covering of leaves, and the deputy, unawares, walked into it to be immersed in the corny fluid. He was all wet, said Sheriff Pannett, in relating the incident.

The mash, 350 gallons of it, and a 100-gallon still confiscated by the officers, was the property, the sheriff said, of the "Coal Mine Distilling Co.," a group of moonshiners operating in Frederick and Shenandoah counties. Several years ago, he stated, the moonshiners had a sign over their still shack bearing the "company's" name.

Alleged Murderer Dies Before Trial

Was to Face Court in Week in Slaying of Police Informers.

William Bradley, colored, 35 years old, of Dix street near Forty-fourth street northeast, is dead at the District Jail with pneumonia, a week before his scheduled trial here next Monday with three other men on charges of the murder of two police informers here March 13.

Walter Smith, 25 years old, and Clarence Harvey, 27 years old, both colored, were shot in a small alley between G and H streets southwest known as Bear's Gap at 11 o'clock at night, less than half an hour after they had left the Fourth Precinct Station to continue investigations of "numbers game" and liquor activities.

Harvey dropped dead in his tracks, but Smith survived a short while and gave a description of the death car which led to the arrest of Bradley and four other Negroes, one of whom later turned State's evidence. Bradley and three others were indicted and committed to the jail. The three now facing trial are Thomas L. Brown, 19 years old, of Forty-seventh street northwest; Lawrence Bias, 26 years old, of Fairmont Heights, Md., and Theodore Smith, 24 years old, of Annapolis, Md.

Season's Tobacco Sale At Danville $1,703,600

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Feb. 2.—The monthly report of the Danville Tobacco Association, issued yesterday, shows that leaf was sold for $1,724,949 pounds of leaf was solt for $1,703,654.90, the average being $17.58. These figures brought the season total to 46,160,496 pounds, the season average being $18.45. Compared with last season, approximately 1,000,000 more pounds have been sold at an increased price but the average is 20 cents on the 100 lower than last year.

Sales during the past week slackened considerably because of the heavy snowfall. On Thursday approximately 390,000 pounds of weed was sold, but the snowfall of that night prevented farmers bringing their product to market and no sales were conducted yesterday, the market being inactive.

VIRGINIA LIVE STOCK EXPANSION IS SEEN

PRICES SHOW WEAKNESS

Richmond, Va., Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Indications that the livestock industry is entering a period of expansion in response to the favorable conditions of the last few years are reported by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, United States Department of Agriculture, in its statement on the agricultural situation just released.

Despite a reduction in numbers of hogs, more livestock was reported on farms as of January 1 this year compared with January 1 a year ago. The increase in numbers of cattle and sheep more than balances the decrease in hogs and work stock.

The larger supply of farm animals this year had a smaller value than the supply a year ago, being estimated by the bureau at $5,865,000,000 on Januray 1, compared with $6,003,000,000 last January.

Decline in Hogs Production.

"The evidence of some decline in hog production," said the report, "which is supported by the 1929 pig surveys and by reduced slaughterings in the last four months, suggests that the supply of hogs going to commercial slaughter for the marketing year ending with September, 1930, will be somewhat smaller than that of the previous marketing year," according to the report.

"The beef cattle industry, on the other hand, has passed the low point of its production cycle and is now beginning slowly to expand. There is no evidence of very much increase in beef herds as yet, and slaughter in 1930 is expected to be about the same as in 1929. However, cattlemen are confronted by a general tendency to increase numbers of cattle and with the fact that in previous experience such periods of expansion have been accompanied by several years of generally declining prices.

Readjustment for Dairies.

"Dairymen also face a period of readjustment. While an annual increase of about 1 per cent in the number of milk cows is necessary, normally, to balance the growing demand, the number was increased 3 per cent in 1929.

"The present number of heifers, 6 per cent larger than a year ago, is sufficient to cause still further increases in cow numbers in 1930. Probably more calves have been raised in the last two years than can be raised to advantage hereafter. Dairymen who have to buy dairy cows will probably be able to buy replacements at less cost in two or three years than they can now."

GAYETY

A brunette beauty, "Jerrie" McCauley, featured with Jack Reed and his "Record Breakers," holds the spotlight at the Gayety this week. Strutting in flashy costumes which dazzle the audiences, Miss McCauley flashes a form that has made her one of burlesque's most torrid entertainers, and stopps the show on every appearance. "My Man" is Jerrie's big musical number.

JaJck Reed, the veteran humorist, field, character comedian, take care with Charles Smith and Ward Culo fthis line of entertainment in a proficient manner.

The Misses Waters, Allen and Orme, dancing the Cinderella number, go over big. The three Clark sisters, singing and dancing, and showing exceptional musical ability, come in for much applause. A scene dominated by the veteran Reed and Comic Caulfield, is well liked. Jack Ryan, straight man, is feeder in chief to the comics. Don Shaw, a clever soubrette, puts forth some nifty dancing. A chorus of exceptionally good-looking girls complete a regular Reed production.

A couple more big nights this week will be put forth by Manager Jimmy Lake; Wednesday, auction, and Friday, amateur night.

THE NEW WEEK'S BILLS

EARLE

By NELSON B. BELL

Just as "Rio Rita" was translated to the screen with all of its distinctly musical comedy attributes, many of which become faults on the silver sheet, intact, to provide one of the most sensational successes of the new era of the cinema, so has this other Ziegfeld stage triumph been converted into an even more diverting entertainment and more fabulous spectacle to take such rank as the peer of any stage production of its type yet picturized with sound.

"Sally," furthermore, has the advantage of the presence in the cast of the original star and leading man of the stage version, supported by an admirable roster of principals and a more numerous ensemble than any ordinary stage could accommodate.

The story, dealing with the highly imaginative experiences of an ambitious young waitress who becomes the star of the Ziegfeld "Follies," is important only as a framework upon which to drape an astonishing number of magnificent embellishments. That is to say, over and above the equally consequential function of permitting Marilyn Miller, most gossamery of our ballerinas, to transfer to the articulate cinema those abundant talents that have made her one of the transcendent artistes of the light musical stage.

Miss Miller, incidentally, is a no less dominant personality before the lenses and microphones than it was upon the boards. She definitely takes her place among the most adequately equipped of the studios' singing and dancing stars. Alexander Gray also scores effectively opposite Miss Miller. Both voices—Miss Miller's, by the way, having taken on much power, range and clarity since those early days when it was the husky counterpart of Bessie McCoy's throaty organ—record excellently. Miss Miller's versatility as a dancer is given full scope in the modest opening scenes of the picture as well as in the sequences devoted to the prodigious garden party given on the Long Island estate of Mrs. Ten Brock, where the action progresses in most extraordinary fashion on three levels of vision.

The picturesque and romantic elements, however, are no more stressed than the comic. Developments are vastly enlivened by such competent buffons as Joe E. Brown, in the role originally played by Leon Errol, whom he does not attempt to ape; Ford Sterling, as Shendorff; T. Roy Barnes, a comedian whose methods are of a little higher velocity than most others, as the theatrical booking agent, and Jack Duffy, as the nonogenarian stage door "John." Others of importance among the principals include Maude Turner Gordon, Pert Kelton, Cissy Fitzgerald, Nora Lane and E. J. Ratcliffe, whom I steadfastly believe to be the worst actor on the screen.

The Technicolor treatment in the main is artistic and productive of many superbly beautiful scenes, although in occasional closeups sudden waves of green endow the players with the momentary appearance of violent mal de mer. The recording is of a consistently high order of merit and I am sure, nothing more lovely than the butterfly ballet has found its way to the public view.

Of such a superlative character is the major feature that the newsreel is the only screen auxiliary. The orchestra offers an enthusiastically applauded overture of song hits that were contemporaneous with "Sally," each number being announced through the loud speaker by Milton Davis, with the choruses of "Sleep" and "Smiles" sung by the Dawson Brothers with fine effect.

COLUMBIA

"CHASING RAINBOWS." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer talking, singing and dancing picture, with Technicolor sequences, featuring Bessie Love and Charles King, supported by Marie Dressler and Jack Benny. Directed by Charles F. Riesner. Reviewed Saturday night by Mary Porter Russell.

The stars of "Broadway Melody" are here again in a picture that will remind you not only of that pioneer among the singing-dancing films but of countless numbers of backstage productions that have come and gone since its record-breaking run of months ago. Its well known plot will stimulate neither your imagination nor any other form of mental activity. Yet it has Bessie Love, about whose fitness for the role of a game little trouper there can be no dissension, and it has Marie Dressler, the clown irresistible.

Miss Dressler, in the process of running away with the comedy honors of the piece, enacts a drunken scene that is pricelessly funny, while Miss Love manages to inject a few moments of real drama into the story through the hysterical, heart-broken laughter with which she receives word of her partner's marriage to the scheming leading lady of the touring troupe.

Yes, the central characters are partners, the feminine half of the team possessing all the virtues of the perfect woman, with stress on understanding and patience, and the masculine half a conceited nit-wit who tortures her devoted eyes by displaying his affections for others in a series of love illnesses which culminate in the disastrous marriage. Then, when he realizes his folly and sinks weakly in despair, she lifts him to her side again for happy days ahead. We told you it was just another one.

The saving graces, in addition to the presence of Miss Love and Miss Dressler, who is aided and abetted in her antics by Polly Moran, are an excellent performance by Jack Benny as the stage manager, some effective Technicolor sequences and numerous logically introduced comedy numbers and songs, the latter including "Love Ain't Nothing but the Blues," in which Marjorie Joesting appears briefly, and the rather tuneful selection for the finale, "Happy Days Are Here." "Lucky Me and Lovable You" is sung by Charles King on several occasions, once in a hotel bedroom, as was his big song in "Broadway Melody." This time the accompaniment is thoughtfully accounted for by the turning on of a victrola, an incident which may be used as an example of the improvements the present film offers in minor respects over its famous predecessor. George K. Arthur and Gwen Lee appear in bits, more important supporting roles falling to the hands of Nita Martan and Eddie Phillips.

An exceptionally interesting issue of the Hearst Metrotone News brings messages from delegates to the Naval Conference in London. The only other auxiliary, less seriously bent, presents Harry Langdon in "The Fighting Parson," a Hal Roach comedy of the slapstick variety.

Red Cross Needs Typewriter.

An appeal for the donation of a used typewriter was issued yesterday by the District Red Cross headquarters, 1730 E street northwest. The Junior Red Cross unit makes hundreds of menu cards for special use aboard battleships, it was said.

PALACE

"THE BISHOP MURDER CASE." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer all-talking screen version of the S. S. Van Dine novel, adapted by Lenore J. Coffee and directed by Nick Grinde and David Burton. Basil Rathbone featured as Philo Vance, supported by Leila Hyams, Alec B. Francis Roland Young and star cast. Reviewed Saturday night.

Most adroitly executed of all the adapted murder mysteries, this one may safely be guaranteed to keep the spectator gripping the arms of his chair. Patterned after the familiar S. S. Van Dine formula, this latest of the shudder-and-shake dramas to reach the local screen is not content to employ so modest an allotment as one crime to baffle an audience, but after the initial murder that enlists the deductive faculties of Philo Vance introduces four additional deaths, almost before the very eyes of the chilled and thrilled auditor, to make complete his befuddlement as to the identity of the slayer.

This would be nothing more salutary than lurid penny-dreadful stuff were it not elevated to a high plane of artistry by as notable a cast as the season is apt to bring forth. Basil Rathbone, remembered for a particularly facile bit as leading man with Norma Shearer in "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney," one of the most delightful of the all-talkies, is a terse, authoritative and engaging Philo Vance, whose skill as a logician seems not incompatible with his convincing deportment as a gentleman of education to whom the social graces were by no means foreign. Leila Hyams is the distraught young woman in the case and plays her part excellently. Zelda Sears, Bodil Rosing and Nelly Bly Baker appear as the only other feminine characters of consequence.

Among the numerous victims of sudden death and those suspected of the killings, particularly able performances are offered by Roland Young, Alec B Francis and George Marion, the last named assuming the character role of Adolph Drukker, of a type he plays, perhaps, better than any one else in the theater. Other portrayals scarcely less impressive in proportion to the opportunities afforded, are contributed by Carroll Nye, Charles Quartermaine, James Donlan, Sydney Bracey, Clarence Geldert and Delmar Daves.

The recording, photography and direction reflect a high development of mechanical and interpretative skill.

On the stage, the "Laceland" revue is principally notable for the presence of Lou Holtz as master of ceremonies and entertainer. Mr. Holtz, one of the favorite clowns of the musical stage, is a richly amusing dialectician and raconteur and a balladist of no mean attainment. He evidently deems "A Sweetheart's Holiday" his vocal piece de resistance, but I am not sure that the audience did not decide it was a revamped version of his "O, Sole Mio," sung to the accompaniment of a guitar strung with rubber bands.

Next to Mr. Holtz, the Pearl Twins are the show stoppers. These seductive sirens, fashioning their songs and dances after the Parisian manner of the Dolly Sisters, or the Sisters G, are very continental, indeed, if you know what I mean. An unnamed young comedian who aided Mr. Holtz momentarily, the Chester Hale Girls and the Dolores, Douglas and Eddy adagio team complete the personnel of this breezy Loew unit.

The Hearst Metrotone News, the pit orchestra and Mr. Gaige's organ interludes complete the bill. N. B. B.

METROPOLITAN

"THE SACRED FLAME." Warner Bros. talking picture, from the play by W. Somerset Maugham. Cast includes Pauline Frederick, Conrad Nagel, Lila Lee, Walter Byron, William Courtney, Alec B. Francis and Dale Fuller. Directed by Archie Mayo. Reviewed Sunday afternoon by C. Ransom.

Thus far there has been no more notable example than this of the talking screen applying itself seriously to the task of producing drama. This does not mean necessarily that it points the best way for the talkies to progress, or that it is among the highest achievements in the new medium. It is one kind of thing that the screen must learn to do well, but probably not the biggest or most vital thing. It makes too little use of the sweeping powers of movement and vision that give the films their peculiar privileges.

"The Sacred Flame" shuns these privileges and confines itself to unfolding the tense and moving emotions of a family group, writhing under a bludgeoning stroke of chance. It is a somber story, simple and straightforward, seeking the depths of life, and unrelieved by any impertinent humors. A press agent who would describe it as a murder mystery (and one did) should be deprived of his copy paper. It is true that there is a murder and a moment of doubt about who committed it, but you might as well call "Macbeth" a crook drama.

Not that Mr. Maugham has earned a seat with the immortal William. His lines are written with sincerity and point, but do not exactly sparkle. He has built up a baffling life problem for his people, one that is common enough to appeal to every one, but the solution that he proposes is more shocking than convincing. A young Englishman, soldier and flier, is crippled in a flying field accident as he is about to leave with his bride of that day. Three years later we find him still confined to his wheel chair, cheerful but secretly hopeless. His young wife is devoted to him, but on the arrival of her husband's brother from South America nature asserts itself. The wife and brother plan flight together, but on the eve of their departure the crippled husband dies of an overdose of sleeping tablets. A prudish nurse, in love with her patient, accuses his wife and reveals her planned elopement. Here the mother of the two brothers steps forward with vigorously expressed sympathy for the young wife's predicament, and finally with confession.

Nobility of sacrifice, repression of self in the interest of the unfortunate, devotion to the ideal of service, prevailing in the development of the drama, give way abruptly in the climax to an action which, no matter how carefully and plausibly defended, still shows itself as definitely ignoble. Incredible, too, in a mother.

Technically the production is nearly perfect. Pauline Frederick, as the mother, gives a superb performance. Conrad Nagel is the cripple, acceptable as he always is, but perhaps not at his best. Lila Lee is admirable as the wife. The brother, the nurse, the doctor and an elderly major complete the intimate group of well-played characters.

The feature runs for only an hour, and the remaining interval has been filled with an unusually good variety of short numbers. More news pictures than usual are shown. A "Mickey, the Mouse," cartoon offers very welcome hilarity. Martinelli, the famous tenor, sings two arias from "Il Trovatore."

"NIX ON DAMES." Fox dialogue, song and dance picture, story and dialogue by Maude Fulton, with Mae Clarke, Robert Ames and William Harrison featured. Directed by Donald Gallaher. Reviewed Sunday afternoon.

This is not another backstage story only because most of its action takes place in a theatrical boarding house and none of it in a playhouse. The characters are all of the stage, the dialogue is all in the vernacular of the varieties and the atmosphere wholly that of the theater, despite the fact that the principals are all off duty. Moreover, it is a thoroughly entertaining yarn, dramatic when need be, stuffed tight with comedy almost its entire length, enlivened by many songs and dances and spiked with thrills at the end.

The pivotal characters are a team of male acrobats, forced to lay off by a severe shoulder injury to one of them, and a feminine "single" they meet at Stella Foster's boarding house in New York. When she unwittingly and unknowingly causes a fight between the two, just as they are about to begin a season of 46 weeks, and the bad shoulder is injured again, the old team of Wills and Brown is broken up, but not a stanch friendship that has grown bigger than that through the years. A simple enough story, but one that is rich in atmospheric detail and that elusive quality that somehow reveals the spirit of the trouper.

Robert Ames and William Harrigan do a grand job as the acrobats, and the girl is impersonated with complete charm by Mae Clarke, who takes every advantage of opportunities to disclose an unsuspected versatility far greater than was afforded her in "Big Time" with Lee Tracy. Miss Clarke is endowed with that rare faculty of creating a maximum of favorable impression with a minimum of apparent effort—which is probably what they call personality.

Maude Fulton and George MacFarlane are the keepers of the boarding house that shelters a bizarre assortment of "artists," including the inevitable ventriloquist and a trainer of dog acts. Camille Rovelle, Grace Wallace, Hugh McCormack, Benny Hall and Gilly Colvin are prominent in the support and a Negro chorus is led by Louise Beaver during the costume party which the actors "at liberty" stage for their own amusement.

The "Femme Follies," this week's Fanchon and Marco "idea," is precisely that, no masculine participant appearing throughout the length of the revue. The stage band is a feminine organization of eleven members, led by Miriam Hoffman, who also acts as mistress of ceremonies. Those she introduces are the Six English Tivoli Girls, dancing ensemble; the Vercell Sisters, a stunning blonde and brunette from Earl Carrolls "Vanities;" Hatt & Herman, bounding gymnasts; Mlle. Noree, an unbelievably supple acrobatic dancer and contortionist; Mary Marlowe, in character songs and impersonations, and the Lucille Sisters, in an imitation of the Duncan Sisters in "Topsy and Eve."

Alexander Callam, in a brief personal appearance, sings "On the Road to Mandalay" as well as you are apt to hear it sung, and the orchestra, under Mr. Brusiloff, plays as its overture a special arrangement of Kreisler compositions during which "Schoen Marin" is played as a flute solo, "The Old Refrain" as a brass quartet and the "Caprice Viennois" by the first violin section.

The Fox Movietone News completes the entertainment, unless Clark & McCullough, in "The Music Fiends," are dropped in again at the first and "supper" shows. N. B. B.

RIALTO

"THE PHANTOM OF THE OPERA." A Universal reissue of Gaston Leroux's story, with dialogue by Frank McCormack, featuring Lon Chaney, supported by Mary Philbin and Norman Kerry. Directed by Rupert Julian. Reviewed Saturday night (second week) by W. A. Whitney.

A characterization by the master of make-up, Lon Chaney, played against a background of Gounod's immortal opera "Faust," should alone be sufficient for holding "The Phantom of the Opera" a second week. And it is!

Taking the original silent release of the picture as the basis for a film built around the Paris Opera House, Universal has built up a weird story coupled with the innate beauty and tunefulness of that famous opera.
